TWISTERS RIP PATH THROUGH THREE STATES

Nebraska Reports Trio Killed and Score Hurt in Tekamah.

HEAVY DAMAGE DONE IN 100-YARD SWATH

Kansas and Missouri Also Suffer Severely From Tornado.

SWITCHBOARD GIRL SPREADS WARNING

Darkness and Destruction of Lines Hides Extent of Storm Toll.

Omaha, Nebr., May 1 (A.P.).—A number of lives were feared lost and heavy property damage done by a tornado which swept a path of destruction through nearly a dozen northeastern Nebraska towns late today.

Telephone and telegraph communication was almost completely severed, and as darkness descended over the stricken area the complete toll of lives and property was a matter for speculation.

The funnel-shaped wind cloud, striking near Homer and cutting a swath 100 yards wide, charted a jagged course that included the towns of Jackson, Winnebago, Pender, Bancroft, Walthill, and, according to unconfirmed reports, Tekamah.

Town Reported Demolished.

First reports received here were that three persons were killed and scores injured at Tekamah and that the town had been almost demolished. Tekamah had a population of more than 1,800 when the last census was taken.

Pender, a town of 992, also was reported hard hit. Airplanes were immediately dispatched to the storm area from Sioux City, Iowa.

The telephone operator at Tekamah, describing the fury of the storm, said its approch was heralded by an ominous roar which enabled many to flee to their storm cellars and other places of refuge before it struck.

Report by Operator.

The twister resembled a black whirling cylinder, which at times appeared to rise high above the ground only to dip again and snap off roofs, telephone poles and trees, the operator said.

The section struck is about 75 miles north of Omaha and about 20 miles southwest of Sioux City, Iowa. As this is a rich farming section, damage to crops and farm property was believed to be extensive.

Some reports received here were to the effect that two separate storms struck the area a few minutes apart. Meteorologists here, however, were of the opinion the dipping and lifting of one twister had led to this impression.

Hurtles Missouri River.

After leveling a path through northeastern Nebraska, the tornado hurtled the Missouri River 5 miles northeast of Saliz, Iowa. Swooping down on a wooded section on the east side of the river, the twister is reported to have destroyed scores of acres of timber.

With no apparent abatement, the tornado headed into a sparsely settled farming community to the east.

All means of communication between Pender and Omaha were destroyed by the storm. A local telegraph office which reported it was conversing with a lineman near Pender when the storm struck said the information they had received before the line was broken was that the town was demolished by the storm.

At Tekamah the telephone operator stated that three had been killed. Nearly 100 were injured, many seriously, the operator declared.

Storm Moves Slowly.

The storm, striking five miles northwest of Homer, missed the town by a quarter of a mile. It moved so slowly that all persons in its path, it was said, were able to escape, although the twister left a trail of wrecked buildings.

One family, seeing the storm approaching, was able to find safety in the home of a neighbor a mile away, so slowly did the tornado move. Their own home, however, was destroyed.

Mrs. Millie Lathrop, Homer telephone operator, who won the Vail medal for her bravery during the flood at Homer several years ago, was again a heroine today. Notified of the approach of the storm, she telephoned every family she could reach in the path of the twister and warned them to seek safety.

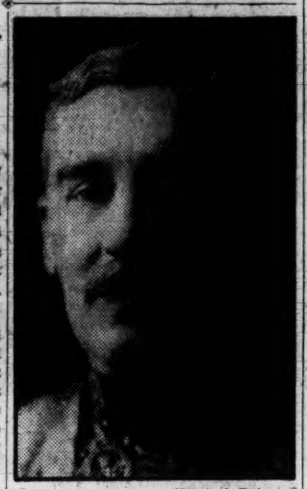
Dry British Embassy To Be Thing of Past

New Ambassador to Resume Liquor Importation for Staff.



Harris & Ewing.
SIR RONALD LINDSAY.

(Associated Press.)

Officials of the British Embassy said yesterday importation of liquor by the embassy for the official and personal use of the ambassador and the embassy staff, stopped some months ago by the former ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, before his retirement, is to be resumed.

One of the first questions asked the new ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsey, on his arrival in New York from England to assume his post at Washington, was what his attitude would be on the question of the use of liquor at the British Embassy here.

He was not prepared to make a reply at the time, he said, feeling that it was a question to which he should give some study.

After having given careful study to the question, embassy officials said Sir Ronald had reached the conclusion the matter was entirely a personal one, not affecting the action of anyone else or diplomatic privilege. Therefore, they said, the importation of liquor into the United States for the use of the ambassador and the members of the embassy staff would be resumed.

Liquor will be served at social functions given by the ambassador in the embassy on any such occasions as he may desire in accordance with the custom which has prevailed heretofore.

TARIFF BILL REPORT IS PASSED BY HOUSE

Republicans Triumph Over Opposition; Defeat Free Entry of Cement.

SENATE ACTION IS NEXT

(Associated Press.)

Running roughshod over Democratic opposition, House Republicans won adoption of the tariff bill conference report yesterday, 241 to 152, and then proceeded to strike from the measure, by a vote of 221 to 167, the Senate provision to permit free entry of cement intended for public works by State and municipal governments.

The report, approved after four hours of heated debate, embraced all the rates and administrative provisions upon which the two houses reached an agreement in conference. The Senate has yet to act on the report.

Only five major rates were left unsettled in the report. The House disposed of one of these by concurring in the Senate rate of 6 cents a hundred pounds on cement and receding from its own 8-cent levy.

By refusing, however, to accept the amendment of Senator Blease (Democrat), South Carolina, to exempt from duty cement imported by or for sale to State, county and municipal governments, the House forced another vote on this proposition in the Senate.

The other four important rates still in disagreement are sugar, silver, lumber and shingles. Separate votes will be taken on these today, and House Republican chieftains hope to complete action on the measure by the week-end with ballots on the export debenture, modified flexible tariff and Tariff Commission reorganization proposals carried in the Senate bill.

Both Republicans and Democrats joined in a determined drive for the Blease amendment.

Representative Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, asserted the domestic cement industry was a monopoly and that imports, competition with which was felt only along narrow seaboard strips, amounted to but 1 1-100 per cent of domestic production last year.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, also favored the exemption amendment. He said a new group affiliated with the Mellon interests and headed by George S. Davison, former president of the Gulf Oil Co., was setting up a cement plant

TREATY SUBMITTED, HEARINGS DUE SOON

Foreign Relations and Naval Affairs Committees to Act Next Week.

PUBLIC SESSIONS URGED

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The London naval treaty has now been submitted to the Senate for ratification and the anticipated thorough study of terms of the pact will begin next week at hearings before the foreign relations and naval committees.

President Hoover sent a brief covering message with the text, and Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, moved that the treaty be printed as a public document and referred to his committee. There was no discussion and few senators were on the floor when the treaty was received.

Hearings before the foreign relations committee will be deferred until the committee meets on Wednesday. Secretary Stimson, who headed the American delegation, will probably be the first witness. Other members of the American delegation and naval experts, from within and without the delegation, will probably be heard. Mr. Borah is sympathetically inclined toward the pact, but he will strongly favor a thorough investigation of every feature of the work undertaken at London.

Whether the hearings will be open to the public will be decided on Wednesday. Senator Borah favors public hearings unless there is some valid reason against this procedure.

In case certain matters can only be discussed behind closed doors, Mr. Borah may arrange for public hearings on all matters excepting where the delegation would request executive sessions. Frank and open discussion of the negotiations is bound to feature the public debate on the Senate floor, it is pointed out, and nothing may therefore be gained by withholding information at the hearings on the ground that foreign sensibilities might be ruffled.

Senator Hale, chairman of the naval affairs committee, will also hold hearings before his committee and will begin on Monday with Secretary of the Navy Adams. Admiral Pratt, who headed the American naval advisers at London, will be the next witness and will be followed by Admiral Hilary Jones. Other naval experts, including officers who have re-

LAWYER FLAYS DRY AGENTS AS CROOKED BUNCH

Rice Hooe Hopes to Live Down Erstwhile Bureau Past.

ATTACK LAUNCHED AT HOWELL HEARING

Former Attorney for Prohibition Unit Is Against Bill.

TYDINGS ALSO GIVES OPPOSITION VIEWS

Little Hope for Passage of Measure Entertained, Observers Feel.

A former attorney of the Prohibition Bureau, Rice Hooe, made a sweeping attack on prohibition agents yesterday at a hearing on the Howell bill to make Washington a model dry city.

"I was an attorney in the Prohibition Unit here in Washington," he declared. "I have since, I hope, lived that down.

"Prohibition agents are the biggest bunch of crooks I have ever met in my life. Very few would I believe on oath. I never went into court to defend one that he wasn't guilty of the offense with which he was charged."

Opposes Howell Bill.

Mr. Hooe, now an attorney for the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction League, appeared before the Senate District committee to oppose the Howell bill, especially that provision of it under which private homes to which liquor had been delivered might be raided.

Joining the witness in the attack, Senator Millard Tydings, wet Democrat, of Maryland, opposed not only this home-raid provision but also the very keystone of the structure, the provision which would give all Washington policemen the powers of prohibition agents.

"We have had three murders in Washington," Senator Tydings declared. "The policemen ought to be free to focus their attention on such major crimes and should not be used to go around spying on people who probably are doing nothing more harmful than brewing a little beer. To make them all prohibition agents would be to reduce the efficiency of the force."

Vote on Bill Deferred.

"It would cause a greater amount of graft and a lessening enforcement of other laws."

Chairman Capper had planned to have his committee vote on the Howell bill at the end of the meeting, but when that time came only he, Senator Tydings, and Senator Robsion (Republican), of Kentucky, were present. A quorum being lacking, the vote had to be postponed.

Other means failing, Chairman Capper will try to poll the committee and determine what his colleagues want to do about the bill. The Kansas senator is particularly anxious to have a showdown on the bill because of the interest of President Hoover, who now has recommended an enforcement act for the National Capital no less than three times.

However, there is little prospect for

DIXON'S LETTER TIGHTENS FIGHT ON J. J. PARKER

Forces of Administration Admit Note Is Worst Blow Received.

BRINGS POLITICAL FACTORS TO OPEN

Supporters of Nomination Make Gains, but Lack Votes.

SENATOR FROM OHIO JOINS PARTY LINE

McCullough Concludes That He Was Appointed to Back President.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The administration has made some gains in the Senate fight over Judge John J. Parker, but is still considerably short of a sufficient number of votes for confirmation.

A definite administration acquisition yesterday was Senator McCullough, of Ohio, who concluded that after all he had been appointed to support the President.

On the other hand the Dixon letter, exploded Wednesday, had the effect of tightening up the opposition in the Democratic ranks. Administration senators made no secret of the fact that the letter is the worst break they have experienced.

Major Political Stroke.

Mr. Dixon, Assistant Secretary of Interior, wrote to Walter Newton, the President's political secretary, five days after Justice Sanford's death saying that Judge Parker's appointment to the vacancy "if the exigencies permitted" would be a "major political stroke," would do much, in fact, toward holding North Carolina in the Republican column.

The Democrats contended that to ask them to help out now with Judge Parker's confirmation, while administration senators ran out, was tantamount to asking them to turn the Tar Heel State over to the Republicans.

The letter served to bring into the open the political factors that heretofore have been discussed in private.

Negroes Threaten Fess.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, read telegrams from Negro organizations in Ohio openly threatening him with defeat if he voted for confirmation.

Thereupon, Senator Borah took from his pocket a telegram from North Carolina Republicans.

"Republicans of North Carolina deplore your attitude," it read. "We're building a great Republican party in this State and the defeat of Judge Parker will hurt us. Why let a fanatic like Green and colored vote affect you. Stand by us."

Senator Fess agreed that this was "very indiscreet," but said it could not compare with efforts to threaten senators. He said, wickedly, that he did not understand why such a telegram as that should be sent to the senator from Idaho.

Johnson Enters Tilt.

Whereupon, Senator Johnson, of California, came warmly into the tilt with the observation that he and

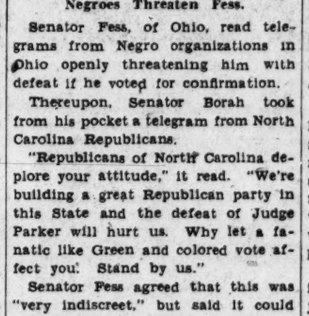
Frances Saul Is Hurt As Mount Stumbles

Suffers Fractured Leg While Training New Saddle Horse.



MISS FRANCES SAUL.

Miss Frances Saul, 25 years old, daughter of the socially prominent Mr and Mrs. John Saul, of 2224 Wyoming avenue northwest, suffered shock and a fracture of the right leg about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when she was thrown from a horse, which stumbled and fell on her leg, at the Wardman Park Saddle Club, Connecticut avenue and Calvert street northwest.

She was removed by Fred Chambers, of 3100 Q street northwest, to Emergency Hospital, where attendants reported her condition as not serious, although she is expected to be confined to her bed for several weeks.

The accident occurred while Miss Saul was training a new gray saddle horse, which she brought here several days ago after its purchase at a farm in nearby Virginia, in anticipation of a benefit horse show Saturday afternoon at the Wardman Park Club to raise funds for the care of blind World War veterans.

In company with several friends, Miss Saul was taking the horse through its gaits when the animal suddenly shied at some unknown object, reared and plunged her to the ground. The mount stumbled and fell on her leg as she sought to crawl out of danger.

Her father, secretary of the well-known real estate and insurance firm of B. F Saul Co., of 925 Fifteenth street northwest, declared that his daughter probably would be confined to the hospital several days before removal to her home.

Oakland Police Fight Reds; 25,000 Parade in New York

Four paraders were taken to hospitals for treatment of injuries inflicted by police batons. Several persons were arrested for questioning. Communist headquarters had been warned that police would break up any parade attempts.

BUSINESS CRISIS PAST, PRESIDENT TELLS U. S. COMMERCE CHAMBER

Text of Hoover's Speech Before Commerce Group

Following is the text of the address made by President Hoover at the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States:

Gentlemen of the United States Chamber of Commerce:

We have been passing through one of those great economic storms which periodically bring hardship and suffering upon our people. While the crash only took place six months ago, I am convinced we have now passed the worst and with continued unity of effort we shall rapidly recover. There is one certainty in the future of a people of the resources, intelligence, and character of the people of the United States—that is, prosperity.

On the occasion of this great storm we have for the first time attempted a great economic experiment, possibly one of the greatest of our history. By cooperation between Government officials and the entire community, business, railways, public utilities, agriculture, labor, the press, our financial institutions and public authorities, we have undertaken to stabilize economic forces; to mitigate the effects of the crash, and to shorten its destructive period.

I believe I can say with assurance that our joint undertaking has succeeded to a remarkable degree, and that it furnishes a basis of great tribute to our people for unity of action in time of national emergency. To those many business leaders present here I know that I express the gratitude of our countrymen.

It is unfortunate, in a sense, that any useful discussion of the problems behind and before us has to be expressed wholly in the cold language

Economic Leaders Receive Thanks for Their Aid Last Fall.

NEW COMMISSION MAY BE APPOINTED

Hoover Avers He Wishes to Have Both Boom and Slump Studied.

CURB ON FARM BOARD ASKED IN CONVENTION

Delegates Oppose Federal Funds' Use in Market Operations.

Confidence that the economic crisis has passed and that the United States is well on the way to renewed prosperity was expressed by President Hoover last night in an address before 3,000 delegates to the United States Chamber of Commerce convention at the Washington Auditorium.

Declaring that "with continued unity of effort we shall rapidly recover," the Chief Executive added: "There is one certainty in the future of a people of the resources, intelligence and character of the people of the United States—that is prosperity."

The banquet at which the address was given marked the closing general session of the convention. The President's address was carried to the four corners of this country over the two major radio broadcasting chains.

Business Leaders Thanked.

Thanks to the business leaders of the Nation who cooperated with the Government in stabilizing economic forces following the stock market crash of six months ago were expressed by President Hoover in the preface to his review of the present conditions. The manner in which they came to the rescue before the market was completely wrecked was spoken of an one of the greatest economic experiments in the history of the country.

The President revealed that he intends, after the situation "clears a little," to appoint another commission, if the plan meets with general approval, to conduct an "exhaustive examination" of the whole range of the Nation's experiences under the boom of the past several years and the slump that followed, to evolve ways of achieving greater stabilization in the future.

He scouted the "fatalistic view" that "the means to restrain speculation is beyond the genius of the American people." The commission he has in mind would represent business, economics, labor and agriculture.

Overconfidence Warned Against.

Warning against overconfidence, the Chief Executive said: "He would be a rash man who would state that we can produce the economic millenium, but there is great assurance that America is finding herself upon the road to secure social satisfaction, with the preservation of private industry, initiative, and a full opportunity for the development of the individual."

Attention was called to the acceleration of construction programs during the last few months, to the fact that there have been no substantial reductions in wages, and that the unemployment of the early part of the year is rapidly disappearing.

"We have reason to believe that the total construction will still further expand and we should during 1930 witness a larger gross volume of improvement work than normal," he said.

Farm Board Curb Is Asked.

The principal accomplishment of the Chamber of Commerce during the day yesterday were the adoption of nearly a score of resolutions and the

YOUTHFUL EXPLORER KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Crawford Johnson, Member of Yucatan Expedition, Thrown Under Car.

WAS RIDING MOTORCYCLE

Crawford Johnson, 20, Washington youth who recently explored the Mayan ruins, in Yucatan, died at Georgetown Hospital early last night from injuries received three hours earlier when struck by an automobile on the Mount Vernon highway near the Columbia pike. Milton Fairfax, 17, of Alexandria, Va., who was driving the machine that struck young Johnson, was released on his personal bond to appear in Arlington County Police Court this morning.

Mr. Johnson was riding his motorcycle up the Mount Vernon Highway Hill when it skidded and threw him directly in the path of young Fairfax's car, witnesses said. The front wheels of the machine passed over his body, inflicting a skull fracture and internal injuries. He never regained consciousness.

Mr. Johnson was the son of Charles Hubert Johnson, retired business man, living at 2517 Connecticut avenue. He is survived by his parents and one sister, Miss Ann Johnson, now attending school in Italy. He was the nephew of O. H. P. Johnson, vice president of the National Metropolitan Bank.

After attending St. George's School in Newprt, R. I., young Johnson joined Capt. Bennett's expedition to the Myan ruins in Yucatan. He had written several articles concerning his discoveries and was widely known as an amateur adventurer.

He was taking one of his papers to the home of a relative in Virginia when the accident occurred.

Young Fairfax was driving his mother to Washington when he met Mr. Johnson coming up the hill, in the opposite direction. He told police that the motorcycle apparently skidded sidewise, throwing Mr. Johnson directly in front of the car. A Mr. Benton, who witnessed the accident, corroborated his story of the accident

Mr. Johnson was taken to the hospital by John E. Conway, Arlington County policeman; Walter Sealock and Mr. Benton.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Victor in Illinois Primaries Tells Senate Committee She Spent $252,500.

$24,493 DENEEN TOTAL

Investigation was determined upon yesterday by the Senate campaign funds committee of the $252,500 campaign which Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick told it she waged against Senator Deneen to gain the Illinois Republican seantorial nomination.

Smiling and obliging, Mrs. McCormick left with the committee a thick volume of papers giving an itemized accounting of the $252,500 which she said the contest cost her from her own pocketbook. The committee received it and at an executive session decided to "digest it" before resuming.

However, Chairman Nye said he certainly intended to investigate "thoroughly" the quarter-million dollar campaign and he indicated the committee would go to Illinois for that study in the near future.

Meanwhile, he said, the Pennsylvania senatorial primary in which Senator Grundy and Secretary Davis are battling for the Republican nomination very likely would receive attention early next week.

Senator Deneen, sitting across the committee table yesterday from the woman who defeated him in the Illinois contest early last month, submitted a statement reporting a total cost for his campaign of $24,493.

He carefully divided this into expenditures which candidates are required by law to make and into those which are not compulsory for reporting. This included $10,885 of expenditures required by law to be reported and $14,313 of additional costs.

The largest item in Mrs. McCormick's account was one for $107,518 for "county budgets." Leaning across the table and explaining the details of her voluminous report to committee members, she said this item included costs of setting up organizations throughout the State.

Other principal items were $26,556 for printing, $15,654 for newspaper advertising and $12,432 for postage.

Called to the stand by Chairman Nye, the first woman to win a senatorial nomination read a prepared election of officers. A half dozen addresses were delivered.

Despite the spirited defense made by Government officials on behalf of the Federal farm board, the chamber delegates recommended in a resolution that the board be shorn of its principal powers and that only its privilege of disseminating information be left. The resolution was passed without debate and with only one dissenting speech before the vote.

The resolution said, in part:

"The anticipated benefits to the farming interests as a whole have not been realized. On the contrary, there has been impairment of the marketing structure and prevention of support which otherwise would have been given to the marketing of agricultural products which were affected by the use of public moneys. Without benefit to agriculture, there has been imposed unbearable hardship upon business enterprises unable to maintain their position against discriminatory competition from the Government.

Opposition Is Expressed.

"We accordingly express our continued opposition to the use of Government funds in providing capital for the operation of agricultural cooperatives, and for the buying and selling of commodities for the purpose of attempted stabilization."

Earlier in the day Chairman Legge, of the farm board, said his challenge to wealthy members of the United States Chamber of Commerce to match him dollar for dollar in contributing to the agricultural foundation still holds good.

Another resolution expressed "appreciation for the vision and leadership of the President of the United States in his timely initiation" of the movement of business leaders to reduce the severity and shorten the duration of the recent financial depression. "We feel that private business has responded in a most effective manner," the resolution added.

Other Resolutions Pass.

Other resolutions recommended greater public economy; the construction of a great inter-American highway;" opposition to the creation of State automobile insurance funds; continuation of the work of the national business survey conference; an increase of pay in the Army, Navy and Marine forces; extension of Federal reclamation to furnish water to land already sparsely settled, and the provision of funds to eradicate the Mediterranean fruit fly.

William Butterworth was reelected president of the organization, and Julius H. Barnes was renamed chairman of the board. Karl Delaittre, of Minneapolis, was the only new vice president chosen. Five others were relected. The eighteen directors nominated last Monday were formally elected.

Lieut. Col. J. H. Woods, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, declared yesterday afternoon that a feeling of resentment and injustice was prevalent in Canada against the tariff adjustments now being made by Congress. He estimated that the proposed schedule would reduce Canadian trade with the United States by almost $75,000,000 a year. Canada now imports about $800,000,000 worth of goods from this country, he said, while it sells only $400,000 worth in return.

Little Gratitude Felt for Law.

"We recognize the assiduity with which your legislators are endeavoring to keep Canada from doing business with you except by way of purchase," Col. Woods said, "and it would be too much for you to expect us to regard such a situation with either gratitude or appreciation."

John Lord O'Brien, Assistant to the Attorney General, in addressing a luncheon of the American Trade Association executives, stated that the Department of Justice had found convincing evidence of "recent instances where the practice of price-fixing had been attempted" and that these would be prosecuted.

"Fortunately the number engaged in these practices is relatively inconsiderable and their conduct has not been imitated or approved by trade associations generally," he said.

The Department of Justice, he explained, "is not in the slightest degree hostile to the proper activities and healthy growth of trade associations."

Two Speak on Tax Situation.

Two addresses on "The Nation's Tax Muddle" were made during the morning session. They were by Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & North Western Railway Co., and Felix M. McWhirter, president of the People's State Bank, of Indianapolis.

"To my mind it is more important to preserve good government within constitutional principles with a tax rate that the people can comfortably bear than it is to pursue a policy of social reform and the creation of statutory crimes that is causing our tax rate to grow greater with each passing year, that is weakening the moral fiber of our people by teaching them to lean on the Government, and that is causing disrespect for law that does not augur well for the permanency of our democracy," said Mr. Sargent.

The Nation's tax situation was described as "combination of many muddles," by Mr. McWhirter, who urged the business men to curtail public expenditures before the damage becomes "irreparable." The present taxes are "inequitable, too high, too numerous, and too complicated," he declared. Asserting that "we are already spending for public purposes a much larger proportion of our income than is prudent," he added that "taxes today, in the aggregate, have reached the point of confiscating property in some sections of the country."

Larger Airplanes Urged.

Howard Coonley, of Boston, Mass., spoke on "Stabilization of Production and Employment" at the morning session also.

Larger craft and more speed are among the economic needs immediately ahead for air transportation, members of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries were told at a luncheon yesterday in connection with the chamber convention. Standard 12-passenger airplanes must be succeeded by ships carrying at least 40 persons, and speeds must be stepped up at least 150 miles an hour, leaders in the aviation industry stated.

The six speakers hailed the Watres-McNary bill for carrying the air mail along with passengers on a space-mileage basis, signed this week by President Hoover, as the most promising legislative aid yet given air transportation in this country.

CANADA ANNOUNCES REVISION OF TARIFF

Countervailing Duties Not Retaliatory Measure, Dunning Says.

DROP IN EXPORTS SHOWN

Ottawa, May 1 (A.P.).—Revision of the Canadian tariff structure extending the British tariff preferences to additional imports valued at $200,000,000 annually and insertion in the tariff schedule for the first time in history of countervailing duty provisions, were features of the budget announcement made in the Canadian House of Commons today by Minister of Finance C. A. Dunning.

In announcing the tariff changes, Mr. Dunning said they would increase greatly the British preference in the Canadian market and "enable Canada to buy more freely those commodities which are of vital importance to us."

Canada will not engage in a tariff war with any country, he said, because "the world shows at the present time too many examples of disaster following such a course."

No Retaliation Intended.

Regarding the countervailing clauses, a new feature in Canadian tariff schedules, Mr. Dunning emphasized that these were inserted in no spirit of retaliation. Instead, he insisted, they offered to other countries an opportunity, through reciprocal action on their part, to enable Canada to avoid extremes in rates of duties.

These entail no increases in the scheduled Canadian rate upon the commodities to which they apply, he said, but, rather, automatic provision for reciprocal ratings when any other country imposes upon Canadian products rates higher than those enumerated in the Canadian tariff.

The provisions will apply to butter, potatoes, soups, live stock, fresh meats, cured and pickled meats, shell eggs, frozen eggs, frozen yolk of eggs, oats, oatmeal, wheat, wheat flour, rye, cut flowers and cast-iron pipe.

Decline in Exports.

A long list of tariff changes was announced and when the revision is completed, Mr. Dunning said the Canadian customs tariff will consist of 1,118 items, 589 of which will be free under British preference. The changes will extend the British preference in the Canadain market, on a range of imports valued at $200,000,000, he said.

Canada's viable exports showed a decline of $44,000,000 for the fiscal year, totaling $1,444,000,000, as against imports of $1,248,200,000, he announced.

The country's largest trade continues to be with the United States and exports to that nation during the past year increased $15,300,000. Imports from the States decreased $20,600,000.

Nearly three million dollars was spent in connection with the St. Lawrence Rier ship channel and nearly a half million more in the construction of dams in the river. Lower lake terminals cost $1,500,000.

juries to at least eight persons southwest of Winchester, Kans.

An emergency call for all physicians and medical aid available in nearby cities and towns was relayed from Valley Falls, Kans., near Winchester, to treat the victims of the twister which struck farms southwest of the town.

Three persons whose names could not be immediately learned were injured in the collapse of a house near Easton, 17 miles west of here.

The known injured near Winchester are:

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Miller and their daughter, Mara Ada, who suffered a fractured leg.

E. L. Miller.

Bert Cramer.

Filling Station Uprooted.

A small twister demolished an empty house, uprooted trees and telephone poles and killed cattle on several farms south and east of Newton, Kans. No casualties were reported.

Communication lines were down in many sections of the affected area and heavy rains made roads impassable in some places.

Three separate twisters, first seen near White Cloud, Kans., swept through northwest Missouri, uprooting a country church and its nearby schoolhouse, neatly plucked a filling station and its pumps from the earth and played havoc with farm property, dealing death in some cases to live stock and poultry.

of economics, for I realize as keenly as any one can that individually they are not problems in science, but are the most human questions in the world. They involve the immediate fears of men and women for their daily bread, the well-being of their children, the security of their homes. They are intensely personal questions fraught with living significance to everything they hold dear. The officers of a ship in heavy seas have as deep a consciousness of the human values involved in the passengers and crews whose lives are in their keeping, but they can best serve them by taking counsel of their charts, compass and barometer and by devotion to navigation and the boilers. In like manner, the individual welfare can best be served by us if we devote ourselves to the amelioration of destructive forces, for thereby we serve millions of our people.

All slumps are the inexorable consequences of the destructive forces of booms. If we inquire into the primary cause of the great boom on the stock exchanges last year we find it rests mainly upon certain forces inherent in human mind. When our Nation has traveled on the high road to prosperity for a considerable term of years, the natural optimism of our people brings into being a spirit of undue speculation against the future. These vast contagions of speculative emotion have hitherto throughout all history proved themselves uncontrollable by any device that the economist, the business man or the Government has been able to suggest. The effect of them is to divert capital and energy from healthy enterprise—the only real source of prosperity—to stimulate waste, extravagance, and unsound enterprise, with the inevitable collapse in panic.

Recovery From Crash.

Out of the great crashes hitherto there has always come a long train of destructive forces. A vast number of innocent people are directly involved in losses. Optimism swings to deepest pessimism; fear of the future chokes initiative and enterprise; monetary stringencies, security and commodity panics in our exchanges, bankruptcies and other losses all contribute to stifle consumption, decrease production, and finally express themselves in unemployment, decreased wages, strikes, lockouts and a long period of stagnation.

Many have looked upon all this rise and fall as a disease which must run its course and for which nothing could be done either in prevention, or to speed recovery, or to relieve the hardship which wreaks itself especially upon workers, farmers and smaller business people. I do not accept the fatalistic view that the discovery of the means to restrain destructive speculation is beyond the genius of the American people.

Our immediate problem, however, has been the necessity to mitigate the effect of the recent crash, and to get back onto the road of prosperity as quickly as possible. This is the first time an effort has been made by the united community to this end. The success of this effort is of paramount importance not only for our immediate needs but the possibilities it opens for the future. The intensity of the speculative boom on this occasion was in my view, as great as or greater than any of our major manias before. The intensity of the slump has been greatly diminished by the efforts that have been made.

Many Dangers Weathered.

We—and as we I speak of many men and many institutions—have followed several major lines of action. Our program was one of deliberate purpose to do everything possible to uphold general confidence which lies at the root of maintained initiative and enterprise; to check monetary, security and commodity panics in our exchanges; to assure an abundance of capital at decreasing rates of interest so as to enable the resumption of business; to accelerate construction work so as to absorb as many employes as possible from industries hit by decreased demand; to hold up the level of wages by voluntary agreement and thus maintain the living standards of the vast majority who remain in employment; to avoid accelerating the depression by the hardship and disarrangement of strikes and lockouts; and by upholding consuming power of the wage earners to in turn support agriculture.

We may well inquire into our progress thus far. We have succeeded in maintaining confidence and courage We have avoided monetary panic and credit stringency. Those dangers are behind us. From the moment of the crash, interest rates have steadily decreased and capital has become steadily more abundant. Our investment markets have absorbed over two billions of new securities since the crash. There has been no significant bank or industrial failure. That danger, too, is safely behind us.

Robust Building Programs.

The acceleration of construction programs has been successful beyond our hopes. The great utilities, the railways and the large manufacturers have responded courageously. The Federal Government has not only expedited its current works, but Congress has authorized further expenditures. The governors, mayors and other authorities have everywhere been doing their full part. The result has been the placing of contracts of this character to the value of about $500,000,000 during the first four months of 1930, or nearly three times the amount brought into being in the corresponding four months of the last great depression of eight years ago. All of which contributes not only to direct employment but also a long train of jobs in the material and transportation industries. We are suffering from a decrease in residential construction, but despite this we have reason to believe that the total construction will still further expand, and we should during 1930 witness a larger grose volume of improvement work than normal.

For the first time in the history of great slumps we have had no substantial reductions in wages, and we have had no strikes or lockouts which were in any way connected with this situation.

Comparison With Previous Crashes.

The accelerated construction has naturally not been able to absorb all the unemployment brought by the injuries of the boom and crash. Unfortunately we have no adequate statistics upon the volume of unemployment. The maximum point of depression was about the first of the year, when, severe as the shock was, the unemployment was much less proportionately than in our two last major depressions A telegraphic canvass of the governors and mayors who are cooperating so ably with us in organizing public works brings with one exception the unanimous response of continuously decreasing unemployment each month and the assurance of further decreases again in May.

All these widespread activities of our business men and our institutions offer sharp contrast with the activities of previous major crashes and our experiences from them. As a consequence we have attained a stage of recovery within this short period greater than that attained during a whole year or more following previous equally great storms.

Conquest of Poverty.

While we are today chiefly concerned with continuing the measures we have in process for relief from this storm, and in which we must have no relaxation, we must not neglect the lessons we have had from it, and we must consider the measures which we can undertake both for prevention of such storms and for relief from them. Economic health, like human health, requires prevention of infection as well as cure of it.

I take it that the outstanding problem and the ideal of our economic system is to secure freedom of initiative and to preserve stability in the economic structure in order that the door of opportunity and equality of opportunity may be held open to all our citizens; that every business man shall go about his affairs with confidence in the future; that it shall give assurance to our people of a job for every one who wishes to work; that it shall, by steady improvement through research and invention, advance standards of living to the whole of our people. That will constitute the conquest of poverty, which is the great human aspiration of our economic life. And these economic storms are the most serious interruptions to this progress which we have to face. Some of you will recollect that following the great boom and slump of eight years ago, as Secretary of Commerce I initiated a series of conferences and investigations by representative men into the experiences of that occasion and to make therefrom recommendations for the future. It is worth a moment to examine our conclusions at that time as tested in this present crisis.

Capital to Home Builder.

The first of the conclusions at that time was that our credit machinery should be strengthened to stand the shock of crash; that the adjustment of interest rates through the Federal Reserve System should retard destructive speculation and support enterprise during the depression.

Our credit machinery has proved itself able to stand shock in the commercial field through the Federal Reserve System, in the industrial field through the bond market and the investment houses, in the farm-mortgage field to some extent through the farm loan system, and in the installment-buying field through the organization of powerful finance corporations.

But if we examine the strains during the past six months we shall find one area of credit which is most inadequately organized and which almost ceased to function under the present stress. This is the provision of a steady flow of capital to the home builder.

Availability of Loans.

From a social point of view this is one of the most vital segments of credit and should be placed in such a definitely mobilized and organized form as would assure its continuous and stable flow. The ownership of homes, the improvement of residential conditions to our people, is the first anchor in social stability and social progress. Here is the greatest field for expanded organization of capital and at the same time stimulation to increased standards of living and social service that lies open to our great loan institutions.

The result of the inability to freely secure capital has been a great diminution in home construction and a large segment of unemployment which could have been avoided had there been a more systematic capital supply organized with the adequacy and efficiency of the other segments of finance. We need right now an especial effort of our loan institutions in all parts of the country to increase the capital available for this purpose as a part of the remedy of the present situation.

Concern With Unemployment.

There can be no doubt of the service of the Federal Reserve system in not only withstanding the shock, but also in promoting the supply of capital after the collapse. We have, however, a new experience in the effect of discount rates and other actions of the system in attempts to retard speculation. The system and the banks managed throughout the whole of the speculative period to maintain interest rates on money for commercial use at 5 to 6 per cent per annum, and by their efforts they segregated the use of capital for speculation in such fashion that the rates upon such capital ran up to 18 per cent per annum. But even these high rates on speculative capital offered little real retardation to the speculative mania of the country. They served, in fact, to attract capital from productive enterprise, and this was one of the secondary factors in producing the crash itself. The alternative, however, of lifting commercial rates still higher in order to check speculation by checking business is also debatable. The whole bearing of interest rates upon speculation and stable production requires exhaustive consideration in view of these new experiences.

One of the subsidiary proposals in our examination seven years ago, directed to increase stability, was that improved statistical services should be created which would indicate the approach of undue speculation and thereby give advance storm warnings to the business world and the country. Great improvements were made in the statistical services, and by reading the signals thousands of business men avoided the maelstrom of speculation, and our major industries came through strong and unimpaired —though the people generally did not grasp these warnings, or this crisis would not have happened. We should have even more accurate services in the future and a wider understanding of their use. We need particularly a knowledge of employment at all times, if we are intelligently to plan a proper functioning of our economic system. I have interested myself in seeing that the census we are taking today makes for the first time a real determination of unemployment. I have hopes that upon this foundation we can regularly secure information of first importance to daily conduct in our economic world.

Stability for Future.

In remedial measures we have followed the recommendations of seven years ago as to the acceleration of construction work, the most practicable remedy for unemployment. It has been organized effectively in most important directions, and the success of organization in certain local communities point the way to even more effective action in the future by definite plans of decentralization.

Another of the by-products of this experience which has been vividly brought to the front is the whole question of agencies for placing the unemployed in contact with possible jobs. In this field is also the problem of what is termed technological unemployment. The great expansion in scientific and industrial research, the multiplicity of inventions and increasing efficiency of business, is shifting men in industry with a speed we have never hitherto known. The whole subject is one of profound importance.

We have advanced in all these methods of stability in recent years. The development of our credit system, our statistics, our methods of security and relief in depression, all show progress. We have developed further steps during the past six months. But the whole range of our experiences from this boom and slump should be placed under accurate examination with a view to broad determination of what can be done to achieve greater stability for the future both in prevention and in remedy. If such an exhaustive examination meets with general approval, I shall, when the situation clears a little, move to organize a body—representative of business, economics, labor, and agriculture—to undertake it.

People Hold Own Fate.

I do believe that our experience shows that we can produce helpful and wholesome effects in our economic system by voluntary cooperation through the great associations representative of business, industry, labor, and agriculture, both nationally and locally.

And it is my view that in this field of cooperative action outside of Government lies the hope of intelligent information and wise planning. The Government can be helpful in emergency, it can be helpful to secure and spread information.

Such action, however, as may be developed must adhere steadfastly to the very bones of our economic system, which are the framework of progress; and that progress must come from an individual initiative; and in time of stress it must be mobilized through cooperative action.

The proper constructive activities of the great voluntary organizations in the community provide the highest form of economic self-government. Permanent advance in the republic will lie in the initiative of the people themselves.

America Finding Herself.

We are not yet entirely through the difficulties of our situation. We have need to maintain every agency and every force that we have placed in motion until we are far along on the road to stable prosperity.

He would be a rash man who would state that we can produce the economic millenium, but there is great assurance that America is finding herself upon the road to secure social satisfaction, with the preservation of private industry, initiative, and a full opportunity for the development of the individual.

It is true that these economic things are not the objective of life itself. If by their steady improvement we shall yet further reduce poverty, shall create and secure more happy homes, we shall have served to make better men and women and a greater Nation.

Car Smoke Screen Lands Two in Jail

Unattached Device Causes Men to Be Held for Grand Jury Action.

Charged with possessing smoke-screen equipment, two Negroes, John Hoes, of Burrows court northeast, and James Allen, of Fourth street southeast, near K street, were ordered held for action of the grand jury under $2,000 bonds yesterday following their arraignment in Police Court.

Sergt. George M. Little testified that he and his men had trailed an automobile driven by Hoes from Sherman avenue and Barry place northwest to College street northwest, where Allen entered the machine. A few feet from this point the automobile was stopped and the two men were arrested.

Sergt. Little testified that when he stopped the automobile he saw the smoke screen apparatus on the front seat. While declaring that the apparatus was not attached to the motor of the automobile in which it was found, the policeman expressed his belief that it was being transported outside the city where it was to be affixed to a rum-laden automobile. Attorney Octave Biggones appears for the two defendants.

CABINET MEMBERS DENY WET CHARGES

Stayton, Lobby Witness, Says 6 Hoover Aids Concede Dry Law Failure.

THREE MAKE NO REPLY

(Associated Press.)

An expression of opinion that six members of the Hoover Cabinet are "convinced that the dry law is a failure," presented yesterday to the Senate lobby committee by William H. Stayton, chairman of the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, produced a number of quick replies from members of the President's official family.

Freely expressing his opinion concerning the prohibition view of high Government officials, Stayton also reiterated previous testimony before the committee that he thought President Hoover was "beginning to doubt whether prohibition can be enforced."

In addition, he said four members of the President's Law Enforcement Commission had told him they were "trying to work out a plan for some other distribution of liquor than that which is at present the law of the land."

This statement also drew a reply from Henry W. Anderson, a member of the commission, who said, at his home at Richmond, that he knew of no new plan under consideration for distribution of liquor.

Mr. Anderson was one of the four members of that body mentioned by Stayton. The others were Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa; Dean Roscoe Pound, of Harvard University, and a fourth he did not remember.

The Cabinet members named by the witness were Secretaries Stimson, Davis, Lamont, Mellon, Adams and Postmaster General Brown.

Questioned by newspapermen, Secretary Stimson denied the statement, and Secretary Adams said there was no justification for it. Secretary Lamont told newspapermen that he had not discussed prohibition since entering the Cabinet.

"There is no foundation for the statement," he said, "except, perhaps, that while a private citizen I was a member of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. I resigned before joining the Cabinet and have not discussed the subject since."

Secretary Mellon, Postmaster General Brown and Secretary Davis did not comment.

The testimony concerning the prohibition views of high Government officials resulted after Chairman Caraway of the committee had read a letter written by Stayton to Charles S. Wood, of Philadelphia, a vice president of the antiprohibition association. The letter said:

"My own feeling is, after I talked with senators, members of Congress and public officials here, that Mr. Hoover is beginning to doubt whether prohibition can be enforced."

"Do you recall with whom you had this conversation?" Caraway asked.

Doubt Was "Inferred."

"Yes, sir," Stayton replied. "That letter was written about a month ago. The conversations immediately preceding it were with four members of the Wickersham committee."

After the witness had named the commission members, Caraway asked:

"Now, then, they told you that President Hoover was beginning to be doubtful about the enforcement of prohibition?"

"No, sir," Stayton said.

What was it they said that led you to that conclusion?"

"It was an inference, as you will see from my letter. I did not say that any one told me this. I said I inferred it after the conversation."

Rum Distribution Substitute.

"What was it each member said that led you to the conclusion that President Hoover had lost confidence in the enforcement?" Caraway demanded.

"What they said was they were trying to work out a plan for some other distribution of liquor than that which is at present the law of the land."

Later Stayton asserted:

"The President having said it was an experiment, the Wickersham commission having considered it and made a preliminary report, in which they looked obviously to something like a change, and then having called me before them and having discussed what was a proper plan for liquor distribution as a substitute for the present plan, I did not feel that these gentlemen would go into that without Mr. Hoover's knowledge."

Dissatisfied With Bootleggers.

Stayton testified also that he had talked with Senator Tydings, of Maryland, and Hawes, of Missouri, both wet Democrats, and with several members of the House.

Questioned by newspaper men after his testimony, Stayton said he received from members of the commission the impression that they "did not believe the prohibition law was working and they wanted to find some substitute."

"I inferred," he added, "that they were dissatisfied with the distribution of liquor by bootleggers and thought some plan should be worked out for distribution under Government restriction in an effort to improve present conditions."

Stayton was directed to appear again tomorrow.

Receivers Sought On Smith Building

Miss Grace Cauldwell Says Action Is Necessary to Protect Bondholders.

Receivership for the F. H. Smith Building, Inc., of 815 Fifteenth street northwest, was asked yesterday in a suit filed in District Supreme Court by Miss Grace Cauldwell, of 1519 Oak street northwest. The F. H. Smith Co., formerly of Washington, now of New York; the Central Trust Co. of Maryland, of Frederick, Md., and James H. Brown, of 815 Fifteenth street northwest, said to be the resident agents of the corporations, are made party defendants.

Miss Cauldwell in addition to seeking a receivership wants the Smith Co. and the trust company to account for all money received on account of interest and amortization payments under the trust agreement covering the Smith Building. She also wants Mr. Brown restrained from turning any moneys over to the Smith Co. or the trust company, depositories under the trust agreement.

Miss Cauldwell declares that the Smith Building was valued in circulars describing the bonds at $1,643,400, and that bonds totaling $1,135,000 were sold. She asserts, however, that the building is worth only a little more than $700,000. She recites the difficulties which the Smith Co. has encountered and declares that a receivership is necessary in order to protect interest of bondholders.

25 Carp Cost Fishers Dollar Each in Court

Two Alexandria fishermen caught 25 fish early yesterday morning, but they are thankful that the fish were carp and nothing else.

Brought before Judge Ralph Given in Police Court later in the day the two fishermen, George F. Bashford and John Henderson, were sentenced to pay fines of $25 or serve 30 days on charges of fishing with nets. In passing sentence, Judge Given said: "If the fish were anything but carp your sentence would be much heavier." The two men were arrested by harbor police, who spotted them with the powerful searchlight with which the police craft is equipped. The police confiscated the 25 fish and three nets.

POLICE FIRM IN HOPE OF LOCATING SLAYER

Balked Authorities Turn to Clews Yet Unchecked in Baker Murder.

LETTER REPORT PROBED

With practically all clews exhausted, police last night were still optimistic that the man who three weeks ago tonight murdered Mary Baker and left her bullet-riddled body in a culvert near Arlington Cemetery eventually will be captured.

The authorities, Metropolitan police, Department of Justice and Arlington County police, are basing their optimism on the hope that remaining clews yet to be checked may contain the necessary information which will lead to the slayer.

Inspector William S. Shelby is confident that the slayer will be caught. He admits, however, that he has no evidence at present in his possession which centers upon any one particular individual.

The authorities are not discarding the slightest clew until it is thoroughly checked. Operatives yesterday again visited the Navy Building, where the girl was employed, and interviewed her coworkers. They returned later convinced that the girl had not confided with fellow employes.

Lieut. Edward Kelly, chief of the Homicide Bureau, who has been working night and day on the case, was ordered home to rest yesterday by Inspector Shelby. Lieut. Kelly will resume the investigation tomorrow.

Police admit that they would like to have a talk with one of the three men who found the Baker girl's clothes in a sewer. The finder is now in New York, they say. They believe that he might be able to throw some light on a necklace found in the sewer which did not belong to the murdered girl.

One of the clews which the police are attempting to run down concerns a report that Miss Baker the day before she was killed wrote a letter to her mother which was never mailed. The police think that the letter may have contained information that might lead to the slayer.

Capital Residents Honored By Women Voters' League

Mrs. H. G. Doyle (left), who yesterday was nominated a regional director of the League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Ellen S. Mussey, who was included in the organization's roll of honor.

Two Put on National Roll; One Is Made Regional Director.

Louisville, Ky., May 1 (A.P.).—With ovation upon ovation, the League of Women Voters today announced its tenth anniversary national roll of honor of 71 names memorializing workers for women's suffrage.

Loudest ovation of all was for Miss Belle Sherwin, national president, who had just accepted the nomination to enter her seventh year as president under a leave of absence arrangement, whereby her vice presidents will serve, in turn, until she is rested.

Susan B. Anthony, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, long term president of the league's predecessor, the Women's Suffrage Association, were honored by the league at large.

Other citations were by States, about half for the living, half for the dead. New York gave honorable mention to James Lees Laidlaw, president of the Men's Association for Women's Suffrage, explaining that the purpose was thus to honor "all men who worked for suffrage."

For the District of Columbia, Mrs. Helen Hamilton Gardner, deceased, and Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, were listed on the honor roll.

Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette, long a sharer of the glory of a husband and a son, was honored in her own right for the women of Wisconsin.

Miss Marguerite M. Wells, of Minneapolis, Minn., was nominated fifth vice president to succeed Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, of Chicago. The present vice presidents renominated to serve during Miss Sherwin's leave of absence as rotating presidents were Miss Katherine Ludington, of Lyme, Conn.; Mrs. Roscoe Anderson, of St. Louis, Mo.; Miss Ruth Morgan, of New York, and Miss Elizabeth J. Hauser, of Girard, Ohio.

Mrs. Henry Steffens, jr., of Detroit, Mich., was nominated to succeed herself as secretary. Mrs. Elsie A. Zinsmeister, of Louisville, Ky., was nominated to succeed Mrs. Frank P. Hixon, of Lake Forest, Ill., as treasurer.

Seven regional directors were nominated as follows: Miss Mary Bulkley, of Hartford, Conn., to succeed Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith, of Farmington, Conn.; Mrs. Andrew J. Steelman, of Montclair, N. J., to succeed Mrs. Harry Whitney, of Overbrook, Pa.; Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, of Washington, D. C., to succeed Mrs. R. L. Turman, Georgia; Mrs. John Hewitt Rosentiel, of Chicago, Ill., renominated; Mrs. A. J. Maguire, of St. Paul, Minn., to succeed Miss Marguerite M. Wells; Mrs. George H. Hoxie, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. George P. Costigan, jr., of Berkeley, Calif., renominated.

Plans were announced for perpetuating the honor scroll, representing a $82,458 memorial fund in bronze at the league's Washington headquarters, with vellum vists of the supplementary State honor rolls which brought an added $25,730 into the foundation. Gifts brought the total up to $110,887, to be used in carrying forward the work of the league.

By an overwhelming vote, the league members supported Florence Kelley, of New York, veteran labor leader and secretary of the National Consumers League, in her determined stand "not to lower the flag" on the fight for a child labor amendment to the national Constitution.

A resolution "heartily supporting" the London naval limitations treaty was introduced, under national board sponsorship, at today's session, today, but the delegates unanimous-League rules prevented final action ly voted to consider it at Saturday's session, and applauded an announcement that President Hoover had sent the treaty to the Senate.

Other resolutions called on President Hoover and on Congress for action in behalf of maternity and infancy legislation and the United States Children's Bureau, and on the Senate for final passage of the act establishing equal nationality rights for women "without hampering amendments." These resolutions also were favorably voted for consideration, with final action set for Saturday.

ADMINISTRATION FORCES GAIN IN BATTLE ON PARKER

other senators had received the same kind of telegram.

"I want to ask the senator," he continued, "if there is any difference in principle in the efforts of these people and those who telegraphed you."

Senator Fess insisted that the North Carolina telegrams were not as bad as those he received, and Senator Johnson insisted that there was no difference. They finally both agreed that all the senders of such telegrams must be "feeble-minded."

The Ohio senator renewed his attack upon what he termed the "manufactured clamor" against the Supreme Court and declared that he would not permit himself to be "bludgeoned" into voting against Judge Parker.

Borah Takes Floor.

Senator Borah observed:

"I wish the manufactured clamor would be as effective as some things being manufactured on the other side."

The Ohio senator's repeated references to senators permitting themselves to be bludgeoned subsequently brought Senator Borah heatedly to his feet with the question of what senators the Ohioan referred to.

"I will say to the senator," Senator Borah said, "that when Judge McClintic issued his injunction there were some of us who placed ourselves on record at the time and we have been carrying on the fight ever since."

He referred to Judge McClintic's injunction in the so-called yellow dog case which Judge Parker upheld and which is the basis of organized labor's opposition against him.

Senator Fess continued with his argument that what he wanted was a "government of law" not a "government of men."

President Hoover has taken a stronger stand in the Parker case than on any matter since he came into office and has been working assiduously on those Regulars who have broken over the traces.

It is seldom that the Senate has been confronted with such a political situation as the present one. The Regulars from the doubtful States promptly ran off the reservation when the Negro opposition developed. And those Regulars who have defended the judge have taken the attitude that he was all wrong in his views on the participation of the Negro in politics, but being broad-minded men they realized that his views were those of all other Southerners and that a great section of the country could not be denied representation on the Supreme Court.

Democrats in Dilemma.

This being the situation, the Southern Democrats have wondered if they should not go to the man's rescue, inasmuch as he thought just as they did and was being punished for it.

The funny thing about it all, the senators admit privately, is that this is not the situation at all. Judge Parker does not have the view of the Southern Democrat toward the Negro's participation in politics. His view, it is pointed out, is just as Republican as that of any Northern senator.

Regardless of what he may have said in that political campaign in 1920, regardless of any statement the Negroes may have dug up in which he spoke in a derogatory manner on the Negro's participation in politics, the bare fact remains that they did participate in his campaign, did vote for him, and that he expected them to do so and they were organized to do so. The Negro is an integral part of the Republican party in North Carolina just as it is in Northern States. He is not the front of it as he is in other Southern States where there is no Republican party to speak of, but he is a most important part of it.

Not Parker's Views.

There has been considerable surprise that the Republican defenders have not made this argument instead of apologizing for what is charged to be but what is really not Judge Parker's view Southern Democrats have always been inclined to look upon the Southern Republican with more feeling than the Northern Republican because the race situation is accentuated in the South.

Through an error in the mechanical department an injustice was done former Secretary of War Baker in Thursday's story It was stated that he had charged Judge Parker with concealing evidence in the war frauds prosecutions It was Mr Baker's former secretary, Ralph Hayes, now a New York banker Mr Baker has had nothing to do with the Parker fight.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, referred to the war frauds prosecution yesterday, charging that they had been simply to discredit the Wilson adm istration and that the conclusion was inescapable that Judge Parker had lent himself to the effort.

Refers to Groner Charge.

He referred to the charge of Federal Judge Groner, who presided, that he was "amazed" that evidence exonerating the defendants had been found in the Government files. The Montana senator insisted that this overweighted any "complimentary remark" that the presiding judge may have later made that the conduct of Government counsel had been eminently fair.

The complimentary reference was made, he said, to "take the sting" out of the previous condemnation. Had a judge thus criticized him, Senator Walsh said, he would have felt so "humiliated" he would have withdrawn.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, interrupted to ask if it were not customary for judges to make perfunctory references about the fair conduct of counsel and his Montana colleague replied that it was.

Senator Rebert, of Rhode Island concluded his defense of Judge Parker, asserting that in his yellow dog decision he was bound to follow the Supreme Court. Senator Hatfield, of West Virginia, defended the working conditions of the miners in his State. It was from this State that the yellow dog contract originated.

PRISON RIOT DAMAGE SHOWN BY CHECK-UP

All 800 Cell Blocks Must Be Replaced or Repaired, Inspection Shows.

UNREST STILL PREVAILS

Columbus, Ohio, May 1 (A.P.).—Successful in putting down the mutiny of 1,300 Ohio penitentiary convicts, even though it required the National Guard to do it, the State of Ohio turned its attention today to the task of repairing the damage caused by the Easter Monday fire in which 320 prisoners lost their lives, and by the siege of prisoners in the idle house.

The extent of the damage in the idle house, where the rebellious convicts had their forces of law and order at bay for nine days was learned for the first time this morning, when Col. Robert S. Haubrich, in command of the prison, made an inspection with members of his staff and newspapermen.

The inspection revealed that every one of the 800 cell blocks will have to be replaced or repaired, that new windows will have to be put in and cell doors placed back on their hinges. Death row and the quarters of Co. K, an outfit of bad men, will have to be renovated. The mutineers caused wrack and ruin in both these sections as well as other parts of the idle house.

Apertures to Be Sealed Up.

In addition there are three mansized apertures to be sealed up. A gaping hole in the solid steel wall on the fifth tier of White City cell block, cut with an electric drill, and two tunnels drilled through the basement to the outside wall, showed clearly how near the rebel prisoners came to escaping.

Only leveled rifles and mounted machine guns of 1,500 Ohio National Guard troops kept them from crawling through these holes to liberty. They knew that an impregnable guard had been thrown around the prison and that a dash for freedom meant death. They discovered this last Tuesday morning when a hail of bullets stopped their rush upon the guardroom.

Inspection of the idle house was made in an atmosphere of quiet produced by the strictest military discipline. More than 600 of the mutineers remained quartered today behind the high barbed wire stockade into which they were herded last night. Others were quartered in the old license tag warehouse, a building with barred windows. Hundreds of sentries were on duty within the prison yard, while machine guns were trained down from the roof of the chapel building.

Unrest Still Prevails.

An undercurrent of unrest still prevailed, however, as was shown late in the day when National Guardsmen were called upon to extinguish a fire in one of the tents within the wired inclosure. The tent was ignited just before the men were marched to the mess hall for their evening meals.

One side of it was burned. Had the flames spread to the 85 other tents in the stockade, the prisoners would have had only the sky for a roof, for Col. Haubrich announced that any tents destroyed would not be replaced.

Earlier in the day the convicts stoned prison guards who were taking supplies into the stockade.

Work to Start at Once.

Col. Haubrich announced that work will start immediately on repair of the cell blocks. At the same time Welfare Director Hal H. Griswold and other State officials were shaping up plans for beginning work soon on replacing of the wooden cell block roofs. New concrete, fireproof roofs are to be constructed over the G and H cell blocks and over the idle house and prison dormitories.

The construction and repair work, it is believed, will require at least 30 days and it was indicated today that military rule of the prison may remain in effect during that time. As long as the rebels are confined in the stockade a heavy armed guard will be necessary and the men can not be returned to their cells until the locks are repaired.

Accident Injuries Are Fatal to Man

Alfred Elliott Succumbs to Fractured Skull at Hospital.

Internal injuries and a fracture of the skull received early Tuesday morning in an automobile accident near La Plata, Md., yesterday afternoon proved fatal to Alfred Elliott, 36 years old, of the Meridian Mansions, of 2400 Sixteenth street northwest, at Providence Hospital where he had been under medical care since being taken there by an unidentified companion.

Fifth Precinct police reported that Mr. Elliott was injured in the overturning of an automobile owned by George Brown, resident of the Roosevelt Hotel, retired general manager of the Westinghouse Electric Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa., for whom he was chauffeur. Mr. Elliott's companion in the machine at the time of the accident suffered a wrenched back and accompanied him to the hospital, but declined treatment and left without revealing his identity.

Mr. Elliott is survived by his widow, two children, and his mother, Mrs. George Elliott, of the Meridian Mansions.

$150,000 TAX FRAUD LAID TO ACCOUNTANT

False Claim for Refund of 1918 Levy Detected by Revenue Chiefs.

BONDS FIXED AT $5,000

Providence, R. I., May 1 (A.P.).—Earl S. Clark, Rhode Island accountant and treasurer of the American Association of Certified Public Accountants, was arrested today on a warrant sworn out by the Treasury Department at Washington charging that he did "falsely make and present a claim for refund of taxes paid by the Bausch Machine Tool Co., a body corporate of Springfield, Mass., to the United States for the year 1918, with intent to defraud the United States."

Secrecy surrounded the arrest and arraignment of Clark. United States Attorney Henry M. Boss, jr., this afternoon permitted newspapermen to see the warrant and announced that Clark had been arraigned before United States Commissioner Archibald C. Matteson, had pleaded not guilty and had been held in $5,000 bail for preliminary trial before the commissioner on May 23.

Company Not Involved.

Mr. Boss said the Bausch company was in no way concerned with Clark's act. Revenue agents said the company had cooperated with them in investigating the case.

In a statement issued through his attorney this afternoon, Mr. Clark said: "We will demonstrate at the proper time and place that the charges are groundless and that Washington has made a mistake in the matter."

Associated Press.)

The Internal Revenue Bureau announced yesterday that Earl S. Clark, treasurer of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants, had been arrested in Providence, R. I., on a warrant charging falsification of income tax records.

Elmer L. Irey, chief of the intelligence section of the bureau, was notified that Clark had been arrested on a Washington warrant and would be arraigned before a United States Commissioner.

The charge against Clark was said to be based on one of the most unusual allegations of attempted fraud known to the Treasury's intelligence section.

Nature of Charges.

The bureau said Clark was charged in the warrant with having inserted in the record of the income tax of a Massachusetts corporation a fake document intended to show that the corporation had filed a claim for a refund of $100,000.

The warrant further charges the claim had not been filed when the statute of limitations for refunds had expired.

Income tax experts started on an immediate investigation after the document was found. They traced the typewriter on which it had been written and found, they said, that it was owned by Clark.

$50,000 Interest Item Seen.

They also asserted the rubber stamps purporting to show that the document had been received in the Internal Revenue Bureau had been counterfeited in Providence.

While the claim for refund amounted to $100,000, interest on the amount if allowed, would have amounted approximately to $50,000 more.

The bureau said that it expected Clark would be ordered removed to Washington for trial.

Father Is Freed In Death of Girl

Man Declared He Slew His Daughter Five Years Ago to End Sufferings.

Chicago, May 1 (A.P.).—Mercy and the law united today to free a 70-year-old father from a charge of murdering his daughter "to end her sufferings."

The grand jury, consisting of 23 business men, declined to return an indictment against the aged man, Charles Cutler, both because of his pathetic story about the slaying and because the State indicated it would be unable to prove a corpus delecti.

Cutler, bent and gray, walked into a police station several weeks ago and confessed he had asphyxiated his daughter five years ago "to end her incurable suffering from heart disease." At the time, the daughter was believed to have committed suicide. The undertaker who buried the body could testify to the death, but he did not see her alive, and a patrol wagon driver saw her alive, but did not see her dead.

DEFINITION OF WAR IS LEAGUE SUBJECT

Britain and Partisans Hold It Is Not Identical With Border Hostilities.

WARNING BY LORD CECIL

Geneva, May 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—When guns go off without intending to and "hostilities" occur—such as the Italian bombardment of Corfu, the Greek invasion of Bulgaria and Serbia's attack upon Albania—is it war?

Great Britain, Sweden, Belgium, Denmark and their partisans said that it is not during today's session of the security and arbitration committee of the League of Nations and insisted upon formulation of a general treaty which would strengthen the league council's machinery for dealing with such contingencies.

Poland, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and France believe, their spokesmen said, that "hostilities and war are synonymous." Currently existing obligations, such as the Kellogg pact and the League covenant, are sufficient so far as moral commitments are concerned and the only method of strengthening existing peace guarantees now would be acceptance of the doctrine of penalties. Quick and sure punishment for war after it has broken out rather than precautionary procedures to be followed when rifles begin spitting sporadically across frontiers is the best guarantee for peace, they contend.

One group of countries, obviously, is out to sabotage the draft treaty, which the committee, to elaborate, contends that no state signatory to the Kellogg pact or the covenant will ever admit that future border clashes constitute an intention to wage warfare. They favor resurrection of the Geneva protocol or a general treaty of mutual assistance.

Another equally strong group, led by the British and the neutrals are determined to take merely a single cautious step forward rather than attempt the entire distance. Nevertheless, Lord Robert Cecil warned that the world is rapidly forgetting the terrors and horrors of the World War and that unless steady, though conservative progress in building a great system of peace is secured within a reasonably short time, it will be too late.

Cecil made the startling confession that, personally, he always favored both the Geneva protocol and the mutual assistance treaty, but that unfortunately he could not convince either his government or the majority of British people that his view was the right one. He is still inclined toward the French-Polish program, but could not exceed his official instructions.

Singularly, both the Italians and Spanish are consistently opposing every project thus far submitted by either group.

mained on duty here or with the fleet, will be called as developments warrant. Mr. Hale favors a most searching investigation in order to obtain the most reliable information bearing on the effect which the treaty would have on the naval defense.

Senators Borah and Hale will cooperate in bringing to light such information as the two committees regard as essential. The committees will work together and not at cross-purposes. In some instances, the same witnesses may appear before both committees.

As to the time to be consumed at committee hearings much depends on data brought out during the coming week, it is explained.

The committee on foreign relations will seek to ascertain the facts as expeditiously as may be possible without sacrificing thoroughness. But there will be no attempt to rush hearings to a conclusion or to make the hearings merely perfunctory preliminaries to submission of the treaty for final action.

POLICE HEAD FREED AFTER RIOT ARREST him there were interrupted and ordered to bring him into court.

In dismissing the director, Judge Howard A. Davis said that the magistrate had "acted in a very undignified, irregular and unlawful manner" in holding Schofield, that the students acted "more like lunatics than students," and that they have "no higher right than criminals" in committing disorder.

In holding Schofield in bail today, Magistrate O'Malley told him he was going to treat him just like the director had been treating other people. This remark was interpreted by some as a reference to the criticism the director had incurred by the vigorousness with which the police have been enforcing the prohibition law.

The arrest of Schofield was based upon his alleged refusal to give copies of the charges lodged against students so they could be released pending hearings and his refusal to recognize a warrant of arrest.

The disorder among the university students followed the hanging of the effigies of two instructors who had been voted as unpopular. There were conflicting versions of the origin of the disorder, but it spread to such an extent that extra policemen were summoned and more than 200 students were arrested.

D. A. R. President Makes Radio Talk

Warns Her Audience Against Danger of Foreign Entanglement.

Warning her radio audience that "foreign entanglements" are contrary to the policies on which this Nation was founded and charging that the internationalists would superimpose on the country something which would rob the Chief Executive of his authority, deprive the Supreme Court of its prerogatives and dispossess the Senate of its power, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general, last night spoke for the Daughters of the American Revolution over the National Broadcasting System.

She called attention to a resolution adopted in January by the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense opposing the commitment of the United States to entangling alliances which could operate to limit American liberty of decision in international affairs. This resolution was indorsed by the Continental Congress of the D. A. R. at its recent meeting and was the only resolution of this nature passed by the congress.

Mrs. Hobart stressed in her talk the fact that the founders of the Nation adopted the form of government and the policy of political isolation only after studying all other forms of government of the past.

MOTHER JONES, 100, RECEIVES HER BOYS'

Hundreds Pay Respects to Noted Labor Leader on Birthday.

SHE SCORES DRY LAWS

Mother Jones, noted woman labor leader, gathered "her boys" around her yesterday to celebrate her 100th birthday. And from th four corners of the earth "her bos" sent greetings and good wishes.

Most of the day she passed in greeting the nearly 200 friends and well wishers who traveled over the rough dirt road that leads to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Burgess, near Chillum, Md., on Riggs road, where Mother Jones lives. A large birthday cake, surmounted by 100 candles, arranged in tiers, which had been presented by the bakers' union, and two rooms banked with flowers from her admirers, were the background for the celebration of the fiery labor organizer's centennial. All day long messenger boys arrived with telegrams and special deliveries to remind of long ago scenes and activities.

Among the visitors were several prominent labor officials, who had come to pay their respects to one of the earliest unionists of the country. A delegation of hoboes from the unemployment conference in Washington hiked all the way to the house to voice their admiration.

Assails Dry Law.

Mother Jones was allowed to get up and appear on the front porch for a short while by her physician, Dr. E. H. Howlett, of Silver Spring, if it can be said that any one ever "allowed" her to do anything that she has set her mind on.

Mother Jones posed for the newsreel photographers and gave a short talk in which she urged the women of the country to take more interest in the conduct of national affairs and condemned theuse of jails. She also decried prohibition.

"Prohibition has done more harm than anything else that ever happened since this country's birth. What right has any man to tell me what I shall drink? I'd much rather have beer than water," she declared.

Road Especially Cleared.

When he heard that Prince Georges County officials had not cleared the road to Mother's house, Montgomery County Commissioner Lacy Shaw, in charge of the Silver Spring district, ordered that the road from Silver Spring be dragged and made as passable as possible. He was one of the visitors who paid their homage to Mother Jones.

When Corporal George Windham, of the Montgomery County Police, called on Mother Jones, her friends jokingly told her he had come to arrest her.

"It won't be the first time," she pertly replied. "I've been arrested lots of times."

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Burgess in caring for the army of visitors were O. J. Hughes, of Washington; Norman Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Fowler, of Takoma Park; Charles King, of Hyattsville; Mrs. Anne Fowler, Mrs. Irene A. Connor and Mrs. Susanne De Wolf, of Alliance, Ohio, an old friend of the labor leader.

OAKLAND POLICE CHARGE REDS; 25,000 IN NEW YORK ASSEMBLY

forts of policemen to keep the sidewalks clear. Half of those arrested were school boys and girls, under 17 years of age. They were taken into custody after they attempted to sing Communist songs, and jeered the police when ordered to move on.

Four women and ten men were booked on suspicion of criminal syndicalism. Two of them had attempted to parade with red banners reading "Freedom for the Unemployed." Two police officers were beaten severely by demonstrators when the banner-bearing pair was arrested.

Buenos Aires, May 1 (A.P.).—The general tranquillity of May Day throughout Argentina was broken tonight in the town of San Martin, province of Buenos Aires, where a policeman and a baker were killed in a fight between bakery workers and police.

The bakers tried to prevent the operation of "jitney" taxicabs, and the drivers summoned the police. The police were immediately fired upon. A baker widely known as a labor agitator was wounded. Ten workers were arrested.

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Red in the face from the heat, and with red sashes around their waists and red banners in their hands, an estimated 25,000 Communists crowded into the plaza north of Union Square today and shouted defiance at the press, the police and the bosses.

Take Place Left by Foes.

They took the place in the square of the Veterans of Foreign Wars who, an hour before, had shouted defiance at Soviet Russia, the Third Internationale and the local Communists. There were approximately 3,500 veterans in the first parade and the speeches of their leaders were heard by a crowd which at times reached an estimated 15,000.

The main address was made by Hamilton Fish, jr., a New York representative in Congress, who said Communists who did not care to abide by the laws and conditions in this country should return to Russia.

"He can not give allegiance to the red flag and to the American flag at the same time," Mr Fish said. Shortly before 2 o'clock their program was finished and the veterans left the square in an orderly manner, while police arrested a 25-year-old Communist who attempted to heckle Mrs. Bessie Hankel, national president of the V. F. W. Auxiliary.

1,000 Children in Parade.

At 3 p. m. the Communist marchers arrived. Among them were a thousand or more children. Nearly all carried placards and they yelled their little throats hoarse.

"Foster, we want Foster," the crowds repeated over and over.

William Z. Foster, their leader, was on Welfare Island watching a baseball game and serving out a two-year term as a result of the "red Thursday" riots in the same square.

London, May 1 (A.P.).—May Day throughout England and Ireland proved to be about as innocuous as a workers' holiday, while from the remainder of Europe the incidents reported were chiefly minor in character.

Aid for Jobless Asked.

Hunger marchers from various parts of England converged on London, where they held peaceable demonstrations in Hyde Park and demanded interviews with the prime minister or some other cabinet member on plans to alleviate unemployment.

Workers celebrated peacefully in Belgium except for a scuffle near Liege.

Warsaw was quiet, but police clashed with Communists and Socialists at Bendzin, in the Dombrowa mine district.

Moscow, the fountain head of communism, made a happy holiday of it. Enthusiastic reds paraded, the streets were decorated with red flags and red lights, numerous communistic lectures were made, and all amusement places admitted workers free.

All Work Halts in Madrid.

All work ceased in Madrid, but there were few attempts at demonstrations.

Paris forestalled threats of trouble by arresting 687 Frenchmen and 94 foreigners. The only trouble reported was in the communistic suburbs of St. Denis, where the Communist Deputy Doriot and the entire municipal council were arrested after an encounter with the gendarmes.

In Berlin some 50,000 Communists marched to the Lustgarten, where they adopted the usual May Day resolution and then marched through other Communist districts. Socialist demonstrators took over the Lustgarten later.

50,000 Participate in Japan.

Japanese police made some 300 precautionary arrests during the day, but more than 50,000 persons participated in empire-wide demonstrations. Two policemen were wounded in a suburb of Tokyo.

Mexico City, May 1 (A.P.).—Thirty thousand workers paraded through the central part of Mexico City today, but no trouble developed. Police guarded the American Embassy and the American Consulate General to prevent any disturbance there.

A slight disturbance occurred shortly after noon when the presence of Diego Rivera, celebrated painter and Communist, in a parade angered a group of Communists on the side lines. They waded in with fists, but did not reach Rivera, and order soon was restored.

PAUL WHITEMAN HIT IN "KING OF JAZZ"

Famous Director and His Band Score in All-Color Screen Revue.

FINE SINGING ENSEMBLE

By NELSON B. BELL.

"The King of Jazz," which introduced Paul Whiteman and his band to the local screen at the Rialto Theater yesterday, so far transcends all of the natural color celluloid revues that have preceded it that there remains no basis upon which it may be compared with any of them.

Produced by Universal on a stupendous scale, kaleidoscopic in the magnificent splendor of its scenes and combining the best elements of both stage and camera technic, this extraordinary entertainment speeds smoothly along from one startling effect to another with cumulative impressiveness, to culminate in a "Melting Pot" finale that is no less than prodigious.

To the creation of this, his first screen spectacle, John Murray Anderson, the director, long famous for his "Greenwich Village Follies," has brought a superlative mastery of stagecraft, an unerring color sense and, rarest of all, imagination. By some stroke of genius he has managed to preserve the intimacy of a stage revue, while at the same time availing himself of the utmost of the photoplay's flexibility, the widest scope o' the camera and the vastly multiplied possibilities for striking lighting effects which the tremendous dimensions of the studio stages afford. It will be a hazardous undertaking for some time to come to attempt to surpass Mr. Anderson's originality, improve upon the artistic beauty of his work or make more skillful use of the material at his disposal.

The material at his disposal, by the way, is prodigal both in quantity and quality. The production, of course, is built around Paul Whiteman and his band, although, prevalent as they are, they never obscure the other manifold merits of the performance. Their most notable contribution to the entertainment is a rendition of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," as only they can play it, with Mr. Gershwin himself presiding at the piano for the intricate solo passages. This fabulous number has been amazingly staged and dramatized by Mr. Anderson. It is invested with every cerulean shade and tint to accentuate its freak tempos and bizarre nuances, with the band emerging from the top of a Gargantuan grand piano for the first shock to the senses.

This is only one of the instrumental treats the picture offers, the band playing many other times and often providing invisible musical background for the other principals in the cast.

These include, first and foremost, John Boles, who has two splendid numbers in "Monterey," sung with Jeanette Loff and a Mexican ensemble, and "Song of the Dawn," with a rousing cowboy chorus; the Sisters G, exotic young dancers who weave in and out of the colorful scene throughout the length of the picture; William Kent, who serves as leading comedian in a considerable list of sketches and blackout skits; Jeanette Loff, in "The Bridal Veil," with a gorgeous final flash; the Rhythm Boys, in frequent vocal interludes; the Brox Sisters, in others; Stanley Smith and Miss Loff, in "A Bench in the Park," finally participated in by the band, the Russell Markert dancers—the best drilled line girls I have ever seen—and a host of others.

It is hopeless to attempt a recitation of anything more than the high spots of so comprehensive a diversion, but it may be of interest that the composers and lyricists were George Gershwin, Mabel Wayne, Milton Ager and Jack Yellen, and that the musical score was arranged by Ferdie Grofe, long one of Whiteman's mainstays. Others of note in the cast include Laura La Plante, Glenn Tryon, Myrna Kennedy, "Slim" Summerville, Grace Hayes, Marian Statler, Don Rose and scores more. Charles Irwin is a suave and unobtrusive master of ceremonies.

The bill is augmented by the Universal News, Graham McNamee announcing; James Fitzpatrick's "Thoughts for Mother's Day" and a brief orchestral prelude.

It is "The King of Jazz," however, that marks the epoch in making musicals.

WHOZIT?

"Whozit?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was the most famous of the deities of Norse mythology.

2. The legend was that he presided over a place of perpetual happiness where the slain warriors spent their days in fighting each other for the joy of fighting, knowing that their victims would be restored to life or health at the end of the day.

3. The warriors spent their nights in feasting and drinking but the god himself did not eat—he subsisted on wine alone.

Oil Company Answers In $100,000 Damages

The Penn Oil Co., which, with another corporation and two individuals recently was sued by the Shell Oil Co. for $100,000 damages for alleged breach of contract, yesterday filed its answer in District Supreme Court denying the liability and countering with a claim for $100,000 damages.

Charges were made in the suit filed by the Shell Co. that the Penn Co. and others had failed to carry out the terms of a contract. The Penn Co. and the other defendants charge that they did not refuse but that on the last day the Shell Co. sought to impose new terms and conditions contrary to the specifications agreed to previously. Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer appears for the Penn Co. and other defendants.

Merchants Association To Forego Booster Trip

For the first time in more than 20 years, the Merchants and Manufacturers Association will not make their annual booster trip this summer, it was announced yesterday by E. D. Shaw, executive secretary of the association.

Reason for cancellation of the trip is attributed to the fact that the boat on which the trip is usually made has been leased by a Northern company and is being used in Northern waters. The board of governors of the association, reflecting the sentiment of the membership, decided not to make an inland trip, the desire being to keep up the custom of the boat trip. The booster trip of the association originated the first Buy-in-Washington campaign, an idea that is now being developed by the recently formed "Buy in Washington Council," Mr. Shaw said.

GRANT REFUSES JOB OPEN IN CINCINNATI

Capital Park Director Turns Down $25,000 Yearly as City Manager.

PREFERS HIS WORK HERE

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d announced yesterday that he would not be a candidate for the city managership of Cincinnati, Ohio, a position that is said to have been virtually assured him. Absorbed in his work as director of Public Parks and Buildings, and eager to see the culmination of his plans for the bicentennial George Washington celebration, Col. Grant said that he would continue his residence in Washington.

Political leaders of Cincinnati were here conferring with him last week, and it was understood that they had selected him for the $25,000-a-year job as city manager.

In a formal statement to the press, Col. Grant expressed appreciation for the consideration of him, but said that he would not consider leaving Washington.

"Financially, the position is evidently very tempting, as well as the opportunity for useful and interesting work and accomplishment in such an attractive city as Cincinnati," he said.

"However, I am so interested in the work I am now connected with in Washington and attach so much importance to the large number of projects in course of being carried out that I feel that I can not abandon this at this time."

Col. Grant is chairman of the George Washington bicentennial celebration committee.

Judge Orders Former Governor Disbarred

Boston, May 1 (A.P.).—Judge Sanderson, supreme court justice, today ordered the disbarment of former Gov. John L. Bates on the ground of gross misconduct. The bar association had charged that Bates had failed to use funds of clients for the purposes intended by them.

In explaining his financial difficulties, Bates told the court that he had left public office "a poor man." Later, the collapse of a local bank impaired his credit at a time when it was most needed, he said. Bates was Governor of Massachusetts in 1903 and 1904 and prior to that he had served in the Legislature and had held other public offices.

CHAPLAIN PRAISES MANILA BAY HERO

Speaker Says Dewey Was Embodiment of Naval Academy Ideals.

JAHNCKE ATTENDS RITES

George Dewey, admiral of the Navy, was the embodiment of the ideals of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Capt. Sidney Evans, D. Acting Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke was present with his staff to represent the United States Navy officially at the commemoration service. Several of Dewey's officers and men who fought with him at Manila Bay were present, as well as high-ranking officers of the Navy, representatives of patriotic organizations and Admiral Dewey's associates on the general board of the United States Navy.

The American flag and the United States Navy colors were carried in the procession of choir and clergy in commemoration of Admiral Dewey who is buried in Bethlehem Chapel. A number of wreaths had been placed on the tomb by members of his family and patriotic organizations.

"Admiral Dewey represents character tested in service to generations of midshipmen at Annapolis," said Chaplain Evans. "The Dewey tradition is a lofty one, indeed. Whenever we think of him we remember that all who wear the country's uniform are doubly pledged to her service and her freedom."

The service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. William L. De Vries, precentor and canon of Washington Cathedral and Canons G. Freel and Peter.

RULE EFFECTIVE MONDAY

In an effort to speed up procedure in congested criminal divisions of the District Supreme Court, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover has issued orders that, effective Monday, all witnesses in criminal cases are to be subpenaed to be in court at 9:45 o'clock instead of 10 o'clock as has been long the custom.

"We hope," said Mr. Rover, explaining his new order, "that by starting at 9:45 o'clock we can save considerable time. In the fifteen minutes before the judge mounts the bench we should be able to call names of witnesses and determine what cases are ready, and begin trial as soon as the judge is ready."

Mr. Rover expressed the hope that witnesses and attorneys would cooperate in the new move.

Monday also will see the beginning of the reassignment of judges in an effort to meet congestion due to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, the illness of Justice Wendell P. Stafford and the fact that Justice Alfred A. Wheat is engaged in pressing condemnation cases.

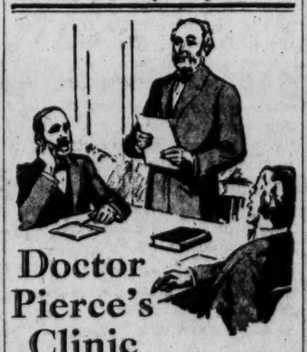
Flier, 19, Delayed By Crash in Texas

Goldsborough Plane Hits Telephone Pole, but Reaches El Paso.

El Paso, Tex., May 1 (A.P.).—Damage to his plane as the result of striking a telephone pole in a daylight take-off from the desert 100 miles east of here today temporarily interrupted the transcontinental flight of Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old pilot who left New York last Monday for Los Angeles.

Goldsborough reached here at 6:30 a. m. (Mountain standard time), despite the mishap, but examination of the plane showed that the wing which crashed into the pole could not be repaired immediately. Mechanics went to Phoenix, Ariz., for a new wing and the flier announced his departure for the West would be delayed until tomorrow.

Goldsborough was forced down in the desert by darkness last night after leaving Midland, Tex. He slept in the plane and at daylight in taking off for El Paso accidentally veered too close to a telephone pole.



Doctor Pierce's Clinic

DR. R. V. PIERCE was a successful practicing physician, when, in 1870, he established a clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., the members of which were well-qualified medical men, specialists in the treatment of various chronic diseases.

If you are ailing, and desire a thorough medical examination, go to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., where you will receive good medical advice from Dr. Pierce's Clinic. If you can not go there, write the Dr. Pierce Clinic, answer all their questions as best you can, and send sample of urine, and you will receive the best medical advice possible, and for this there will be no charge.

An herbal tonic that Dr. Pierce prescribed most often for building up the weakened system, and for making richer blood, cleansing the systems of men, women or children, without harm, was afterwards put up in ready-to-use form and is known the country over as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It is sold in both liquid and tablet form at all drug stores, and is just as popular now as 60 years ago.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., if you wish a trial package of the tablets.

statement. She wore a blue suit with modest, tight fitting blue hat.

In her statement, Mrs. McCormick said it was impossible to say just how much her campaign cost because it was impossible to know what period such a statement should cover. She advocated legislation restricting the amounts which candidates could use, and requiring accounting of patronage promises.

"One of my opponents," she told the committee, "in the recent primary never formally announced his candidacy but had been organizing and campaigning for two years in advance of the primary. Another of my opponents announced his candidacy in mid-winter and two others entered the race merely by filing their names with the secretary of state.

Appeal to 3,000,000.

"In my campaign I had to make an appeal to approximately 3,000,000 voters scattered over 102 Illinois counties. I was running independently of factions but I had serious machine opposition in all of those counties.

"I perfected personal organization of my own. I had bureaus which worked out the details of carrying our message to various groups. We had a labor committee, a woman's organization, a foreign language citizens committee, &c. It was necessary to circulate printed material, carry on extensive correspondence by direct mail, hold meetings in all parts of the State and make a campaign by radio.

"One of the issues in the campaign involved an intricate problem in our foreign relations which made the task of informing the voters of my attitude on the question a most difficult one. The mailing of one letter each to all voters of Illinois would cost approximately $120,000."

Mrs. McCormick after testifying took a seat beside her companion, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of the Speaker, and remained to listen to the testimony of Senator Deneen.

Another in Court Takes Rum Pledge

The soldier who took a two-year abstinence pledge in Police Court earlier in the week now has a companion who also will wear the "white ribbon" for that period.

John Willett appeared before Judge Robert E. Mattingly yesterday on an intoxication charge and was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or 90 days. Willett asked the judge to be lenient and the latter relented on the condition that the man would "swear off."

Willett said he would and according to instructions repeated after the judge the following: "I solemnly swear that for the next two years I will not touch a drop of any intoxicating liquors, so help me God. And if I break this pledge I hope you will send me to jail for the next six months."

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Driving through a safety zone is a flagrant violation of the local traffic regulations. It is no less a violation because the space marked off for the protection of persons waiting to board street cars is unoccupied.

The reason is plain enough. To preserve these small areas as inviolate places for refuge at all times, the traffic authorities have insisted that driving through them be prohibited under all conditions. They do not want careless drivers getting into the habit of driving through them at any time.

Example—A driver going up Fourteenth street northwest, to pass a car ahead as it drives alongside a safety zone, cuts through the end of the zone. It is unoccupied but he has committed an infraction of the traffic code which the authorities consider serious.

passage of the Howell bill, judging from all indications.

At yesterday's hearing there were two opposing witnesses besides Mr. Hooe, and one witness who favored its passage.

The two proponents were Walter Denegre and Fred W. Buck. The former declared that by trying to replace the laws of God with the laws of man prohibitionists already have done enough damage without trying to inflict the Howell bill on the city.

Mr. Buck introduced Mr. Hooe.

Albert Stabler, proponent of the bill, said he was a Quaker "between 66 and 100 years of age," and announced that he was appearing for children "born and unborn."

So far as he was concerned, Mr. Stabler said, the Howell bill, instead of seeming drastic, was not drastic enough. The committee couldn't draft a bill drastic enough for him, he said.

"Would you hang a man for violating the prohibition law?" Senator Tydings said, with a laugh.

Old Days Recalled.

Here Mr. Stabler hedged. He might not do that, he said, but he would sentence a second offender to 15 years on the rock pile. In his peroration, he that, under prohibition, Washington is "a million times better off than it was in the days of the saloon." His three children, he said, had convinced him of this.

At the outset of the hearing, Senator Blease (Democrat), introduced a series of amendments, which, from the standpoint of owners of property and proprietors of public places, would make the bill even more drastic than it now is.

Senator Blease admits he will take a toddy, but justifies his approval of the Howell bill by saying that he believes his people in South Carolina would want him to vote for it.

TRIAL BOARD OUSTS THREE POLICEMEN

Gravely Will Get Hearing Tomorrow in Shooting of Crotts.

64 DROPPED SINCE 1928

The Police Trial Board tried three policemen at its weekly session on Wednesday and yesterday announced that it had sentenced each to be dismissed from the police force, bringing the total number of men sentenced to be dismissed to 64 since the Trial Board was reorganized September 14, 1928. It now is composed entirely of police officers. Formerly a civilian official was chairman. All of the men sentenced to be dismissed yesterday were privates.

P. W. Steele, Seventh Precinct, was dismissed on conviction of desertion. Steele was accused by Miss Ruth E. Shurman, of the Shelbourne Apartments, of assaulting her last October 8. On her complaint two days later a warrant was issued against the policeman to which he answered several days later, posting bond for his appearance at his trial. In the meantime, he had absented himself from duty without leave and has since been under suspension, although no formal complaint was lodged with the Police Department about him and his case has not been tried in court. He was present at his trial Wednesday.

Claud Evans and J. H. Foster, both of the Second Precinct, were dismissed for conduct prejudicial to the good order and reputation of the Police Department. The men were accused of taking $26 from one numbers game operator and $12 from another, and Capt. O. T. Davis had them arrested under warrants, but one case was dismissed in Police Court when witnesses failed to appear and the other was nolle prossed. Despite their victory in court the Trial Board sentenced them to be dismissed from the police force because of their association with numbers game operators.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, forwarded the report of Inspector Louis J. Stoll, Trial Board chairman, to the District Commissioners for their approval.

Trial of Precinct Detective S. F. Gravely, Third Precinct, for shooting James Crotts has been set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Pimples on Face Itched Like Fire. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face itched badly for about two weeks and then little red pimples broke out that itched like fire. Later the pimples became large, red and hard. I could not sleep at night on account of them. The trouble lasted about two months.

"I tried other remedies but they failed to do me any good. A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some and in about three weeks every pimple was gone. I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Margarette Smith, 429 E. 27th St., Baltimore, Md., June 21, 1929.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm

They Revitalize the System—Induce Youthful Activity—Keep Body in Splendid Condition—Free From Fat.

It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only a few months ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.

All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit also.

Kruschen Salts are taken for their health building value all over the world—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain today.

Kruschen Salts are different from other salts—Kruschen is six salts in one—the very same six salts that nature put into the human body at the beginning of creation and demands you keep them there or your health won't be as good as it should be.

Unlike most salts Kruschen isn't simply a laxative—if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?

When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fiber in the body with nature's own revitalizing and rejuvenating minerals.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85c at Peoples Drug Stores, or any drug store in America—take one-half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.

Before the bottle is empty you'll feel years younger—eyes will brighten—step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation—one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

THE NAVAL TREATY.

The London treaty is now before the Senate. An examination of the scope and effect of this proposed compact must be made by the Senate in order to determine whether, in the interest of the United States, it should be approved, modified, or rejected.

Treaties are peculiar supreme laws, because of the fact that more than one sovereign enacts them and undertakes to observe them. A treaty is essentially a gamble, in which the parties attempt to foresee the future and undertake to discount or control events. Good faith and mutual cooperation are assumed, or the treaty would not be made.

The London naval treaty may vitally affect the relations of the United States with at least five of the greatest powers in the world. The most careful study of the proposal is desirable on the part of the Senate, in order that the United States may know, as well as men can know, what effect the compact would have upon America's relations with the rest of the world under any contingencies that may arise.

It is not wise to assume that events will follow a course seemingly indicated by present conditions. Prudence requires the United States to take into account a situation entirely different from the present one. War between other nations should be considered as a possibility, and the conditions resulting from such a war should be taken into consideration with reference to America's commitments in this treaty. The United States only thirteen years ago was embroiled in an overseas war. The Nation was caught at a disadvantage, and it lost heavily in men and money because of its unpreparedness. To approve a treaty merely because it aims to promote good will through limitation of armaments, while shutting the mind to its possible disadvantages in the event of an emergency driving the country into war, would be a gamble indeed.

The effect of this treaty upon the United States Navy, now and for the next few years, should be thoroughly studied. For this purpose the Senate committee on naval affairs is under an obligation to throw a public searchlight upon the treaty in its bearings upon the Navy. The committee should elicit information from the Secretary of the Navy and the other delegates, the naval advisers, and the naval experts who attended the conference in London, as well as from experts in the Navy Department and in the fleet.

The announment that Italy is about to undertake a large construction program, taken in connection with the previous enactment of a naval construction law by France, makes it advisable that the Senate naval committee should obtain the opinion of experts concerning the situation in which the United States Navy would find itself if Great Britain or Japan should take advantage of the treaty provision which entitles them to increase their naval strength in certain contingencies. Apparently the treaty contains a loophole which would permit either of these parties to build ships suitable for its defense while denying to the United States the option of building the kind of ships it deemed most suitable for its defense. The scope of this provision, having in mind the possibility of foreign war before 1936, will, of course, be carefully studied.

The public is little concerned with the inside story of the London conference. Little of importance can be made public touching political matters in which other governments are involved. The people will be disposed to consider the treaty as it is written, not the ins and outs of diplomatic exchanges preceding the agreement. Therefore the inquiry by the naval committee will be most important in enlightening public opinion. An assurance that the United States Navy is well protected against any emergency would promote prompt favorable action upon the treaty.

STRIKING AT EVERY MAN'S RIGHTS.

Aside from the attack upon the Supreme Court itself, the most serious aspect of the fight that is being waged against confirmation of Judge John J. Parker as an associate justice lies in the demand of radical senators that judges of the inferior Federal courts disregard principles laid down by the supreme judicial body. Throughout the debate it has been apparent that the insurgents oppose Judge Parker because he upheld a contract between employer and employe which the Supreme Court has declared valid by unanimous decision. In spite of the effort to draw fine legal distinctions between the decisions on this subject, the fact remains that Judge Parker is criticized for following the reasoning of the highest tribunal.

Had he been a fearless, aggressive jurist, the insurgent argument runs, Judge Parker would have broken away from the opinion of the Supreme Court and rendered a decision in favor of labor. No more vicious anti-judicial argument could be advanced. In effect, these senators are saying that regardless of what the law is, or what judicial precedent has been established, a court should be swayed by the sentiment of factions and render its decisions accordingly.

It is not necessary for a person to be schooled in the law to understand the chaos that would result from such a practice. The value of the circuit courts of appeals and the Federal district courts would be vitiated. Each court would be a law unto itself. There would be no uniformity of either law or justice, and no ruling would be decisive until it had been passed upon by the Supreme Court. Since it is physically impossible for the Supreme Court to act on all cases, the law would disintegrate into a set of disconnected and discordant opinions, and no man could be sure of his rights.

Opinions of the Supreme Court have the effect of law. A judge in a lower court must give heed to them, or he is not fit to serve on the Federal bench. Any other course would nullify the Constitution and a good share of law that has been subsequently enacted. It is well that the public should understand that the so-called "liberals" are striking through Judge Parker's nomination at the integrity of the judiciary and the certainty of justice.

NO EXTRA SESSION NECESSARY.

No one will give serious thought to Senator Jones' proposal that President Hoover call an extra session of Congress to enact law enforcement measures. When Congress concludes the present session, probably some time in June, it will have been in session nearly fifteen months. How many members could be kept in Washington while their opponents back home built fires under their political fences? It is absurd to think that President Hoover would put his party leadership to such a severe test.

This does not alter the fact, however, that the Republican party should take definite steps to improve law enforcement before it again faces constituents at the polls. In 1928 the Republicans swept into power on the strength of pledges for economic adjustments and better law enforcement. President Hoover made law enforcement the issue of the day. The people have been led to expect widespread improvement in this respect. But Congress has done nothing to curb lawlessness, and now threatens to adjourn without taking any action. What can Republican members of the House and the Senate say to their constituents on this issue?

An extra session to consider law enforcement measures is not necessary. One outstanding cause for delay has been eliminated with the scrapping of the Law Enforcement Commission's proposal of juryless trials for minor offenses against the prohibition law. The House judiciary committee has been unable to act because of its disagreement on this issue, but it has now reported favorably on bills to provide additional judges where they are needed to relieve court congestion. There can be no valid opposition to increasing the number of judges in localities where the courts are overworked, and therefore no reason why this measure should not be enacted before adjournment.

The bill for transfer of the prohibition enforcement unit from the Treasury to the Department of Justice has been passed by the House and reported favorably by the Senate judiciary committee. It could be easily disposed of. If Congress should add to this a satisfactory program to relieve the shameful conditions in prisons of the country, its members would not need to face their critics empty-handed. President Hoover has also asked for unification of the border patrol units, but that is somewhat more complicated and less urgent. The party pledge might be considered redeemed if court and prison congestion were relieved and the prohibition unit placed where it belongs.

TRAINING OF SEA PERSONNEL.

Construction loans and mail contracts, provided by Congress as practical aids to the merchant marine, are rapidly bringing about a new day for American shipping. Shipyards are engaged in a building program that within the next few years will add at least 64 new vessels to the American merchant fleet at a cost of approximately $270,000,000. Furthermore, the demands of growing commerce may require the establishment of still other trade routes, the awarding of additional mail contracts and the construction of still more ships of modern design.

One of the important problems that came up for consideration at the Third National Conference of the Merchant Marine, recently held in this city, concerned the training of an adequate personnel to serve on this greatly augmented fleet. It was recognized by all the leading shipping men that competent officers and crews could not be produced overnight, and that effective measures would have to be adopted without delay if the many large ships of the future are to be efficiently manned.

An interesting suggestion made at the conference was that future merchant marine officers should be trained at Annapolis, where the Government is already maintaining a magnificent educational plant, and where, at comparatively small expense, a merchant marine course could be added to the present curriculum. It goes without saying that the plan proposes that the regular academic instruction should be supplemented by adequate sea training, both during the course and afterward.

Opposed to the scheme are those who maintain that the only way to train officers of merchantmen is in the hard school of experience.

There was lengthy discussion of the proposal by the delegates attending the conference. The presiding officer, Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, appointed a committee to investigate the subject and make appropriate recommendations. When the committee makes its report the public will be in a position to make intelligent comparison of the two points of view—whether merchant marine officers should come from the fo'c's'le or from the Naval Academy.

COL. GRANT REMAINS.

Washington was very much afraid that Col. Grant, director of public buildings and public parks, would accept the city managership of Cincinnati, tendered recently upon the resignation of Col. Sherrill. The financial inducement was large and the opportunity for public service by no means meager. That he has refused the position is gratifying. The development of Washington of recent years in large measure is due to the administrative ability of Col. Grant. The beautification of the city has made marked progress at his hands. At this particular time, with the bicentenary celebration of Washington's birth approaching, the Capital could ill afford to lose the services of this official. Col. Grant's decision to remain in Washington may be regarded as a compliment to the desirability of the Capital as a place to live. His sacrifice of a large salary in order to continue his labors for the upbuilding of Washington sets an example in citizenship.

When Gift Pinchot heard that the oversize bathtub in the Pennsylvania executive mansion had been removed he threatened to quit the race. It seems as though Gift is doing a little premature worrying.

COFFEE—AND WHEAT

From the New York Herald Tribune.

The financial pages of the newspapers yesterday carried the announcement of the flotation here and in other world markets of a $97,000,000 7 per cent loan for the state of San Paulo, Brazil. The loan is designated a "coffee realization loan," and its terms make interesting reading. They reveal that under an agreement arrived at between the state and the international bankers handling the loan, not only is the huge stock of coffee within that state to be disposed of, but similar accumulation is forbidden. "The state," so the terms of the bond offering provide, "undertakes to place future crops on the market currently and agrees not to accumulate any coffee, directly or indirectly, during the life of the loan except in agreement with the bankers, as further security for the loan." Thus does Brazil's coffee valorization plan, rivaled as a price-fixing measure only by Great Britain's Stevenson rubber restriction act, go the way that ill-fated experiment went in November, 1928.

The valorization of coffee in Brazil represented one of the first important examples of governmental schemes for the control of commodity surpluses, originating as early as 1906. It thus enjoyed a life four times as long as that of the Stevenson plan, which was abandoned at the end of its sixth year. The difference seems to have been due, not to the fact that Brazil controlled a larger proportion of the coffee output than did the English colonies of rubber—the figure was about two-thirds in each case—but because the Santos brand of coffee possessed a peculiar and universally popular quality. In view of this quasimonopolistic situation, it is not surprising that, whereas the rubber restriction plan failed because of stimulation in production elsewhere, the coffee valorization scheme failed because of increased production at home. Coffee production outside Brazil, it is true, has increased from 6,000,000 to 9,000,000 bags since before the war, but the Brazilian output itself has expanded even more rapidly. As against an average output for 1917-1926 of 14,000,000 bags, that country in 1927-'28 produced the unprecedented total of 28,000,000 bags, or some 6,000,000 bags more than the world's consumptive requirements. Toward the end of last year it was estimated that 1929-'30 production would be 21,400,000 bags, bringing Brazil's visible supply to about 31,000,000 bags. The break in prices that inevitably resulted from this situation carried Santos coffee to 10 cents a pound, as against 20 cents a year ago, while Rio coffee prices likewise fell about 50 per cent, or from 14 cents to 7 cents a pound.

The lesson of the failure of the Brazilian scheme comes at a time when it is badly needed in our own country. The Federal Farm Board has recently shown a decided tendency to interpret the purposes of the agricultural marketing act in respect to wheat as somewhat akin to those of the Stevenson act and the valorization plan. Such an interpretation, especially in the case of a country controlling at best between 20 and 25 per cent of the world supply of a commodity, invites certain and speedy misfortune. If there is one thing that the failure of the rubber and the coffee schemes demonstrate it is that supply must be controlled at the source; that production must be adjusted to demand. This means, in its practical application to our own problem, that the Farm Board would do well to pay more attention to acreage and less attention to the futures market.

Florida Times-Union: When one congressman calls another a liar, the public knows that it was only a little more gas than usual turned loose.

Good Racket.

Florida Times-Union: Some day maybe the Antistealing League will come before the Government and ask for $15,000,000 annually to enforce the law against stealing.

Active Volcano.

Akron Beacon-Journal: Millions of words and straw votes devoted to prohibition do not sustain some rather ancient prophecies that one great question was settled and settled right.

Now for the Wet Crusader.

Kansas City Star: A leader among the dry forces, testifying before the House judiciary committee, says it is "the wets who have become the fanatics." We trust the cartoonist representatives of the militant wets, who would save the Nation's youth, its womanhood and tender manhood from the ravages of prohibition, will hereafter picture the wet reformer only as a tall, skinny man with a very long nose, a grinning countenance, a high stovepipe hat, a frayed coat, black bow tie, umbrella and all the rest. The change would be refreshing for the country, and the drys would not be offended in the least.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ACHIEVEMENT.

Life gave him dreary tasks to do,
And fortune never came,
He lived his whole existence through
Unheralded by fame;
His mind was never free from care
No time for sport he had,
And yet when silvered was his hair
His twilight days were glad.

No more he grieved for pleasures missed,
Nor grudged the toilsome task
For he had gained from life's long list
Of joys, the one he'd ask.
His daughters now are women true,
His sons are worthy men;
And all the care he struggled through
Is paid for ten times ten.

Life gives to some men wealth and fame,
To some its pleasures gay,
A few its luxuries may claim,
But happiest are they
Who come to old age peacefully
And in the twilight spell
Before they say "good night" can see
Their children doing well.

You Can't Take the Wrong Road on the Desert Where There Are No Roads.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN an individual employs violence to gain property or avenge a wrong, he is called an enemy of society and is universally condemned.

When several men form a gang and use weapons to obtain property or injure their enemies, they are regarded as outlaws and are hunted down and jailed.

Yet when several million men form an organization called a government, they can use weapons to win land or avenge insults and retain the respect of all mankind.

What is the difference?

Is right a matter of numbers?

Is killing done in malice a crime when one man does it and a blameless act when ten thousand men share the guilt?

Why is there one standard of morality for individuals and another for nations?

The answer must be that of Paul—that where there is no law there is no condemnation.

And since law is the will of a power strong enough to enforce it and punish those who do not obey it, we come logically to the conclusion that where there is no such power there is no law.

If there is no law, there can be no violation of law—no wrong-doing.

A nation can steal and kill with impunity because there is no earthly power to say: "Thou shalt not."

How can your child disobey if you give it no commands? How can the savage violate the marriage laws if in his land there are no laws? How can a nation's annexation of territory and organized butchery violate law if there is no power above it to make and enforce law?

The truth is, there can be no wrong-doing if there is no power to establish a standard of right-doing.

And thus we come inevitably to man's need of a God.

If there is no God to sin against, there can be no sin.

If you deny God, you leave no power to establish a standard of right except men.

And since, without God, men have no right, except that of force, to regulate the conduct of other men, you are free to say: "No man has the right to tell me what I shall do, and nothing is wrong if I choose to do it. They can punish me, for they are stronger than I; but the breaking of men's laws can't be wrong, for other men are no greater than I."

When you take away the Supreme Being, you take away the source of law and leave men free to commit any crime if they can get away with it.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE LONDON PARLEY SUBMARINE SKIPPER.
(After Capt. Reece of the Bab Ballads.)

Of all the subs upon the blue,
No one was kinder through and through
Than that old worthy Captain Reece,
A gentleman in war or peace.

He was adored by all his crew
And by all other sailors, too,
For not a sinking he'd abet
Without the proper etiquette.

Whene'er he'd sight a stack or sail
He'd say, "Let kindliness prevail,
And be so gentle and so sweet
They'll take the sinking as a treat."

He never gave a signal gruff,
An order harsh or rude or rough;
He treated ships respectfully
And emphasized civility.

"Whene'er a ship is sighted we
Will act," he said "quite graciously,
And never, never, never let
An act be done that we'd regret.

"We'll say, 'It is a bitter cup
To feel we have to blow you up;
And when we sink you, as we must,
You will not mind it much, we trust.

When passengers seemed dull and sad
The captain danced to them like mad
And told, to make the time pass by,
Droll legends of his infancy.

If it was cold in open boats
He'd give the neutrals overcoats,
Warm slippers and hot-water can
To ev'ry lady, boy and man.

If they with thirst did seem to burn
He'd serve cold beer at ev'ry turn,
And on all very sultry days
Cream ices handed round on trays.

Then currant wine and whisky slings
And hand-initialed water-wings,
A book to suit each person's mind
And pink pajamas rubber-lined.

Kind-hearted Captain Reece, R. N.,
Loved women, children, also men;
In point of fact, good Captain Reece
Made war seem better, far, than peace.

One evening as he sunk a ship
He said as tears rolled drip, drip, drip,
"Come, tell me, please, what I can do
To please the passengers and crew?

"By any reasonable plan
I'll make you happy as I can;
My own convenience counts as nil.
It is my duty, and I will."

Then up and answered Captain Shoate,
The skipper of the neutral boat;
A nervous, shy, low-spoken man,
He cleared his throat and thus began:

"We feel as passengers and crew
We're lucky to be sunk by you;
You're gracious, kindly, gentle, good
And you would spare us if you could.

"We have, then, just one thing to ask,
It represents a simple task;
To satisfy a little whim,
Oh, captain, teach us how to swim!"

Good Captain Reece, that worthy man,
Embraced the speaker and his plan;
"I quite agree," he said, "Oh, Bill,
It is my duty and I will."

So leaping from his fish-like boat,
He taught them how to swim and float;
It only took a month or so,
And to their thanks he said, "No! No!"

Then ere the crew could fire a shot
He ordered, "Hold! I guess we'll not."
And sailing on across the seas
He smiled and said, "Excuse it, please!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Conspiracy to Break Down the Supreme Court—Mr. Sheets Recalls the Attempt to Destroy John Marshall.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was much pleased to read your able and unanswerable editorial in The Post defending Judge Parker against the vicious and unwarranted attacks made by certain senators who seek to defeat his confirmation as associate justice of the Supreme Court.

You state in your editorial that "The preeminent ability and high character of Judge Parker qualify him for the Supreme Court." There is where the shoe pinches with these Jacobin senators. They do not want such a man on the Supreme Bench. If a man more of the type of "Big Bill" Haywood were appointed this same aggregation of senators would support him to a man.

They are now engaged in a conspiracy similar to that engaged in by the Senate a century and a quarter ago. John Marshall, with the concurrence of his associates, had the courage and patriotism to declare an act of Congress in conflict with the Constitution, to be void. So those senators who took the position that an act of Congress was valid though in conflict with the Constitution, conceived the plan of getting rid of the objectionable members of the Supreme Court by impeachment. Chief Justice Marshall was the one at whom their shafts were ultimately aimed. To make a test of their strength they commenced on Associate Justice Samuel Chase. But owing largely to the able and impartial manner in which Vice President Burr presided at the trial they failed to get the necessary two-thirds vote required for removal. The conspirators then gave up their contemplated impeachment of Chief Justice Marshall.

The present conspirators are seeking to arrive at the same goal, but by a little different method. They want judges who when they take an oath to suport, uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States take that oath with a mental reservation. So they are opposed to Judge Parker.

Had Judge Parker refused to be guided by the decisions of the Supreme Court he would have been utterly unfit for the high position to which he has been nominaed. If the judges of the courts inferior to the Supreme Court were permitted to ignore the law as laid down by the Supreme Court and decide each case according to their own caprice, the result would be chaos and anarchy. Yet these senators who claim to be "more holy than thou" are advocating just such a situation. This is another good illustration of the old adage, "Beware of the reformer."

Home Runs Provoke Psychological Speculations and Rosy Dreams of World Domination.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Correspondent H. W. Bleacher, with his home-run statistics, opens up an interesting field of thought. In fact, it may be that he is an Einstein in the universe of baseball. Heretofore the psychology of the home run has been considered chiefly in regard to its influence on the world of fans and gate receipts. As a spectacular incidental of the game its value has been recognized, but its relationship to the morale of the players has been neglected. Club managers have sometimes been fearful lest anxiety to knock home runs might interfere with the accumulation of ordinary hits. Probably that fear, in the case of worth-while batters, is groundless.

But be that as it may, Mr. Bleacher's statistics thus far seem to show that the home run not only brings frenzied crowds to their feet, but is a source of nervous strength to the club whose turn at the bat it glorifies.

With the potency of "the shot heard round the world," Sam West's initial home run in Boston started the Griffs off to the winning start of a winning season. How otherwise account for the fact that a club which experts picked for sixth or seventh place is at this writing in first place with an average of more than .800?

Certainly, if the Nationals continue as they have commenced, it will go far toward demonstrating that, in addition to its direct effect on the score, the psychologic influence of the home run develops a championship spirit which makes itself felt in fielding as well as in stickwork. Interest in swatting heroes has increased since the advent of Babe Ruth, and it may be that we are now entering a resounding home-run era of baseball.

Big Fish Got Away at London—Three-Power Pact Described as a Glittering Generality.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of what they have accomplished, the position of the naval conference delegates on their return from London is not enviable. The limited three-power pact which they bring back is very likely to remind the average undiplomatic citizen of the offensive and defensive alliances of the past. Considering the uncertain if not furtive attitude of the great powers in general, those who still follow the lead of Washington, Jefferson and Monroe will not be blinded to the defects of the pact by diplomatic generalities to the effect that it marks an important step in the direction of world peace.

To me the glitter of those generalities recalls the famous Holy Alliance of our great grandfathers' days, Russia, Austria, and Prussia, who, in the name of "the religion of God, our Saviour," took for their "sole guide the precepts of that Holy Religion, namely, the precepts of Justice, Christian Charity, and Peace."

In addition to this, encumbered as it is by a five-power misunderstanding which must be diplomatically accounted for, the naval conference delegation reminds me of a member of the Izaak Walton League who goes angling for bass and comes back with a string of catfish.

GANDHI WEAKENING, OFFICIALS INDICATE

Nationalists in Indian Prison Freed on Sureties After Pleading Regret.

NATIVE PAPERS SUSPEND

Bombay, May 1 (A.P.).—The government of India indicated today it believed the civil disobedience campaign fostered by Mahatma Gandhi was losing ground.

An official communique said three Nationalists who had been sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment at Nagra have expressed regret for their action and asked that they be dealt with under the criminal procedure code.

The communique added that their request had been granted and they were released after having posted sureties. It commented this "would appear to indicate that some, at least, of those practicing passive resistance are beginning to recover their equilibrium."

It is felt here that Gandhi intends to intensify his campaign along new lines, but no one knows that form his actions will take. It is understood, however, he will lead the civil disobedience campaign in Bombay personally if 100,000 volunteers pledge to follow him, abstaining from violence and wearing homespun clothes.

The viceroy's recent order requiring native papers to go under a censorship and post a bond of $1,800 for security has caused many of the publications to suspend. Five papers in Calcutta alone have ceased publication.

Rumors regarding extensive preparations to meet trouble at Peshawar and along the northwest frontier continued to come in, but details are scanty because of the censorship.

Search is still being made for the band of insurgents which recently attacked the police armory at Chittagong. Most of the raiders still are at large in the nearby hills and today an airplane arrived to aid in reconnoitering.

Aimee McPherson's Daughter Is Injured

Istanbul, May 1 (A.P.).—The daughter of Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, is ill in a hotel here with a high fever, the result of a bad fall from the upper to the lower deck of the French ship Ankgor, en route here from Palestine. The boat arrived today.

The evangelist had intended merely to pass through Istanbul and join her group of tourists at Oberammergau, Germany, but now must wait developments in her daughter's illness.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

FROM all the current shoulder-shrugging, brow-lifting and ahs-ing about certain well-organized minorities terrifying senators into opposing the Parker confirmation, a man far out at sea might conclude that the business of chasing timid legislators into the tall timber of submission is new and surprising stuff.

False conclusion! Rash assumption!

There was, for instance, the illustrious gentleman who in less than an hour was catapulted, volplaned or torpedoed out of the now defunct Senate coalition for lower tariff rates.

This particular senator had been a coalitionist of light, leading and ululation. To him, a regular Republican was only another man to ignore. He had conscience, he had courage and initiative! He coalesced when ever he got good and ready. He coalesced early and late.

As the gold-medal, class A, blue-ribbon coalitionist, he was something for the newspapers to plaster all over page one. In the tariff bowling alley he was the Big Ball that knocked the tenpins of high rates galley west, and never missed a shot!

* * * *

BUT there was oil in this coalitionist's State, and there came to Washington a delegation of oil men, the kind of oil men who spout cash, conversation and compulsion as well as petroleum, and they said to him: "Approach us. We fain would confer. Bring, get or secure for us an exceeding high tariff on oil."

The coalescer—or coalitionist—knowing the oil wherewith things were oiled in his State, conducted the delegation to the suave smiling and sebaceous James E Watson and confessed, not say boasted, an overmastering desire for a heaven-tall tariff on oil

The wise James E. did not laugh at him who had done so much coalescing with the progressives He was too polite—and politic—for that He merely let it be understood by the delegation of oil men and by the well-oiled coalescer that the desired tariff probably would be forthcoming, if, when, provided, et cetera.

* * * *

AND thereafter the senator who had adorned so many newspaper headlines with his doughty industrious and audacious coalescing—this intrepid Ivanhoe who, with the lady fair of progressivism perched on his pommel, had galloped roughshod up and down the carpeted aisles of the Senate, while Mr. Smoot flinched and wondered—this scorner of regular Republicans was, has been and is the most regular Republican that regular Republicans have ever regulated into being regularly regular.

So, as we start out to say, the trick of terrifying, stampeding or regulating a senator of the United States is not new stuff originated by the Parker case. All that's needed to do the trick is a certain type of senator, with a clever or noisy minority to work on him.

District Assessor Checks Employes

Near Chaos Follows When Workers Crowd to Sign New Time Slips.

William P. Richards, District assessor, yesterday ordered a new system of checking working hours of his 100-odd employes, scattered through offices occupying about a block and a half in the District Building, and 4:30 o'clock, official closing time, found his office in something approaching chaos.

All of the employes are now required to sign a time slip kept by one woman clerk. They must sign this slip in the morning, twice at lunch and at closing time. Heretofore the various heads of divisions of the Assesor's Office kept records of employes' working hours. Now all must check with the central time keeper. In an effort to forestall a rush too early in the afternoon, Mr. Richards ruled that no employe may start for the timekeeper's desk before 4:25 o'clock, five minutes before closing time.

Not only was there congestion at the desk yesterday, but there were several disputes about the time groups of employes appeared. Then it was discovered that some clocks were several minutes fast and others were fast and others slow. They will be adjusted today

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Novel Written By Mrs. Keyes Stirs Interest

Senator's Wife Portrays Trials of Novice in Official Set.

By JEAN ELIOT.

IN "Queen Anne's Lace," Frances Parkinson Keyes, best known to Washington as Mrs. Henry Wilder Keyes, tells a story which is of exceptional interest to those of us who have lived long in the Capital. Mrs. Keyes is no novice at the novel writing game, although of late years she has devoted her time and talents to writing descriptive articles of life in Washington—the famous "Letters of a Senator's Wife"—and in the capitals of the world. But this is the first novel from her pen which has for its background the official life of Washington, with which the author is so familiar and of which she paints an authentic picture with high lights of humor and understanding.

"Queen Anne" makes her debut in Washington as the wife of the senator from a New England State—as Mrs. Keyes did a number of years ago. However, the story is not autobiographical—unless prophetically—for, according to one who has read the novel in manuscript, the heroine's husband becomes President of the United States. Indeed, the adventures of this charming heroine are quite other than those which have fallen to the lot of Mrs. Keyes, although naturally the writer has drawn somewhat upon her own experience for incident and background.

The current installment of "Queen Anne's Lace" deals with the heroine's first few weeks in Washington and her sundry misadventures due to ignorance of just what is expected of the newcomer to official life. After a prolonged struggle to find a house adequate to her needs and not beyond the reach of her income, she is caught by a camera man busily engaged in washing her windows—to have the photograph go out all over the country under the caption, "New Senator's Wife Her Own Scrubwoman."

There's an account, probably too true to be entirely funny, of "Queen Anne's first afternoon at home, when she didn't intend to be at home and didn't even know that senators' wives were expected to receive on Thursdays and of how she retreived her position the following Thursday with a well-appointed tea and with the Vice President's wife presiding at her table. Although pictured as quite unlike either lady in appearance and in previous experience, there are suggestions of both Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Dawes in the portrait of the Vice President's wife in her capacity for understanding and her gracious willingness to be helpful and cordial to the newcomer.

The importance to official women of maintaining cordial relations with women of the press is brought out in the story and there is mention of one of the jolly luncheons of the Women's National Press Club, at which the Vice President's lady was the guest of honor. The installment also includes an account of the first luncheon of the ladies of the senate attended by the heroine and vivid pictures of the ceremonies on Capitol Hill when a President's message is read.

Mrs. Keyes is now in New York, having just returned from a year of travel in Spain and South America in search of material for a series of magazine articles. However, she will rejoin Senator Keyes in Washington before the week is over.

Mr. Dion Kerr and Mr. R. Crawford, of Aiken, S. C., will act as judges at the society horse show to be staged at the Preece Riding School, 2538 Massachusetts avenue.

One of the features of the morning show, at which children will hold center stage, will be the open class for children 9 years old and under. Pauline Curtis, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Curtis, will exhibit her pony in this event.

Always one of the picturesque events is the parent and child class in which children ride with their parents. A few of the entrants in this class are Capt. Christopher Rodgers and his daughter, Virginia; Mrs. Robert Low Bacon and her daughters; Mrs. Demarest Lloyd and her daughter, Angelica, and Count Szechenyi and his daughter, Countess Alice.

The morning show will start promptly at 10 o'clock, the afternoon show at 2:30. Luncheon will be served in a marquee adjoining the ring.

Mr. Wichfield Will Succeed To Danish Post

New Legation Counselor to Arrive May 26 for Duty.

With the arrival on May 26 of Mr. Hubert Wichfield, recently appointed Counselor to the Legation of Denmark, Washington will receive into its social circle one of its very own—or so it seems to hostesses—who recall that Mr. Wichfield is the brother of Mr. Aksel Wichfield, whose marriage to Mrs. Clarence Moore, so long a resident of Washington, formed one more international link in the interesting chain of weddings that add luster to each season here. The new counselor will take over the duties relinquished by Mr. P. O. de Treschow, who is leaving for Copenhagen, where he will be chief of bureau in the foreign office. Since both young men are bachelors and of interesting personalities, the Diplomatic Corps loses a popular member only to gain one with the change in personnel at the legation.

Apropos of Mr. and Mrs. Wichfield, friends in Washington see but little of them these days as they have elected to pass the greater part of their time in Europe since disposing of their fine house on Massachusetts avenue to the government of Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sterling Robertson, of New York and Charleston, S. C., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sarah Elizabeth Robertson, to Dr. Howard Alexander Patterson, son of Mrs. Andrew Patterson, of Chapel Hill, N. C. Dr. Patterson is the grandson of the late Eben Alexander, one-time Minister to Greece, Serbia and Roumania.

Miss Robertson was graduated from Miss Hartridge's school in Plainfield, N. J., and later attended Smith College. During her sophomore year at college she was introduced to society at a supper dance at the Park Lane given by her parents.

Dr. Patterson is a member of the surgical staff of Roosevelt Hospital.

The Blair and Mason families, both prominent in Washington, have a double connection, as Mrs. Blair's sister, Miss Mary Eula Mason, is married to Dr. Blair's brother, Mr. William Blair. The "Mason girls" are daughters of Mrs. Charles F. Mason and the late Brig. Gen. Mason, granddaughters of Mrs. Frank Mitchell and cousins of Mrs. James F. Curtis. It was from the home of Mrs. Curtis that Miss Mason and Dr. Blair were married.

Mrs. William Montgomery Sweeny, who has been for several weeks the guest of her sister, Mrs. Leo Kasehagen, and her cousins, Dr. and Mrs. George Tully Vaughn, has returned to her home in New York. She was called to Washington by the serious illness of a sister, Mrs. Royston St. Noble, of Barcelona, Spain, who was operated on recently at Georgetown University Hospital. Mrs. Noble was Miss Rosamund Higginbotham, of Virginia. She was married in Epiphany Church in Washington in 1912 and has since been living in Barcelona.

Homes Prove Attraction to Many Visitors

Historic Residences in Nearby Places Draw Tourist Throng.

Three historic homes near Washington—Gunston Hall, Rippon Lodge and Wellington—which are open to the public this week, are attracting hundreds of visitors each day. With members of the Garden Club of Alexandria as hostesses the spirit of hospitality, so much a part of old colonial homes, is stressed in a pleasant cordiality. Rich in historic lore, visitors enjoy the charm of Rippon Lodge, the colonial home of Col. Thomas Blackburn. Two of Col. Blackburn's daughters are married Washingtonians and each, in turn, was mistress at Mount Vernon. The present owner, Mr. Wade Hampton Ellis, a collateral descendant of Col. Blackburn, has restored the house to its original appearance, also expanding the lawns and gardens, while retaining the beauty of the gardens of 200 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Hurley, of Chicago, entertained a small party at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Tumulty being among their guests.

The Friday Evening Dancing Class will hold its final party in the large ballroom at the Willard tonight. A dinner will precede the dance. Mrs. Parker West is arranging special decorations for the occasion.

Judge and Mrs. Roderick N. Matson, of Cheyenne, Wyo., will be guests at the Mayflower for the next ten days. Judge Matson arrived here from New York in time for the meeting of the American Society of International Law and will remain for the American Law Institute next week.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Stanley White will be at the Marlborough Blendheim in Atlantic City over the week-end.

Mr. H. E. Wooever is at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago for a stay of some days.

Mrs. Herbert Guggenheim and her sister, Mrs. M. A. Baer, are visiting in Atlantic City. Upon their return Miss Bernice Wols, who has been with her aunt, Mrs. Baer, will leave for her home in Tampa, Fla.

Mrs Fronheiser has also left Washington for the summer, having gone with friends by motor to Nevada, northern Mexico and California, whence she will sail later for Alaska, returning to Washington about October 1.

Mrs. Philip L. Perkins, of Providence, R. I., has motored to Washington and is at the Dodge Hotel with Mrs. Josiah H. Drummond, Mrs. Percy E. Frost and Miss Sallie Wheeler, of Newton Center, Mass.

HIGH LIGHTS OF GREAT WORLD WAR

As Related by the Veterans Themselves

Workmen's Reward

Just after the war broke out my company was assigned to the duty of guarding bridges. Fifteen of us took the regular assignment of two hours on and two hours off at one bridge for four months before we changed to four hours on and four off. We had to walk over a mile to our station and the walk didn't count as time on duty. To complicate matters I strained a leg so badly that I was compelled to use crutches (and buy them myself) and thus handicapped, walk my mile and then my post, because we did not have enough men for relief.

While on duty one day a colonel of the New Jersey National Guard came along with the colonel of my own Pennsylvania regiment. As they approached me I laid down my crutches, propped myself up and came to a "present arms."

I probably made a ludicrous appearance and both officers laughed and then turned to speak with my captain who accompanied them. When I got back to my tent, Lieut. Gilmore told me not to go on duty in the daytime any more but just at night, as it didn't look well to see a cripple walking a post.

That was all right, but—when it came time to sign the pay roll I found that I was down for 25 cents a day (we were then supposed to get 50 cents a day). I asked why and was told that I had only been working half-time and so was only entitled to half pay.

Can you beat that for Government efficiency? JOHN L. CLERC, 109th Infantry, 28th Division.

A Long Flight

Those who served with combat divisions overseas realized the difficulties often present in locating the front line after an attack.

To relieve this uncertainty as related to the Second Division near Soissons on July 18, 1918, certain men in the first wave were given carrier pigeons with instructions to write a message telling where the line finally had dug-in, fasten the message to the pigeon and release the bird to fly back to division headquarters.

The attack on that day started at 4 a. m. and continued all day while the division staff fumed and fretted at lack of news telling how far the advance had progressed. At dusk a single pigeon fluttered into the loft and most of the staff dashed over to retrieve its mess. Unrolled—it bore the cryptic tidings, "I got tired of carrying this d——d bird, so I just turned him loose."

CARLI E COSTELLO,
Second Division.

At Present Prices?

Partisan opponents of prohibition have attempted to show its cost in dollars and cents to America, with indifferent success, but the U. S. A. Quartermaster Department can show a bill for 90,000 francs which, those who incurred it declare, is directly attributable to the fact that the United States was expected to be "dry" before the boys in Base Section, No. 7, at La Rochelle got back.

A freight car, loaded, according to the French, with cognac was run onto a siding—when examined later it was not loaded, but the surrounding community was. Everybody from the nervous French guards to the German prisoners, was filled with a new spirit of cordiality that threatened the existing state and established an entente cordiale that the League of Nations might envy. The Boche forgot his bocherle, the pollu even, for the moment, forgot his revenge, the Americans forgot taps—in fact, the entire incident would be gladly forgotten if it were not for the bill that appeared later—charged, of course, to the Americans.

It is now rumored that local diplomatists are trying to figure the 90,000 francs into the peace treaty to be equally shared by the Bolshevists and the prohibition party.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

A popular bloomer dress for small folk for play time is illustrated. It is cotton broadcloth print in yellow and white.

All the fulness falls from the shoulder yokes. This allows plenty of freedom. The shirring is dainty fashion. The Peter Pan collar is white broadcloth. The pert tie is black grosgrain ribbon.

The bloomers are gathered into knee bands of the white broadcloth. They have elastic inserted through hem at top.

Style No. 312 comes in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years.

Gingham, pique linen, percale, dimity, wool jersey, dotted swiss and printed lawn suitable.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Dept., Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Inclosed is 15 cents. Please send to

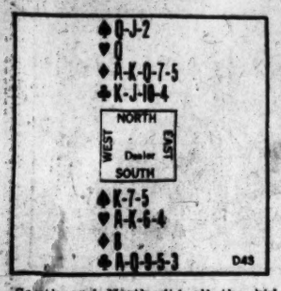
CONTRACT BRIDGE.

An interesting hand of Progressive Contract was played recently in Philadelphia. The distribution of the adverse cards was immaterial as the big hands were held by the Dealer and his partner; here they are:



South and North did all the bidding and the variations were striking. At some tables South bid one Club, North two Diamonds and South three No Trumps; at others South started with one Club and North bid five; in some cases South bid one Heart, North three Diamonds and South three No Trumps; and in others where South bid one Heart, North bid three No Trumps. When South started with a call of one, a game-bid was reached but no more.

At the tables at which South started by bidding two Clubs, West bid six as his hand reached a total of 29 upon the basis of the count in general use for raising partner's suit-bid—26 would be fully sufficient to justify the jump to a small slam; at either Clubs or No Trump a small slam could be made with the greatest ease.

The point to consider is not the result in this hand, but the benefit that may be derived from an initial bid of two. Those who require more than six probable tricks to justify that bid could not make it in this case, nor could those who bid two with six tricks justify a bid of two Hearts as that suit has only one probable low-card trick. But a bid of two Clubs was warranted because the dealer could count his Ace and King of Hearts and his Ace of Clubs as three high-card tricks, and his Queen of Clubs with the Ace of that suit, combined with his King of Spades, as a fourth; the two long cards of the five-card Club suit being counted as two probable low-card tricks.

With a mixed semi-two-suiter (a four-card major and a five-card minor), there are advantages in naming the higher-valued suit first; but when a bid of two of the lower-valued suit is justified and only one of the higher, the advantage of being able to show six tricks more than overweighs the advantage of bidding an initial major. The players who started with two Clubs made the soundest possible selection and were vindicated by the results.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great contract and auction booklet entitled The Playing Problems. Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

Playing problems present eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer, in complete detail.

Playing Problems which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Summer just couldn't come too soon if we only had this white georgetter frock in our wardrobe! (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris).

Paris, May 1.

PERHAPS the principle that a thing worth doing is worth doing well accounts for this travel ensemble that is quite the most complete costume you could desire.

First, there is the sleeveless dress of fine striped wool, and you and I know how practical that would be for ever so many sports in ever so many places, and for the getting there by boat or train or rumble seat, as well.

Then the matching jacket with sleeves and a straight scarf which ties in front and evolves the sleeveless frock there and then into a one-piece dress for rather warm weather travel, or inside the train or boat or automobile.

But you can't be fooled by a sudden drop in temperature—if you will cross the border of two countries and jump from the frying pan into the freeze! A harmonizing tweed coat belongs to this ensemble, is very smart in line, and shows the scarf collar of the jacket at the neck—which is what every good little tweed coat should do—! And it has a large and flattering raccoon collar, just for good luck.

It answers every travel need in a nutshell, as it were—oh, well, I suspect that the famous Redfern knows a thing or two or three about traveling!

• • • •

A string of pearls will give them a million dollar Cinderella look! A lace incrustation on material matching the gown and negligee will complete the ensemble! And, oh, there are lots of ways of making perfectly adorable French mules, your very own self and for so-o-o-o-o little money and with such gorgeous results. Now don't you want to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet?

• • • •

There's just no telling where a ruffle will end, once it gets a good start on a silhouette! And here we are with a lovely Martial et Armand taffeta frock to sketch for you, with its simple capelet, its plain bodice and smooth tight fitting hips with incrusted tucking, and loosely flare skirt!

And what does a ruffle do but attach itself harmlessly to the lowest incrustation below the hipline and ripple gracefully almost to the hem of the skirt! Just the touch of elegance that makes this simple dress unusual.

Oh, I meant to tell you—it's made of white georgette! And just in case you don't know it already, the smartest things you could choose to wear with this gown would be the black suede gloves with ecru lace cuffs that almost reach the cape, and a snug little lace toque with black aigrets. And so you'd make no mistake, I have sketched them for you, too, for they were specially designed to go with the ensemble.

Mode Primer.

For tennis: Tennis dresses are almost always of tussor or shantung, if not, then of very fine light weight white woolen, less often of linen. They are often sleeveless and sometimes backless, although not as backless as they were when the mode was more in favor of suntan.

The skirts are rather short, and Molyneux favors them developed in trouser effects that look like skirts.

Tennis visors have semicrowns so that they can not slip down over the face. One wears stockings rolled down around the ankles or no stockings at all. And a three-quarter or long sports coat has rather taken the place of the inevitable slipon sweater or cardigan.

What Today Means to-You

"TAURUS."

IF May 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

There are no important indications for this date, but it would be well to remember that the tide turns at low water as well as high. Honest efforts will not be met with opposition or hindrances, and will receive the usual rewards.

Children born on this May 2 will have happy-go-lucky natures, will face the world with a spirit of optimism. They will be independent in thought and action, and will like to be left "on their own." They will be dependable and reliable workers.

You have very pronounced likes and dislikes, in fact, you might be called "pernickety." You are prejudiced against a person for the tiniest mannerism or fault which may offend your susceptibilities, while overlooking a cardinal sin in another. You pamper your whims and fancies beyond reason. Your personality wins many admirers for you, but few warm friendships. You do not respond easily or happily to human interests. Your destructive criticism of others is resented, as is also your self-evident superiority complex. You are coldly, scientifically intellectual; your nature is lacking in both warmth and sentiment. Cupid will have a hard time to pierce your heart, but it is not impenetrable, and you are going to have one great love affair, which will change your outlook upon life, and soften your character.

You are very sure of yourself, and would pass a very high efficiency test. You do not play the game of life timidly, you are able to judge your hand, and are not afraid to "push." You will have runs of good and bad luck, but on the average you are destined to be in luck more than out of it. You have very keen perception, and are a wide awake and vital person. Both your pride and your vanity will have to be humbled before charm is added to your personality.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"A Talkative Man."

HORTENSE is engaged, and so far as she can tell is also in love.

But she is analyzing the other 50 per cent of the romance and would like to know what is what.

"If I am in love, as I believe I am, why can I not take this man and be glad, elated, and full of joy? We expect to marry in another month. But is that a joyous thought? Not with all the other thoughts."

For instance, she states she has a tendency to "hold forth" when they are out. He gets into debates with casual acquaintances, and near-battles with close friends over such trivial subjects as prohibition and the Einstein theory. So Hortense, while adoring him in private when he sits in silent bliss and holds her in his arms, just wants to disown him in public when he Patrick-Henry's all over the place.

What to do? Hortense feels "almost low" to marry a man she finds herself criticizing for his numerous insanities. But is that really "low?" How many wives if they told the truth gaze spellbound at their spouses in action and wonder within their inmost souls how a man can be such an utter idiot? Providence it seems to this humble observer had just such contingencies in mind when investing the most famous rib in history with a sense of humor, and the ability to see the childishness in man's most serious performances.

Not because we have any interest in getting people married, but because we know so many people who are just as miserable single as married, we would advise Hortense to let this Horatio on the bridge do his stuff, and marry him anyway. And our chief reason for so advising is our secret conviction of years standing that men always have been more talkative than women. They love to hold forth. And why stop them? Hotel lobbies, pullman smoking rooms wherever they forgather becomes the scene of loud debate. What harm? If their clamor resulted in any discomfort for us, or wrought any change whatever in either prohibition or the multiplication table it might behoove us to silence them, but time has proved that none but women ever actually accomplish anything by talking, so let the poor things have their say.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

GLADIOLUS, THE PEOPLE'S FLOWER

SOME time ago in this column I championed the cause of larkspur. Today I want to cheer with equal enthusiasm for the gladiolus or sword flower. Pronounce it as you choose; it is your flower as it is mine. It is adaptable, being seemingly as happy in a wee garden as it is in an estate of acres. It is one of the most useful, beautiful and satisfying of all our garden flowers.

Another point in its favor, aside from its beauty, is the fact that it blooms in August, the time when there is a dearth of other flowers. If you know the gladiolus, you know how easy it is to raise, but as some may this year be growing it for the first time, do let me impress on you the importance of setting out your bulbs fifteen days apart. If you set out the first relay May 1 and the rest at fifteen-day intervals up to June 30, you are sure to have a succession of blooms from July until late October. A gladiolus bulb requires twelve weeks to come to bloom.

Spade the ground deep, the deeper the better, and if manure is used let it be old and very well incorporated with the soil. Then dig a trench or furrow and plant the bulbs four inches apart, either in single or double rows, according, of course, to the size of the bulbs. Plant smaller bulbs earlier than the larger ones, which must be planted in June. Set them about four to six inches deep. Here you should be guided by the character of the soil. In heavy soil I should say four inches; in light soil six inches would be better.

Plan to keep the rows 2 feet apart, which will allow of easy hoeing and also permit you to walk between the rows when you are cutting the spikes. It seems that the gladiolus really loves to be cut and carried away to glorify some cool hallway or restful living room. And let me suggest that you cut the spikes when the first bud shows color; the rest will open in the house and show a better color than if left to open, perhaps more naturally, in the sun.

If your garden is a small one that boasts of a border of hardy shrubbery, you can plant gladiolus here, but they will enjoy being alone best, because they like a little more stirring of the soil than is generally possible in a mixed border.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

HOW TO SHAMPOO A CHILD'S HAIR.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

Dissolve a piece of plain, mild soap in hot water and strain. When the solution has cooled to a jelly rub it well into the scalp, using great care not to scratch the skin with the finger nails. Then, with the child's forehead resting on a folded towel on the edge of the wash stand, repeat the process for the back and sides of the head.

After the soapy application has been thoroughly rubbed into every part of the scalp, rinsing water should be poured over it from a pitcher, taking care to have the first water just comfortably warm and each successive rinsing somewhat cooler, until the last one is quite cold.

In warm weather the hair may be dried out of doors in the wind and sun, although the hot sunlight should not fall directly on the head for any length of time. If the weather is cold, cloudy or stormy, the hair should be rubbed nearly dry with warm towels and allowed to hang loose for a time Care should always be taken to dry the scalp completely. Combs and brushes should be washed very often, and dried, whenever possible, in the open air and sunshine.

Time sits lightly on the head of "Caponsacchi." After two years, Walter Hampden played it again in Washington last night and yesterday matinee in Poli's. It wears well. In fact, this performance compares favorably with any in the Hampden repertoire; perhaps his best, barring, of course, the never-to-be-forgotten Cyrano de Bergerac.

'Twas Miss Rose Palmer, a Washingtonian, who delved deep enough into Browning's epic poem, "The Ring and the Book," to bring forth the dramatic material set forth in this play—a collaboration with Arthur Goodrich, man of the theater. They had plenty to go on, a deep-dyed villian, an angelic heroine, and a hero of proportions attaining to godhood. Caponsacchi, the young priest, who befriends the maid wedded to a fiend incarnate is a model man—and Walter Hampden idealizes the character.

The blank verse adds mightily to the stature of the play, and the Walter Hampden company has at it with all the artistry at its command. Playing Pompella, the maiden wronged, Miss Ingebord Torrup measures up to the test of tragedy. It remains for Ernest Rowan to perpetrate the villian of villians, Guido, the madman-murderer, and to paint him in colors deeper than ever splashed on a predecessor in all the history of dramatica. Not even in the old blood-and-thunder houses of the land was there ever such a sterling presentation of this of fiendish revelry; enough to draw forth the hisses of the gallery gods of old.

So that in a real work of art there is this human touch, with Walter Hampden and his players contributing something of real melodrama wrapped carefully in the cloak of fine theater.

Cecil Yapp it is who gives the one touch of comedy to the play, lightening it and helping to make of "Caponsacchi" a well-balanced presentation.

Tonight Mr. Hampden plays "Richelieu" again, tomorrow night "Caponsacchi," with "Hamlet" as the Saturday matinee. So there is a chance to see all three plays in the present repertoire—a trio that measures up to the best acting ability of the American theater—everything considered.

In the wake of the Hampden Players, the attraction for Poli's Theater beginning next Sunday, May 4, is Anne Nichols' play, "Abie's Irish Rose." For this revival most of the members of the original New York company have been assembled to resume their old roles. In the cast are Alfred White as Solomon Levy, Ida Kremer as Mrs. Isaac Cohen, Harry Bradley as the priest, Father Whalen; Jack Berter as Rabbi Jacob Samuels, all of the orginal cast.

Tourist Reports On Missing Girl

Jeanette Racoosin, 15, Seen Near Richmond, Her Mother Hears.

Jeanette Racoosin, 15-year-old Jefferson Junior High School pupil, of 701 N street northwest, who disappeared from her home Monday afternoon, was seen late Monday night on the main highway about 28 miles north of Richmond, by J. B. Roberts, of Dallas, Tex., a motorist, at the Washington Tourist Camp, according to his report to the girl's mother.

Roberts said he was repairing a puncture to his car when the girl, identified later from newspaper pictures, asked him the distance to Richmond and told him in response to questions that she had been walking for several hours.

Second Precinct Policeman R. D Chenault yesterday morning arrested Charles McDonald, 49 years old, of B street near Twelfth street southeast, on charges of attempting to obtain money under false pretenses in allegedly asking the girl's mother to advance him money at his assertion that he knew Jeanette's whereabouts. He was released on $1,000 bond. Police said he told them he was a private detective.

Plans Are Formulated For Clean-Up Campaign

Plans for a cleanup campaign in Washington were formulated yesterday at a meeting of the police and fire protection committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce. The campaign will be conducted in connection with "Cleanup Week" in the District, designated by the District Commissioners as May 19 to May 24.

Col. E. G. Bliss was appointed chairman of a special committee to cooperation with the District officials and other local agencies in the campaign. The program will include radio talks over station WMAL and brief instructional talks in the District schools.

Los Angeles to Remain In Service Indefinitely

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover told Congress yesterday that the Navy dirigible Los Angeles, which was turned over to this Government in 1924 by Germany, may be retained in service for several additional years although it had been expected that it would be decommissioned about July 1, 1931.

In a supplemental estimate submitted to Congress asking for an immediate appropriation of $75,000 for the transfer of a small dirigible hangar at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., it was disclosed that a recent survey of the dirigible indicated that she "may be retained in service several years longer than formerly anticipated."

Cooling Night Breezes Give Relief From Heat

Cooling breezes last night furnished relief from a sudden rise in temperature during the day which sent the mercury up to 86 at the Weather Bureau and 90 at the kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue. It was the second warmest day of the spring season, a mark of 91 having been set on April 11.

Yesterday's weather was not unusual for this month, officials said. Warm weather will continue for several days, but there will be thunderstorms in between periods of sunshine. No heat prostrations were reported.

In the party were Everett Saunders, secretary to former President Coolidge, and Mrs. Saunders; Judge Oscar E. How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HANDLING OF HYSTERIA.

L. M. S. writes: I wonder if an article on hysteria and the proper handling of it would not help such people who are the innocent victims of some one else's fit of hysteria.

Recently such a case came to my attention. A silly, love-sick neurotic, at a gathering of fifteen girls, threw such a fit and thus received a whole lot of attention. None recognized it as hysteria, had not heard of such a thing, and believed the girl dying. After an hour in which the subject remained in her trance only a physician could get her out of it. A heart case who was present has hardly recovered from the fright, and the hysterical person is having every one waiting on her for fear she will faint again. She claims she feels the faint coming on all day.

REPLY: The significant part of your letter is the statement "no one recognized it as hysteria."

Hysteria of the type you mention was once very common. Girls threw such fits with great frequency. Fainting was an indoor sport which was frequently indulged in. Nearly every party was interrupted by one or more fainting spells and some girls were very handy fainters. There was an occasional man who was handy at the gentle art of fainting. Nor was fainting the only common manifestation of hysteria.

In recent years major hysteria has become uncommon. One reason for the subsidence of the old-time prevalence was that people had got so they were proficient at recognizing the malady for what it was and the reputation as fainters which some women had served to deny them the spotlight which attacks were expected to achieve. In other words, the disorder carried the machinery for spontaneous cure, both of the individual case and the social custom.

Now, people have forgotten. There is no common knowledge of the hysteric and hysteria and some harm results. Unpleasant situations arise. Hysteria is an emotional state with somewhat complex groundings. For one thing, it is somewhat sex linked. It is not frequent before puberty nor after the change of life.

Even babies like the center of the stage, and from that period on up through childhood we find them doing all kinds of bizarre things to get and hold it. There is some relationship between this urge and hysteria. In fact, the root of the thing runs way back to that instinctive urge which makes a baby yell when his arms or legs are restrained. However, hysteria, though a branch of this tree, has peculiarities of its own and is in fact almost a thing apart.

The outstanding quality of hysteria is its purposefulness. The attack is always designed to accomplish an end. In its carrying out there is an attempt to simulate a something, a fainting spell, an epileptic fit, or something. There are certain signs by which it can be recognized. In the main these relate to symptoms not under control of the will or only partially so, such as body temperature, the pupils, the pulse (its rapidity and character), the circulation, the eyelids.

The cure consists wholly in training.

INFORMATION ON TUBERCULOSIS.

Mrs. H. G. writes: Where can I get information regarding tuberculosis in all its stages?

REPLY.

Apply to your State or local health department or to your State or local tuberculosis society.

Most libraries have one or more books on tuberculosis written in nontechnical language.

STEVINSON BEATS PITT, GAINING GOLF SEMIFINALS

Pegler

NEW YORK, May 1.—It is one of the penalties of fame and affluence in the sport industry that a young man may tip his hat and pass the time of day or night to sentimental females only at considerable risk of his peace and his earnings. Let an athlete accumulate a few hundred linear miles of publicity and a few thousand dollars and the most ordinary courtesies to the ladies whom he encounters on his travels are likely to be misconstrued as protestations of a noble passion and a desire to wed.

A gift becomes an act of incriminating familiarity and a letter signed "Very Truly Yours" has only one meaning to the love-nature of the yearning recipient.

Of course, each breach of promise action against a famous athlete has its own merits, if any, and I would not undertake to prejudice the case of a young lady who is now demanding $100,000 of a famous sprinter, lately turned to the moving picture trade, but it strikes me as curious that these lawsuits, for what some copyreaders long ago called love balm, are never directed against the poor and obscure.

Lawsuits Are Based On Very Little.

The athlete in question may have misled the plaintiff in precisely the manner set forth in the bill of complaint, and a survey of her feelings by a jury of twelve good and susceptible males may show damage to the amount of just $100,000 even. This case, be it admitted, may be the exception to the rule. But a famous performer with a fairly good fortune or income should always make quite sure of the state of his feelings toward a lady before he commits himself to the opinion that she looks well in her bathing suit. Lawsuits have been based on less.

I am reminded of these perils to wealthy athletes, both married and unattached, because this is the time when every clod feels the stir, and also because Herr Max Otto and so forth Schmeling, the German prize fighter, a bachelor with a limousine body job and a trusting nature is about to land on these shores to pick up a great deal of money, perhaps as much as a million within the next two years.

Herr Schmeling is polite to ladies with those little European elaborations of common courtesy which distinguish the chaps from the Old World and it is quite possible that some casual attention of his to some imagin tive lady will be construed as something much more serious than he intends.

Manager Should Explain to Max.

For all I know, Max may be a handkisser, and if he is it will be well for his manager, Mr. Joe Jacobs, to take him aside soon after his landing Saturday afternoon and explain that this is one of the things that a person in his position may not do unless he is prepared to make a good woman of the damsel concerned, by formal ceremony or cash payment.

One day last winter when Jack Sharkey had finished his afternoon boxing at the dog track in Miami, a young man approached him for his autograph and handed him a piece of paper on which to scrawl the same. Incidentally, this mania for the signatures of prominent performers on old envelopes, score cards and laundry bills has defeated its own purpose, for the autographs of Babe Ruth, Dempsey, Tunney, Sharkey and Red Grange are now so common that the only real distinction lies in not having them. On one tour with Grange, I earned his gratitude by suggesting that he wrap a bandage about his right hand, thus enabling him to emerge from his rooms whither he had retired to escape this duty to his public.

Sharkey Takes No Chances.

But on the afternoon in Miami, Sharkey, the most domestic of the prize fighters, scanned the slip of paper and looked up at the young autograph hunter with an accusing glare.

"What is this girl's name doing on here?" he demanded.

"That is just some girl I met at a roadhouse last night," the young man said.

"Nothing doing," Mr. Sharkey said, and he put his fountain pen back in his pocket. "This is where Tunney got his jam."

Tunney, Grange, Ruth and even so brief a hero as Knute Hansen, all paid in embarrassment or cash or both for lapse of discretion which would have been dismissed as noth-

Jones to Face St. Louis in Opener

Invasion by Western Clubs of League Opens Today.

Nats Are Outhit by Rivals Despite Winning Streak.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH their eight-game winning streak broken, the Nationals hope to start another one at Griffith Stadium this afternoon when the St. Louis Browns open a three-game series, which marks the beginning of the first invasion of the Western clubs. A large crowd, including many "ladies day" guests is expected to turn out, for the fight and pep which Johnson's men have shown have made ardent fans of hundreds who previously had only been lukewarm toward the team.

Sam Gray is expected to do the flinging for the Browns, while "Sad Sam" Jones is due to draw the Washington mound assignment. The latter won his last start against the Mackmen, although Ad Liska relieved him near the finish. As this was his 1930 debut, he probably was not quite ready and with this game under his belt he is expected to show improvement.

Compile Streak Against Strong Clubs.

In ringing up their record of eight victories against but one defeat, the Nationals made themselves the most talked-of team in the league, the big surprise being the hitting power they displayed. Oddly enough, only one of the games in this string was against a weak club, the world's champion Athletics being beaten four times in a row, while the Yankees were trounced three straight before finally coming back with a victory Wednesday.

Against these collective opponents, the Nats completely upset the preseason dope, which showed them strong in the box and on the defense, but rather weak at the tee. In these nine games, however, they slugged toe to toe with their opponents, shocking even their most rabid followers, by forging to the front as home-run hitters and cracking out 80 bingles, many of which were most timely, against 84 for the enemy.

While these figures indicate that the Nats' flingers were not as effective as they were expected to be, actually they performed better than the record indicates, for, as a general rule, they were tight in the pinches and kept more than their share of the alien safeties scattered.

Fielding Statistics Disappointing.

Afield, too, they did not live up to advance notices, for they were charged with only two less errors than their opponents made, but here also they were fortunate, as their miscues did them no particular harm, while practically all of those made by their opponents were used in the manufacturing of runs. In double plays, eight were made by the Nats, while but five were negotiated at their expense.

Here are the figures showing how the teams stacked up since Easter Sunday, April 20, the beginning of the victory string, until Wednesday, when it was broken:

Home Stay Likely to Determine Class.

An indication of just where the Nationals niche in the final standing may be gained during the present home stay. In addition to all of the teams from the Western sector showing here, the Mackmen and Red Sox come back for a series each, being at home is regarded as a distinct advantage, for the opportunity for morning practice obtains, in addition to the fact that playing before home crowds is supposed to be helpful.

So far, the teams from the "wild and wooly" have been playing among themselves, thus no true line on their relative strength as compared with the Eastern teams has been obtained. Every one of the Western teams is

Ehmke Bares Trick Delivery, Outgrowth Of Shoulder Pain, Affecting Hitter's Vision

Batters Disconcerted by White Shirt in Line With Pitch.

By EDWARD J. NEAL.

NEW YORK, May 1 (A.P.).—Howard Ehmke, the blond trickster of the Athletics, is enjoying many a quiet chuckle these days at the expense of the baseball experts and the fans who saw him mystify the Chicago Cubs in the first game of the last world series. He'd like to keep on fooling them, but the story is too good to keep.

Every year, as pitching arms grow old and lose their cunning, the veterans search for something to ward off the inevitable slide back to whence all baseball flesh comes originally—the minors. Ehmke will never hit that chute—he's too smart a businessman in the off seasons, and, besides, he has discovered something at the end of sixteen years in the majors that he believes will prolong his career indefinitely.

It is a new delivery, a discovery that came to him as he labored with an aching shoulder in Shibe Park, in Philadelphia, while his teammates went West to win Connie Mack his first American League pennant in fifteen years. Ehmke was left behind to prepare for his surprise appearance in the opening game of the world's series. Over the season's stretch Ehmke had pitched only 55 innings, although he won 7 and lost 2 games.

As he worked alone, experimenting with throws from his position and that to ease the constant pain in his shoulder, the old sidewheeler tossed up a ball and let his body slide to the right with the throw. He watched the ball lob up to the plate.

"Suddenly I got an idea," he said. "I tried it again. Each time I threw a sidearm ball I moved to the right. I had on a white shirt. From my new position that ball came up to the plate on a direct line between the eyes of the batter and the white expanse of my shirt.

Keeps His Shirt in Line of Vision.

"Well, you know how hitters complain on the hot days when the fans in the center field bleachers take off their coats and sit in shirt sleeves. The pitcher then is throwing a white ball with a white background behind him and the batter can't pick it out. My white shirt acted the same as the white expanse of the bleachers, except that it was closer to the hitter and I could maneuver so that it was always in his line of vision.

"I said nothing to any one about it, but I tried it out against the A's in batting practice, and it worked. I used that delivery against the Cubs in that first game and struck out thirteen of them. And the funniest part of it is that no one discovered what I was doing. Just see if I don't win some ball games with that old side ball when the weather gets hot this year."

A's Hit 5 Home Runs In Routing Tigers, 19-2

Philadelphia, Pa., May 1 (A.P.).—The Athletics put on their own May Day riot at Shibe Park today, attacking the Detroit Tigers in six of their eight innings for a 19-to-2 victory. The champions greeted the first invasion from the West with five home runs, three doubles and two triples in their total of eighteen hits.

Max Bishop opened a five-run attack on Vic Sorrell with a homer and hit another in the fourth. Jimmy Foxx also hit two four-baggers and Al Simmons one. Charles Sullivan, Joe Samuels and Phil Hage followed Sorrell on the mound.

Miss Collett Defeated by Miss Gourlay by 1-Up Score.

British Win 2 Foursomes and 6 Singles at Sunningdale.

By FRANK H. KING.

SUNNINGDALE, England, May 1 (A.P.).—In fifteen matches, five foursomes and ten singles, all featuring fine sportsmanship and better golf than might have been expected from American girls so soon after an Atlantic voyage, Miss Molly Gourlay's British Team today won from Miss Glenna Collett's American line-up, eight matches to six with one halved.

Triumphing over the American Team, the British women accomplished something no British Team of men amateurs has been able to do, but whether the British girls are better golfers is still a matter of debate which will be continued in the woman's championship to be played ten days hence.

The margin separating victory and defeat was so small today that even Miss Collett and the members of her team were surprised. One more American victory would have evened the score.

Visitors Shaky From Ocean Trip.

Most of the visitors were still a bit shaky from their ocean trip. Miss Maureen Orcutt, who preceded her colleagues, had an opportunity for practice before the arrival of her sister players, and she was the only one to show her genuine form throughout. She was the only American to triumph in both morning and afternoon matches.

British golfers who had seen the excellent shot-making qualities of the newcomers to England, such as Helen Hicks and Virginia Van Wie, during their brief practice period yesterday, were surprised at their defeat today, but it was the inability of the visiting stars to string brilliant shots together that cost them dearly.

Misses Collet, Van Wie and Hicks led, only to fall back and suffer defeat.

Miss Courlay's victory over Miss Collett was attained through stronger play at the finishing holes. The American champion was two up with six to play, and few beat her from that position, but Miss Gourlay finished in even fours and her opponent helped her by fluffing two shots, each costing her a hole. Miss Collett dropped a 20-foot putt at the seventeenth green to keep the match going, but could not win the home

Braves Beat Bucs, 4-3, On Berger's Homers

Pittsburgh, May 1 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves, with their former Pittsburgh manager, Bill McKechnie, opened the first East-West series in the National League today by beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3. The defeat drove the Pirates from the league leadership.

The contest was decided by the hitting of Walter Berger after Harry Seibold, of Boston, and Larry French, of Pittsburgh, had fought a pitching battle for six innings. Berger hit successive home runs over the left field wall in the seventh and eighth innings, Neun hit a homer right after Berger's first.

Stevinson Rallies on Incoming Nine After Being 4 Down.

Will Play Cox Today; Peacock, Nicholson Also Survive.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE semifinal round in the championship flight of the spring invitation tournament of the Washington Golf and Country Club will be played this morning with Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, District amateur champion, paired against William J. Cox, Beaver Dam, in the upper bracket, and H. D. Nicholson, Washington, vs. Roger Peacock, Indian Spring, and District junior champion, in the lower half.

By the luck of the draw, for the qualifiers in the first sixteen were selected for match play by lot and not in the order of their scores, Stevinson and Harry G. Pitt, Manor former Middle Atlantic champion, who had won the qualifying medal with 73, were in the same bracket. When Stevinson, in the morning round, had easily disposed of A. S. W. Frailey, Chevy Chase, by the wide margin of 6 and 4, and when Pitt had defeated Albert R. Mackenzie, Columbia, on the seventeenth green, 2 and 1, these two players came together—one of them the medalist and the other failing to tie for the medal by a single stroke—and all of the contestants, as well as a large gallery looked forward to a real battle. They were not disappointed.

Victory to Stevinson On 20th Hole.

The heart-breaking and thrilling contest which resulted in a victory for Stevinson on the twentieth hole would have been worthy of any final round in any tournament. At the outset, Pitt seemed to have everything his own way. Halving the first hole, he won the second with a 10-foot putt for a birdie 2; won the third when he drove over 300 yards to the trap which guards the green, and the fourth and fifth, overdriving the green on the latter hole, so that he was 4 up in the first five holes.

Stevinson, who was evidently pressing, skied his drives and committed other costly errors. However, when he won the sixth, because Pitt took three putts, and the eighth, when Pitt's drive became tangled up in the trees, he was only two down at the turn.

Stevinson Rallies on Incoming Nine.

Thereafter, with the exception of the tenth, when his ball hit the green on his second shot and rolled off, making him 3 down, Stevinson played fine golf, a gallant exhibition of an uphill fight. He won the thirteenth when Pitt took three putts and scored a birdie 4 on the fifteenth with one putt. On the sixteenth tee he was only 1 down. Pitt missed a comparatively short putt on the sixteenth which would have given him a birdie for a win, and the seventeenth was halved, Pitt being still one in the lead. On the eighteenth, however, Pitt hooked his drive so close to a tree that borders the eighteenth fairway on the left that he was forced to play a left-handed shot to the seventeenth fairway and lost the hole in 5 to Stevinson's par 4.

The match should have ended on the nineteenth, for Stevinson drove into the farthest trap, while Pitt,

NICIAS, AT 25-1, CAPTURES BILLY BARTON CHASE

25,000 Watch Outsider in Victory

Philadelphia-Owned Gelding Outruns Graeme at End.

Redcliffe Goes Into Early Lead to Win Over Montferrat.

By J. B. SNODGRASS
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 1.—Nicias, 6-year-old gray gelded son of Zagreus—Nid De Pel, belonging to Mrs. William Chunneman, of Philadelphia, and under a perfect ride by Mr. David Dallas O'Dell, of Penns Park, Pa., surprised 25,000 spectators here today by winning the third running of the Billy Barton Steeplechase, a 3-mile race, in the new record time of 6:04.

The race saw twelve horses go postward and ten finished after one of the most spectacular jumping races ever witnessed here.

Trailing Nicias to the wire came G. L. Ohrstrom's Graeme, with Miss Elizabeth Altemus' Sanromolo taking third money from the Eastland Farm Stable's Markham. Nicias was a 25-to-1 shot.

The huge crowd stood and gave Billy Barton, in whose honor today's race was run, a rousing reception as he led the field postward. Astride the Baltimore-owned gelding was Jules Dillon, master of hounds at the Elkridge Hunt Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bruce's gelding, which finished second in the Grand National Steeplechase run in 1928 at Aintree, England, looked ready for racing as he proudly led the dozen starters to the post. He walked with springy step and there was not an ounce of superfluous flesh on him.

Graeme Takes Lead From Barrier.

There was little or no delay at the post. When the flag dropped Mr. R. Duffy took Graeme to the front and he was showing the way to Jim K. and Galloping Hope as the field went by the packed grand stand the first time.

When the field went into the first fence, Ben Leslie Behr's Tod Sloan fell and Mr. C. Burton suffered facial cuts.

Mr. Burton's fall dashed the hopes of many in the throng as he had won the Maryland Hunt Cup race with Brose Hover in the Washington Valley, less than three weeks ago, and was considered to have an excellent chance in today's feature.

Graeme, with Jim K. dogging his footsteps, continued to make the pace on the half-mile pole. There was little to choose between them at the mile, where San Romolo was running in third place.

Graeme Still in Van At 2-Mile Mark.

At the mile and one-half mark, Graeme was leading, with San Romolo and Radeo running as named. The 2-mile mark found Graeme showing the way to Radeo, with San Romolo third. It also saw Mrs. E. Bancroft Phillip's Barb Wire fall, but his rider, Mr. A. Rostworowski rolled away to safety. When the field went down the back lane the last time, Mr. O'Dell made his run with Nicias. He gradually picked up his field and came up to the final obstacle on even terms with Graeme. They both fenced cleanly, but Nicias had more in reserve and went on to a handy victory. Graeme, although tiring badly, saved the place from San Romolo, who was used up forcing the pace.

Nicias' victory enriched his owner to the extent of $1,500 and a $500 gold cup, while those folks who backed him in the mutuels received $53.40 for every $2 invested.

Coltiletti Brings Abduction Home.

Midsummer weather made its appearance today as the field of twelve 2-year-olds went postward in the day's 4½-furlong opener.

H. E. Talbot, jr.'s, Abduction was installed favorite. He justified that confidence by breaking on top, but it took a powerful ride from Frankie Coltiletti to keep him going long enough to whip the Nevada Stock Farm's Voltabush, a long shot. Third money went to G. W. Widener's Shield.

Coltiletti stepped Abduction into the lead at the break, and he had to exhibit his best brand of riding right down to the wire in order to cop the purse, as Shield and Babbie both took runs at him, with Voltabush making her bid in the final 70 yards.

King Kelly, Workman Up, Gallops in Third.

Mrs. Katherine E. Hitt's King Kelly, ridden by Sonny Workman, graduated from the ranks of the maidens when he ran off with the third, a mile and 70-yard affair.

Workman took King Kelly to the front early, and he won by five lengths from Syriac, who just lasted to take the place from Trapland.

The Blue Ridge, a mile and 70 yards affair, saw the Black Dot Stable's Redcliffe, 5-year-old chestnut gelded son of Sir Martin—Rockland, lead home the Sagamore Stable's Montferrat, favorite, with Frank Hayes' Bounding Deep third.

George Arnold rushed Redcliffe to the lead rounding the clubhouse bend, and he remained there the rest of the way home. Montferrat, one that chased the winner throughout, just lasted to take the place from Bounding Deep.

Frank Hayes claimed Syriac out of the third race for $3,500.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ABDUCTION, $7.90, $4.30, $2.70; VOLTABUSH, $10.20, $5.00; SHIELD, $2.70.

ABDUCTION MAKES AWAY WITH OPENER.

ABDUCTION, leaving in good fashion and moving to the rail at once, withstood early contention from SHIELD, responded to stiff pressure in the closing test and was slowly drawing clear. VOLTABUSH, prominent and going samely, outfinished SHIELD. Latter offered good contention, but tired in the final issue. IMAGINARY, poorly handled, was messed around and was in behind horses during the final stages, only for which she would have been closer. MISS DINWIDDIE had no mishaps. BABBIE went evenly. The others were held safe.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NICIAS, $53.40, $23.30, $9.20; GRAEME, $6.20, $3.50; SAN ROMOLO, $4.30.

NICIAS HEDGE HOPS HOME IN SECOND.

NICIAS, reserved until two turns of the field, responded with a bold burst of speed when going to the eighteenth fence, wore GRAEME down on the flat when reaching the final jump and came away without urging at the end. GRAEME lost much ground while enjoying a long early lead and weakened after the next to last fence. SAN ROMOLO raced prominent from the start and held on courageously. MARKHAM could not make up any ground when put to a drive. DRAGON DE VERTU, allowed to drop out of contention, appeared to sulk and was never a factor. SARATOP showed no speed at any stage. RADEO tired early. JIM K. faltered after two miles. BARB WIRE lost rider at the fourteenth and TOD SLOAN fell at the first fence.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:42. Off at 4:44½. Winner, K. E. Hitt's ch. g. KING KELLY HONORS BACKERS IN THIRD.

KING KELLY began quickly, opened up a winning lead after five furlongs and increased his advantage through the remaining stages. SYRIAC, prominent and hard hustled, saved ground, but faltered badly and barely outstayed TRAPLAND. Latter was shuffled back midway of the back stretch, went to the outside and closed fast in the run. TAILSPIN, slow to begin, made up a lot of ground. PRINCESS HENRY was held safe. BROKER had no mishaps. BEHAVE CASH stopped badly as did HONESTY.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. The Blue Ridge Claiming Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:15. Off at 5:15½. Winner, Black Dot Stable's ch. g. (5), by Sir Martin—Rockland. Trained by H. G. Woods. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14, 1:40 2-5, 1:45.

REDCLIFFE NO PUTTY HORSE IN FOURTH.

RED CLIFFE outbroke his field and, moving into an easy lead, was rated in front and was never seriously menaced and had enough left to stall off MONTFERRAT. Latter, in closest attendance of the winner, made a stout effort when approaching the home stretch and continued gamely. BOUNDING DEEP broke slow, was forced to race on the outside but closed with good energy. SANFORD was unable to get to the leaders. JUDGE BARTLETT was held safe. GOLD MINT was in trouble most of the journey and was eased through the stretch.

FIFTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:46½. Off at 5:58. Winner, A. C. Bostwick's ch. c. MATE TAKES COMMAND IN THE FIFTH.

MATE, racing stoutly from the beginning and withstanding a strong drive from the stretch turn, wore ROYAL MYSTERY down steadily and was up in the last few yards. ROYAL MYSTERY displaced AULULARIA when ready, saved ground and held on determinedly when forced to stand a drive. JOLLY KING improved his position steadily, but could not threaten the leading pair. SUN PARCHED showed a good test. MISS GRACE was in tight quarters after the break. REDOUBTABLE had early speed, but tired. AULULARIA quit badly.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. The Hill Top. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 6:22. Off at 6:24. Winner, W. J. Salmon's blk. c. SWINFIELD BLAZES TRAIL FOR WOODCRAFT.

SWINFIELD, allowed to settle fully in his best stride before being sent up into contention, reached WOODCRAFT with good speed and, urged hard when moving into the lead the last furlong, had to be shaken up nearing the finish. WOODCRAFT had keen early speed, was rated in front, saved ground and came again in the final sixteenth. ARMAGEDDON, placed forwardly, weakened slightly when straightened into the home stretch and was not persevered with when he could not get to the first two. BLACK ABBOT held on well. SUN CRAIG was never a serious factor under his impost. FORTUNATE YOUTH quit. FINITA was jumped on and suffered lacerations.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 6:56. Off at 6:58. Winner, G. C. Brenton's br. g. RUBAN ROUGE MAKES FAVORITE BACKERS SEE RED.

RUBAN ROUGE, going greatly improved, raced far back for the first six furlongs, reached his field rapidly when put to a drive disposed of IMBROS at the final furlong pole and drew out at will thereafter. IMBROS moved into the lead when reaching the far turn, but was unable to cope with the winner. MAINSHEET finished gamely. BOYISH BOB was unable to hold command when put to punishment. FOREST LORE made up some ground. COTTAGE BOY was outrun. CAPE FEAR and IMMORTAL quit badly.

BILLY BARTON SHOWS FIELD TO POST IN CHASE

Hugh Miller, Post Staff Photographer.

Serving as lead pony in the jumping classic that bears his name, Howard D. Bruce's gelding Billy Barton, which finished second in the Grand National in 1928, is pictured above on the way to the post at Pimlico yesterday. The long shot winner of the race, Nicias, is the gray gelding, third horse in the line.

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Pimlico Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 1.—The $5,000 added Pimlico Nursery, which will feature the Maryland Jockey Club's program tomorrow, may go a long way in deciding just which was the second best juvenile in Maryland this spring. Vander Pool already has been acclaimed the champion. He won't be seen under colors at this track.

FEATURE RACE.

Nine are entered in the Nursery, which will be decided over the 4½-furlong course. Present indications are that the race will be run over a fast track.

The "Big Four" in the race are HAPPY SCOT, a handy winner of his last two starts; GIGANTIC, victor in the Pimlico Home Bred Stakes last Tuesday; UP, runner-up to Gigantic and Equipose, third to Vander Pool and Up in the Aberdeen Stakes at Havre de Grace.

Our choice to win tomorrow's feature is HAPPY SCOT. This fleet son of Scotch Broom and Felicitation raced the same day GIGANTIC won the Home Bred, and while he was timed one-fifth of a second slower than the Davis colt, he won very easily. GIGANTIC and UP finished first and second, respectively, in the Home Bred, and they were both driving from the barrier's rise to the end.

We prefer GIGANTIC over UP because he breaks from an inner position. UP, leaving from the outside, will have to take all the worst of it unless he beats the gate. EQUIPOISE closed a lot of ground in the Aberdeen Stakes, but he couldn't get close to UP.

FIRST RACE—KALEIDOSCOPE evidently doesn't come up to the standard required of horses that carry the W. M. Jeffords silks. Although he is a maiden he has raced fairly well with good company on two occasions. Breaking from No. 1 position he has an excellent chance of whipping the maiden platers he will meet in the day's opener. HEDGIE'S last effort at Havre de Grace was fair. He breaks from the middle of the pack. JOLLY KING has a good chance but he begins none too fast and he will break from the outside. ALPINE GIRL has only to repeat her last race to be close up.

SECOND RACE—NEWTON shapes up as the most probable winner of the day. His one race at Havre de Grace was all he needed to put him on edge for his best effort. He hasn't much to beat in tomorrow's second race, a mile and 70 yard dash for maiden platers and he is nicely weighted. MORLEY went well in a maiden affair here Tuesday. He closed a lot of ground in the stretch. WILD FOWL may have condition on FALLACIOUS. The latter is reported as having worked fast.

THIRD RACE—FAIR BETH disappointed Wednesday. She backed up after showing nice early speed. Remembering her good race to Sweet Sentiment at Havre de Grace we are going to give her another chance. FAIR BETH is a 4-year-old. She has a little best of the weights in the mile and 70 yards Chincoteague Purse, third number for horses foaled in Maryland. SNELBOC may be the one to beat. FAIR BETH held SNELBOC safe at Havre de Grace. She should do it again. BLACK PATRICIA is a mudder, but mudders have been racing well over this track. It has a very soft cushion. COLOSSAL'S route running ability is in question. She is better suited in the fourth race, we believe.

FOURTH RACE—PHILLIP has only to repeat his last winning effort at Havre de Grace to whip the 3-year-olds he will meet in the 6-furlong Pikesville, fourth race. In that last effort he jumped to the front at the barrier's rise and only coasted to win with much to spare. COLOSSAL turned in a very good race back of Twink opening day of the meeting. He'll have to step to catch PHILLIP, nevertheless. HACKY H. may need a race before being ready for his best.

SIXTH RACE—GUILDER may be the class of the cheap platers that will travel six furlongs in the sixth number. It's a bad race. GUILDER may hop to the front and never be headed. PADDOCK showed a lot of speed in his only start at Havre de Grace. CALGARY KAY has only to repeat his last winning effort at Havre de Grace to beat FAIR BOB. The others, with the exception of CECELIA GROB, don't call for much.

SEVENTH RACE—DANGER SIGNAL should go well over a soft-cushioned track like the one the horses run over at Pimlico. And so should ROCKSLIDE. These two appear to be the class of the cheap ones named to go in the nightcap. ROCKSLIDE changed hands after his last start at Havre de Grace. JACK HAWKSLEY may show smart improvement over his last Havre race. JANE RINEHART showed a liking for this track opening day when she finished fourth in a nine-horse field.

MARYLAND NINE BEATS VIRGINIA IN LEAGUE, 8-5

Batson Wins 5th in Row On Mound

Old Liners Score Six Runs in Fifth to Clinch Game.

Radice Leads Attack for Maryland, Getting 3 Hits.

A BIG fifth inning, in which it scored six runs, carried University of Maryland's Baseball Team to an 8-to-5 victory over Virginia yesterday at College Park in a Tri-State League game of the Southern Conference. The Old Liners' league record is now 5 wins, 2 defeats, and 1 tie.

Maryland's six runs in the fifth, which gave it a 7-3 lead over the Cavaliers, who were leading, 3 to 1, when the Old Liners came to the bat in that inning, put the Terrapins ahead to stay.

Jack Batson pitched for Maryland, chalking up his fifth win in as many starts. His work on the whole was effective, though not quite up to the standard of his previous exhibitions. He allowed the Cavaliers seven hits, fanned five and walked two.

Ellis Goes Route For Virginia.

Though he was nicked for twelve hits and was unsteady, walking six and hitting one batsman, Ellis pitched all the way for Virginia and except for the fifth, got by fairly well as the result largely of bang-up support. The Cavaliers made not a single error. Maryland made three, two of them being committed by Batson.

Virginia started auspiciously when Sloan, the first batter to face Batson, socked one to deep left for a home run. Maryland tied the score in the second and then after Virginia had gone ahead by counting two runs in the fifth, the Old Liners came through with their six runs.

Julie Radice Leads Attack.

Singles by Sterling, Radice, Chalmers and Hetzel, passes to Cronin, Higgins and Gaylor and a hit batsman made up the big Old Line inning, during which eleven Marylanders came to the bat. After the fifth Maryland score one more run and Virginia two.

Julie Radice, with three hits, all singles, out of five tries, was the big shot in the Maryland attack. Hetzel, Chalmers and Wilson each got two bingles, one of Wilson's being a double.

None of the Virginia batters go more than one safety.

TECH DOWNS G. U. PREP, 3 TO 0

Wollard and Spigel Hold Preps to Win in Mound Duel.

TECH HIGH SCHOOL defeated Georgetown Prep on the Garrett Park diamond yesterday, 3 to 0, in a closely contested game in which the winners had to take advantage of every break to score their margin of victory.

The pitching for both sides was exceptionally good, Woolard and Spigel, of Tech, granting but five hits between them and Crowley, of the Preps, yielding the same number.

Tech scored one run in the first inning when, with two out, Benner tallied from second on an error. In the fifth the Manual Trainers added two more. English walked and stole second and Wills doubled him home. Wills stole and completed the circuit on Wellen's single.

FISHBURNE CADETS WIN.

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodberry Forest, Va., May 1.—Two errors and a timely hit to center by Short, visiting catcher, enabled Fishburne Military School to take a hard-fought game from Woodberry Forest here this afternoon by a 3-to-1 count. Garner, of the Cadets, and Venable, of the locals, both pitched steady ball throughout, with Woodberry touching the Garnet and Gold moundsman for eight safeties, while Fishburne gathered in but five.

Washington and Lee Beats N. C. State, 7 to 6

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., May 1.—Washington and Lee pulled a loose and ofttimes listless baseball game out of the fire here this afternoon to down North Carolina State in eleven innings, 7-6.

A wild pitch by Averette, Carolina's pitcher, allowed Cross, General second sacker, to come home with the seventh, Washington and Lee tally, a one-run victory. At the time of the wild pitch two men were down, one strike had been called on the batter and rain was beginning to fall. A ninth-inning rally for Washington and Lee brought in three runs after North Carolina State had tallied as many counters in the eighth. Hits were twelve and nine in favor of Washington and Lee. George Jenkins, pinch hitter, opened the ninth for Washington and Lee with a double which paved the way for the scoretying runs. In the eighth North Carolina scored all three runs on a triple after two batters were put away.

Today's game evened the count between the two schools, N. C. State having won an early season game at Raleigh, 8 to 4.

STEVINSON TO MEET COX IN SEMIFINALS

rated stronger than last year, especially the Chicago White Sox. The Browns and Indians, both of whom beat out the Johnsons last season, are going at a fast clip, while Bucky Harris' Tigers seem to be suffering from the same old disease—lack of pitching—although they can slug with the best of them.

The make-up of the Browns is similar to that of the Nats, both boasting a team of veterans, with Bill Killefer, the new leader, having a good mound staff. Chicago apparently has improvd in all particulars, while Peckinpaugh's Indians have both pitching and punch, although their fielding is not regarded as particularly "hot."

Should the Nats weather the approaching storm, there is no telling how high they may go. They have been riding on the crest of a wave, coming from behind anywhere from one to seven runs to win every one of the eight victories in their streak just ended, and whether or not they come back immediately, in view of the snapping of the string, will be watched with interest. Those who have watched them day in and day out believe that they have the "guts" to do so.

ALL-MARINES NINE BEATS C. U., 9-1

Young Hits Homer With Bases Full; Smith in Form.

Special to The Washington Post.

QUANTICO, Va., May 1.—The All-Marines Baseball Team ran its string of victories to six straight when it overwhelmed Catholic University here today, 9 to 1. For six innings it was a pitcher's battle between Devin, for the visitors, and "Lefty" Smith, for the Sea Soldiers, with the odds slightly favoring the Marine twirler. In the seventh, with the bases crowded, Cy Young, the Marine veteran fielder, put the game on ice when he caught one of Devin's fast ones on the end of his bat and hit to right center field for the circuit.

The Marines scored four more runs in the eighth for good measure. Billy Tolan and Young, of the home team, and Blasi and Piefer, for the visitors, were the hitting stars of the game.

Catholic's easy win of the day before over Gallaudet seemed to have reacted unfavorably on the Cardinals, for they did not exhibit their usual snap. Five miscues were chalked up against them.

But for Young's homer, Devin might have continued hurling the fine ball he did during the early innings. The circuit belt, however, unsteadied him and the game was placed beyond recall as far as Catholic was concerned before Al Fanjul took up the mound duties in the eighth.

Boston School's Crew Arrives to Race Plebes

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 1.—The eight-oared crew of the Browne and Nichols School, of Boston, arrived here today for the scheduled race with the Middie Plebes Saturday. The 150-pounders will be added starters. The Navy Varsity and Jayvees will be idle this week-end, but will see action next week in their annual brushes with Syracuse sweepsters.

More than average interest is being taken in tomorrow's junior event because of the reputation of New Englanders, unbeaten in three years and with a victory over an English crew to their credit. So confident are they of trimming the Navy Plebes that it was at their suggestion that the Navy lightweights have been entered to make it a three-cornered affair. The race will be over the Hendley distance of a mile and five-sixteenths.

NORTHERNS VS. HUME SPRINGS

The Northern A. C. will travel to Hume Springs Sunday to meet the Hume Springs Team at 3 o'clock. Jewett and Giavonnetti will be the Northern battery. All Northern players will meet at Vic's Sport Shop at 1 o'clock.

STRONGER WESTERN CLUBS FACING NATS

taking a midiron, was in the center of the fairway, not far from the green. Stevinson played out of the trap into another trap beyond the green and was not out in 3. Then he pitched on the green and holed a 10-foot putt for a 5. Pitts took three disastrous putts from a distance of 40 feet and only secured a half. The long-drawn-out contest came to an end when, on the twentieth green, Stevinson, with two putts, scored a par 3, and Pitt, who had played from off the green to within 4 feet of the cup, missed his putt.

Extended Struggles Mark Tourney.

Many other extended struggles marked the various rounds during the day, notably a 21-hole battle between Dr. W. R. McLister and O. C. Murray, both members of the home club. Murray, with all even at the eighteenth, had a chance to win on the home green, but took three putts, and then lost on the decisive hole when he put his tee shot into a trap. A twenty-hole struggle marked the round between Everett Eynon, Columbia, and E. P. Wesley, Congressional, by virtue of which Eynon survived to the semifinals in the second sixteen.

The elimination of Pitt, Mackenzie, Page Hufty and McCallum marked the upsets of the play in the first sixteen. Hufty, after winning his morning match from John R. Slattery, of Georgetown University, was defeated by Nicholson on the final green of the afternoon round. The cards of Pitt and Stevinson were as follows:

BEARS SEND STOCKS DROPPING HEADLONG

Losses of 3 to 18 Points Are Experienced as All Groups Sag.

RAILS, STEELS HARD HIT

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—The celebration of May Day on the New York Stock Exchange proved to be entirely in the hands of the bear faction. Giving the market only a brief respite at the outset, the operators for the decline continued to hack large chunks from the prices of leading investment shares and net losses of 3 to 9 points were common among the prominent rails, industrials and utilities, some of the more volatile issues, as usual, tumbling considerably more.

Railroad and steel shares were again the most vulnerable, the persistence and strength of the attack, which has now been proceeding with only minor interruptions for about a fortnight, was well illustrated by the toboggan ride taken by U. S. Steel. This market leader sold in large blocks, broke below 180, its previous resistance point, halting its decline at 178, or 6 points net lower. The close was fractionally above the bottom.

Despite the widespread character of the movement, price indices showed that the losses were slightly less than on Monday, which saw the largest since late in December. Volume was well below the 5,000,000-share mark, and only about 100,000 shares above yesterday's total, but final prices were generally at the lowest of the day and new minimums for the year were numerous.

Rediscount Rate Reduced.

The day's news contained several significant items most of which affected the credit outlook. Most important was the reduction in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate to 3 per cent, after cuts had been made by the Central Banks of England and France. This step rather surprised financial circles, which have been viewing the outlook for money with considerable equanimity, but it was seen as another move in the reserve system's easy money program inaugurated after the stock market crash as an aid to business recovery.

Another surprise, marketwise, was the $57,000,000 gain in brokers loans to a total of $4,274,000,000, which contrasts with $5,532,000,000 at this time a year ago. In view of the rather steady decline in prices during the past week Wall Street generally had expected the loan figures would show a decrease. The compilation, however, includes business only through last Tuesday.

Brushing aside the basically favorable news from London and Paris, as well as a reduction in bankers' acceptances and the prospects of a further cut in this paper tomorrow, operators for the decline waded into the rails with particular vigor. Southern Railway was pushed down to 101¼, the lowest since 1925, although it recovered about 1½ from the bottom to close 2½ lower. Losses of 2 to 7 points, net, in Atchison, Rock Island, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Northern Pacific, New York Central, Louisville & Nashville, Missouri Pacific, Erie, Missouri, Kansas & Texas and Reading demonstrated the breadth and strength of the selling in response to the cumulative effect on unfavorable first quarter earnings statements.

J. I. Case Loses 18 Points.

Pressure was also exerted against such leaders as American Can, Union Carbide, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, General Electric, Westinghouse, Radio, Eastman Kodak and National Biscuit, down 2 to 6 points. J. I. Case lost 18 points; Auburn Auto, 9, and Columbian Carbon, 8. Canadium, steel ex dividend, was down 7, and Bethlehem more than 2 points at the day's lowest figures.

Oils were unsettled by the reduction in Pennsylvania Crude prices. Standard of New Jersey fell 3 points, and Houston 7. Pierce, which is being linked with Sinclair in merger was firm.

The money market was fairly easy. Demand loans, which have held at 4 per cent over the month-end period largely because of gold imports, remained at that figure. But time money was lower.

Commodity prices were little changed, although the trend was lower. Cotton closed irregular, while May wheat reached a new low and corn sagged slightly.

Foreign exchanges were steady with the leading European rates virtually stationary despite the bank rate revisions.

BOND SALES RALLY AS PRICES ADVANCE

Convertibles Are Uneasy, While Carriers Score Several Gains.

REDISCOUNT RATE CUT

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Cheaper money strengthened the bond market today, and the first day of the new month brought the largest turnover in two weeks, with rails leading the advance, in contrast to the decline in rails on the stock market.

The general tone of the market was considerably improved as news of further easing of money rates brought sales of $14,850,000, the greatest since April 16. The cut in rediscount rates by Paris and London, lowering of bankers' acceptances and the reduction of time money rates were the stimulating factors.

Further easing of the money market with a beneficial effect on bonds was assured when the Federal Reserve Bank of New York cut the rediscount rate to 3 per cent, after the close today. The general trend of conditions affecting bonds was regarded as presaging a favorable market for the sale of the German reparation issue by the Bank of International Settlements.

Union Pacific and Southern Railway led the advance by the more popular railroad liens, with gains of more than 1½ points. Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Rock Island 4½s, Lehigh Valley, Pennsylvania Consolidated 4½s and Wabash 4½s were strong.

The movement among convertibles was irregular, as some were influenced by the decline of stocks. Atchison 4½s, American Telephone 4½s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, International Telephone 4½s and Warner Bros. Pictures 6s sold off from a fraction to 3 points, while General Theaters 6s were steady.

Utilities remained practically stationary, while leading industrials were slightly off and second-grade issues dull.

Fractional gains were made by United States Governments on nominal sales, the heaviest being in Liberty fourth 4½s and Treasury 3¾s. The demand for foreign issues was moderate and the prices firm.

LANSTON MONOTYPE EARNS $862,785.55

Share Profits of $14.38 Are Shown in Report to Annual Meeting.

$66,594.90 GAIN IS SEEN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Lanston Monotype Machine Co. earned $14.38 per share for the year ending February 28, 1930, and its profits for the year, after depreciation and taxes, were $862,789.55, a gain of $66,594.90 over the previous year, it was reported folowing the annual meeting of the company yesterday at Alexandria, Va.

The company again ended its fiscal year with no bills or accounts payable and no liabilities other than $67,556.07 of thrift notes issued under a plan to encourage employes' savings. Current assets are 82 times the current liabilities and 92 per cent of outstanding capital stock, it was reported. Cash on hand and call loans total $1,612,985.18, an increase during the year of $427,656.52.

The report stated dividends paid for the year were $390,000, this including an increase for the last quarter in the regular rate per share from $6 to $7 per annum, also an extra dividend for the quarter of 25 cents a share. The new regular rate and the extra have been maintained in the first quarter of the new fiscal year.

For the sixth consecutive year there was an increase in the volume of sales of monotype products. Foreign business is increasing. The financial statement shows the company has $6,000,000 stock outstanding of an authorized issue of $10,000,000 and a balance on hand March 1, 1930, of $4,532,592.68. A large majority of stock is held here.

Following the stockholders' meeting, directors organized. Officers of the company are J. Thilman Hendrick, of this city, chairman of the board; Harvey D. Best, of Philadelphia, former local resident, president; T. Frank Morgan, vice president; John A. Ferguson, secretary; Allen R. Fretz, assistant secretary; Joel G. Clemmer, treasurer; Harvey W. Monks, assistant treasurer.

Directors are H. D. Best, M. C. Branch, Richmond, Va.; Karl W. Corby, of W. B. Hibbs & Co., Washington; John W. Drye, jr., New York City; J. Thilman Hendrick, Washington; Adrian H. Larkin, New York City; Royal T. McKenna, local attorney; W. Usher Parsons, New York City, and Geor e W. White, president of the National Metropolitan Bank, of this city.

The business review of Y. E. Booker & Co., investment bankers, of this city, states that "April returns, when they begin to be available around May 10 should look much better than those for March, which barely maintained seasonal improvement.

"The steel and other underlying industries may soon feel the results of large-scale public building programs. Inclusion of Easter in April instead of March will give merchandising reports a better appearance. While the depression will doubtless prove a little longer than originally anticipated, there is no ground for undue pessimism. If necessary, the Federal Reserve could again decrease its rate, but this will probably be done only as a last resort."

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 1 (A.P.).—Crowded conditions of grain elevator storage space resulted today in sharp breaks in prices. May delivery of wheat outdoing any other record heretofore this season. The tumble in values followed announcement that railroad track deliveries of grain in Chicago would hereafter be valid under an emergency ruling, and that warehouse receipts would be unnecessary. In this connection, reports were current that huge holdings of wheat congesting elevators here were likely to be loaded out into railroad cars and offered in settlement of May delivery contracts.

After collapsing to within ¾c of $1.00 a bushel for May contracts, the wheat market rallied somewhat and closed unsettled at exactly yesterday's finish to ¾c off. Corn closed unchanged to 1c down, with oats varying from ½c decline to ¾c advance, and provisions showing 2c to 10c gain.

Contributing to acute weakness which developed at one stage in wheat values today were first-of-the-month deliveries of much more than usual magnitude. Before trading had ended the total of such deliveries in Chicago amounted to 5,362,000 bushels, and the aggregate for all the leading markets, including Chicago, was about 10,000,000 bushels. At first, however, the market was undisturbed about May deliveries, and even paid little heed temporarily to emergency measures being taken in regard to overcrowding of elevators here. The seriousness of the grain storage problem, though, was soon pressed home by the fact that corn prices began to slide downward because of sudden curtailment of demand for corn, a result of lack of immediately available warehouse space here.

Semidemoralization of prices quickly spread from corn to wheat. Then came a report that there was about 9,000,000 bushels of wheat in private elevators here which owners were hoping might be taken by Farm Board allies in exchange for May delivery contracts. Talk was heard that in case such an exchange was not brought about, as much as 5,000,000 bushels might be taken from the elevators and disposed of through track deliveries under distressed circumstances. The outlook that such a procedure would form a burden on the market resulted in more than wiping out early price gains which had resulted from apparent ready absorption of wheat on May contracts here and from good-sized new export business in North American wheat.

Corn as well as wheat showed an upward trend at first, but tumbled badly later after announcement that track deliveries of corn and all grain including wheat would be permitted on May contracts. Oats were unsettled by the action of other cereals and by narrowing of the May-July spread in oats prices.

Provisions rose on account of upturns in hog values.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank today reduced its rediscount rate to 3 per cent from 3½. The reduction was unexpected in financial circles, although the Bank of England and the Bank of France had cut their rates earlier in the day. NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Early advances on continued covering by nearmonth shorts were followed by reactions from the season's highs. May contracts, after selling up to 16.50, or 23 points net higher, reacted to 16.38 under realizing, while the new October sold off from 14.90 to 14.66 and closed at that figure. May closed at 16.49, or 11 points up from the lowest and 13 points net higher, with the general market closing steady net 13 points higher to 18 points lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 11 points, with the advance soon extending to 16.71 for July, or 22 points over the highest, while new buying carried up to 15.03 during the early trading, or about 13 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

Houses with European connections were buyers of near months against sales of later deliveries, presumably to transfer hedges, and there seemed to be some buying of May against sales of July by trade interests.

New-crop months were very slow to follow the advance, owing to a favorable view of present crop prospects in the South, and the widening of the differences between near and late months seemed to bring in some realizing in July. The demand tapered off, and there were reactions during the early afternoon which carried July off to 16.47, or 2 points net lower, and new December to 14.77, making a net decline of 13 points.

Near months showed rallies of 11 to 13 points at the close on renewed covering, but later deliveries closed at about the lowest prices of the day. The closing quotations for May were 11 points under July and 183 under the new October.

At the close in Liverpool the July quotation is there was 27 American points under the price in New York, and this difference seemed to have a tendency to check the demand for July here. A private report pointing to a decrease of 4.2 per cent in acreage was published during the day, but stated that correspondents expected a reduction of about 9 per cent in the use of fertilizer and appeared to be without much effect upon the immediate market. Liverpool reported covering and trade calling in that market, but said Manchester was perturbed by threats by India that existing contracts for shipment of cotton goods might be canceled.

Sales today, 5,850 bales, making 6,263,577 so far this season. Port receipts, 5,964. United States port stocks, 1,657,650.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Cities Service.

S. K.—I have some money to invest and am thinking of placing it in Cities Service, but before doing so I would like your advice.

Answer—Cities Service appears to be an excellent investment in which to place your funds. The company has just reported record-breaking earnings for the twelve months ended with March, showing an increase of 41 per cent over those for the preceding similar month. Earnings for March showed a large increase, gaining 64 per cent over the like month of last year. On the average number of shares outstanding, income for the twelve months was equivalent to $1.31 as compared with $1.14. The earnings gained for March of 64 per cent is regarded as most satisfactory in view of the drop in revenues reported by many other companies. Cities Service pays its stockholders 30 cents in cash and 6 per cent in stock, making it an attractive investment for the long term.

D. C. F.—I have been following your column closely and am writing for your opinion on Bullard Co. stock.

Answer—This stock may be considered a good investment for long-term possession. Earnings last year were equal to $3.60 a share, and the outlook is considered good in view of the royalties coming in on a process for metal finishing. This process is responsible for the lowering of manufacturing costs which should be reflected in larger earnings this year. Dividends of $1.60 a share per year are paid on the stock and with larger revenues predicted for 1930, the stock appears to be in a favorable position as to dividends.

Consolidated Gas.

F. R.—Do you consider Consolidated Gas a gilt-edge investment for one to place $5,000 in?

Answer—Consolidated Gas may be considered a high grade investment issue meriting long term holding. Directors placed the common stock on a $4 dividend basis last December, increasing the rate from $3. Income in 1929 equaled $4.75 a share on the common, as against $4.52 in 1928. The company will spend about $75,000,000 this year on improvements, &c., and expects to reflect a saving of $10,000,000 in 1930 through unified operation of properties. Rumors have been prevalent for months that the company would acquire the Brooklyn Union Gas Co., but nothing along this line has transpired to date, although there is a likelihood that such a merger will eventually take place.

Amercian Woolen.

J. R.—I have some American Woolen preferred stock and would greatly appreciate your opinion about it. I notice from the last report of the company that they have resources of over $100,000,000 and a surplus of between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. Yet the stock has not paid any dividends for some time and has been selling at around $40 or less. Would you hold or sell it? What do you think of General Electric special stock as a safe and conservative investment?

Answer—While all you say concerning American Woolen Co. is true, earnings have shown a steady downward trend since 1923, the report for year ended December 31, 1929, showing a net loss of $4,228,190, compared with a net loss of $1,262,236 in 1928. Balance sheet showed improved financial position with a reduction in inventories from $46,148,309 in 1928 to $28,654,327 in 1929. The figures of earnings sufficiently explain failure to pay dividends and current low selling price of stock.

Can not advise as to whether you should hold or sell. General Electric Special is not to be classified as a "safe and conservative investment." Dividends of 15 cents a share quarterly are paid on the issue, but notwithstanding that fact, the stock is highly speculative.

City Stores and Others.

Mrs. M. B. T.—Please give me your opinion of the following stocks as an investment: City Stores, Willys Overland, Seagrave Corporation.

Answer—Willys Overland recently omitted the common stock dividend due at this time, consequently that issue is completely eliminated from consideration as an investment. City Stores, at the latest payment, reduced its quarterly dividend from 2b cents to 12½ cents per share. Naturally, this renders the stock less attractive from an investment viewpoint than it has hitherto been. Seagrave, on which quarterly dividends of 30 cents a share are regularly paid, either in cash or in stock at the option of the stockholder, is considered the most attractive in this low-priced group. However, not one of the issues is to be classified as an investment, they are rather speculative investments.

Florsheim Shoes; Others.

O. G. M.—I am considering buying some stock, but want to investigate before investing. Do you regard the following stocks as investments, or just a good business man's speculation: Florsheim Shoe 6 per cent preferred, West Penn Electric 7 per cent preferred, Firestone Tire & Rubber 6 per cent preferred, Goodyear Tire & Rubber 7 per cent preferred? What do you think of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad adjustment 5s of 2000 as an investment?

Answer — The preferred stocks named are to be regarded in the nature of at least fairly conservative investments. They are not, generally speaking, at all speculative. All are selling at prices now to yield substantial returns on the investment, this being especially true of Firestone Tire & Rubber and Goodyear Tire & Rubber preferred issues. However due to the uncertainties surrounding the rubber and tire industry, these stocks can not be considered as stable as West Penn Electric 7 per cent preferred. Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific adjustments are looked upon as fair in the semi-investament group of railroad bonds.

Corn Products.

J. V. I bought Corn Products during the crash and I would like to know what you think of this stock from an investment viewpoint.

Answer—Earnings of Corn Products for 1929 are estimated at between $5.50 and $6 a share on the common stock. This would compare with $4.35 a share in 1928. While earnings for the first quarter of 1930 are not expected to be as good as those for the same term last year, the outlook for this company appears favorable, because of the greater use of corn sugar for rayon.

The regular annual dividend was increased from $2 to $3 last July, in addition to which extra dividends are being paid, making total disbursements at the rate of $3.75 a share on the stock. Corn Products may be regarded as a speculative investment holding suitable for long-term possession.

ARLINGTON STUDIES POSTOFFICE PLAN

Chamber of Commerce Will Discuss Need of Central Building.

PATRONS' IDEA SOUGHT

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The establishment of a central postoffice building for Arlington County will be one of the principal topics of discussion at the quarterly meeting of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, according to an announcement made last night by the president, Ashton C. Jones, following a meeting of the executive committee.

President Jones quoted from a letter from Lorel N. Morgan, acting First Assistant Postmaster General, which says: "Of course, it is understood that under your plan a sepatrate and distinct postoffice, independent of the Washington postoffice, is contemplated, which may harmonize sectional differences. The question arises, however, as to what the attitude of the patrons is in this respect, and I would be pleased to have you advise me concerning this and to receive an expression of opinion from you as to where a Federal building should be erected to serve the entire territory in an economical and efficient manner, and be satisfactorily located in order to take care of the future growth of the county."

President Jones declared there was nothing that would be of greater benefit to Arlington County than a central postoffice building.

Among other subjects to be discussed at the quarterly meeting which the committee last night voted to hold on the night of May 15 in the board rooms in the Rees Building at Clarendon are: The proposed bond issue for a county-wide sewerage system, the proposed school bond issue, and the raising by the chamber of the remainder of the funds needed to purchase rights of way for the Lee boulevard.

County officials will be invited to discuss and explain the proposed plan for the sewerage bond issue and members of the County School Board will be invited to attend and discuss the proposed school bond issue.

Speaking at the luncheon meeting of the Arlington Rotary Club held yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club, County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp stressed the need for the enlargement of a number of the elementary schools and the Washington Lee High School as detailed in the program for the proposed bond issue totaling $640,000.

Declaring that there are now more than 1,300 students crowded into the Washington Lee High School which has a capacity under normal conditions of 850 and that the same conditions exist at a number of the elementary schools, Mr. Kemp stated the condition which would follow the failure of the bond issue would mean that the children of Arlington County could not be given the educational facilities which they are justly entitled to.

As explained by Mr. Kemp, the bond issue provides for additions to schools as follows:

Washington Lee High School, 42 rooms, $255,000; Henry Clay School, 4 rooms, $22,500; Stonewall Jackson School, 4 rooms, $22,500; James Monroe School, 4 rooms, $25,000; Nellie Custis School, 4 rooms, $22,500; Patrick Henry School, 4 rooms, $20,000; Woodmount School, 2 rooms, $12,000; Jefferson Colored School, 4 rooms, $20,000. Furniture and equipment for the above schools, $15,000. Refunding former debts for capital outlay, $225,000.

Mr. Kemp stated that the petitions are now being circulated.

The club completed its plans to attend the annual district conference which meets in Richmond, Va., May 8 and 9.

The plans are, it is stated, for the club to leave in a bus following the luncheon meeting next Thursday. The bus has been furnished by Leon Arnold, a member of the club and the president of the Washington, Maryland & Virginia Coach Co.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth left for New York yesterday, where he will confer with J. W Thompson, an expert bonding attorney whose approval is necessary on the petition asking for a bond election for the installation of a county-wide trunk line sewerage system totaling $2,173,089.

Following the approval of Mr. Thompson, the petition will be submitted to Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Circuit Court, who will set the date for the holding of the election.

According to Edward Duncan, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, it is hoped to have the election date set for Monday, June 9.

With more than 3,000 persons yet to pay their poll taxes that they may qualify to participate in the Democratic primary to be held early in August, attention is called to the fact that but two days remain, Saturday being the last day in which they can be paid.

County Treasurer E. Wade Ball has announced that he will keep his office at the Courthouse open Saturday afternoon until 4:30 and that he will have a full force of his deputies on hand to take care of the last comers.

According to an announcement last night by S. P. Vanderslice, principal of the Washington-Lee High School, the school will be represented in the State finals in the literary and athletic contest which opens today at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

Those who will represent the school are:

Rial Rose, in spelling; Griffiths Barry, in reading; Eleanor King, in reading for girls; Bettsy Cannon, in public speaking for girls, and Rogar Beebe, in public reading for boys.

The debating team consists of Edward Davidson, George Tabor, Joseph Strobel and Walter Thomas.

This group will be accompanied by Mrs. Marie Malott.

Those representing the school in the athletic events are: Howard Crouch, Paul Fisher, Pierce Bragg, Earnest Hagan, Stanley Mortimore, Roland Manning and George Tabor.

This group will be accompanied by E. H. Richardson, physical director at the school.

Mr. Vanderslice announces that he will accompany the students on their trip. He stated that this is the first time that Arlington County has been represented in this contest.

What promises to be the event of the season in Lyon Park starts tonight when the minstrel show which has been planned under the leadership of the committee from the Lyon Park Citizens Association headed by Thomas P. B Lowell and Rufus Trice.

The delegates go to the convention instructed to cast a unahimous vote for the reelection of J. E Spaulding as county chairman, providing he is eligible.

The question of the eligibility of Mr. Spaulding arises, according to members of the precinct committee, over the question of whether Mr. Spaulding, since annexation became effective, is now a resident of the City of Alexandria.

The delegates from Clarendon Precinct, No. 1 elected at the meeting held last night in the real estate office of J. MacPherson are C. W. Clever, E R. Fallin, C. W. Harris, Harold E. Stelle, Mrs. C. Cruise Arranged For Midshipmen

Annual Training Voyage to Carry Naval Men to Foreign Ports.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 1.—Joy pervades the ranks of the regiment of midshipmen tonight, following the announcement by Naval Academy authorities that the annual summer practice cruise of the embryo officers will be to foreign waters, instead of a coastal junket along either the Atlantic or Pacific, both of which were under consideration.

Formal sanction of the foreign trip awaited the return of Secretary of the Navy Adams from the naval armament conference, and it came forward today. Battleship Division 2 of the scouting fleet, consisting of the Arkansas, Florida and Utah, will be used for the cruise. Approximately 1,500 midshipmen will go.

The squadron will sail from Annapolis June 6, the day following commencement day, and the first stop will be Cherbourg, France, June 21. Ten days will be spent there, during which the midshipmen will be permitted to visit Paris.

MAN FOUND GUILTY IN AUTO FATALITY

Verdict of Manslaughter Against Ridenbaugh Given by Cumberland Court.

ATTORNEY IS ACQUITTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 1.—John W. Ridenbaugh, 21 years old, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Emma Alburtis, 72, widow of Othio Alburtis, in an automobile accident, was found guilty today by Judge Albert A. Doub, before whom he was tried Tuesday and who had the case under advisement. He was defended by Albert A. Doub, jr., attorney, son of Judge Doub.

The State charged that the accident occurred when Ridenbaugh, who was driving with a party of young women, ignored a stop sign at Hipptop drive and Louisiana avenue, and that he was driving recklessly. He struck a car operated by Mrs. Deborah Burkett, who had Mrs. Alburtis as a passenger.

The first of the five automobile accident cases involving manslaughter on the docket of this term of court, tried yesterday, resulted in acquittal by a jury of Hernden R. Athey, young attorney, of Keyser, W. Va., charged with having caused the death of Miss Dorothy Dixon, of Keyser, while riding with Athey, near Dawson, this county.

The third case, that of William Dundee, 28, charged with having caused the death of Miss Gertrude H. Harris, daughter of Dr. Edward Harris, went on trial today with defense witnesses on the stand at the time of adjournment.

Miss Harris, a former art student in Washington, who was taking a special course in art at the time of her death, was riding with Dundee when his car hit a culvert at the foot of Long Hill, in the Cumberland suburbs. Dundee, himself was injured and was placed under arrest in a hospital. He denied that any in his party, which included another machine, had been drinking.

BONDING GRAFT LAID TO POLICE OFFICIALS

60-Mile Prince Georges Speed Cases Reduced Later, A. A. A. Charges.

MONEY SPLIT CLAIMED

While Sergt. J. J. Cassidy, of the Maryland State Police, was in Upper Marlboro yesterday checking the number of 60-mile speed cases which had been reduced to 40-mile cases when they reached court, the American Automobile Association was presenting to Maryland officials a protest against the alleged "bonding racket" in Prince Georges County.

The association wrote to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie; Col. E. Austin Baughman, commissioner of motor vehicles, and the Prince Georges County Commissioners asking that the condition be remedied.

The association charges that a number of motorists have been arrested on charges of exceeding a speed of 60 miles an hour and made to post bond of $1,000, for which they have to pay $100, and that when the case reaches court, the charge is changed to exceeding 40 miles, which is a collateral offense and does not necessitate bond, the bondsman keeping his commission, however. The automobile association charges that county police officials have been receiving commissions from the bondsmen.

The result of Sergt. Cassidy's search of the court records was not made public yesterday, but it is known that there are several such cases on the court records.

The charges were made in Hyattsville branch of county police court Wednesday when it was revealed that Sergt. Cassidy had been working as an investigator when he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown on charges of exceeding 60 miles an hour. It was alleged that Brown called the bondsman and that the bondsman later told the State policeman that he would endeavor to have the deputy sheriff cut down the speed charge.

When the case was called in court the papers charged exceeding 40 miles, and the bonding charge was introduced into the evidence at the insistence of Attorney Charles C. Collins, of the automobile club legal staff. The speed charge was dismissed by Judge J. Chew Sheriff, who declined to comment on the bonding matter, saying that it was not one for his court to decide upon.

Dr. Fred Norris, of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, will speak on "Medical Mission Needs in Latin America" tonight before the men's Bible class of the Hyattsville First Presbyterian Church at the home of O. A. Kitchin.

ASH LAWN OPENING TAKES PLACE TODAY

Historic Monroe Home to Be Viewed by Students From New York.

SCHOOL HEAD WILL TALK

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 1.—Formal opening of Ash Lawn, for 26 years the home of James Monroe, will occur tomorrow. The dedication, set for Monday of this week, the 172d anniversary of the birth of the fifth President of the United States, was postponed in order to permit a delegation of children from the James Monroe High School, New York City, to participate in the ceremonies.

Forty-seven pupils of the James Monroe School left New York at 9 o'clock this morning and spent the afternoon on a sight-seeing trip in Washington, and tonight visited the Congressional Library. Leaving the Capital at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning the pupils will reach Charlottesville shortly after noon and go to the Monticello Hotel for luncheon.

Buses will convey the party to Monticello, home of Jefferson, and thence to Ash Lawn, the Monroe home, where visitors will be greeted by members of the senior class of Lane High School, this city.

The New Yorkers will be formally welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Jay W. Johns, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who have rescued the fine old establishment from the continuous process of barter and trade, and made it available to the general public as a landmark of especial significance and historic value. Assisting the owners in greeting the children will be Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoes, of Washington, D. C., a descendant of Monroe.

Brief addresses will be made by Dr. James G. Johnson, superintendent of the Charlottesville public schools, and by Martin L. Wilson, professor of history and chairman of social studies at the James Monroe High School.

Leaving Ash Lawn the visitors will be escorted through the grounds and buildings of the University of Virginia and at 5:30 will board a Southern Railway train for Washington, where another day will be spent sightseeing. Visits will be made to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Pan-American Union Building, the Washington Monument, the White House, the old National Museum and other places. The afternoon program calls for a trip through Alexandria to Mount Vernon.

FAIRFAX DISCUSSES ROADS FINANCING

Highway Between Annandale and Pohick Affects Three Districts.

NEW ROUTE CONSIDERED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Mount Vernon, Lee and Falls Church districts was held in the Parish Hall at Pohick yesterday to discuss the proposed hard surfaced road from Annandale to Pohick, via the Rolling road. Figures prepared by the county engineer were read, which showed that the cost of the route along Rolling road would be approximately $109,659. This is an increase of $28,159 over the cost of the first proposed route by the way of Newington.

It appeared to be the general opinion of the persons present that it would be almost impossible to carry a bond issue in either Lee or Mount Vernon districts at this time, for the improvement of either route, as both routes lay on the edge of each district. The figures prepared showed that if a bond issue were voted for constructing the route by the way of Rolling road, it would mean an increase of 55 cents on the $100 valuation in Lee district, 19 cents in Mount Vernon district, and 13 cents in Falls Church district. There would be 2.5 miles to be built in Falls Church district, 3.4 miles in Mount Vernon and 4.5 miles in Lee district. This road would shorten the distance between Anandale and the lower portion of Fairfax county by twelve miles, and open up a vast undeveloped territory.

No definite action was taken at this meeting, but it was decided to hold another meeting Monday evening, May 12, in the Potters Hill school at which time the feasibility of having a bond issue in Mount Vernon district for not only the improvement of the Anandale Newington road, but also several others more centrally located, will be discussed. A committee composed of E. J. Nevitt, George Smith, Albert Smith, Frank Gillingham and W. Clare was appointed to make arrangements for the meeting.

A two-act comedy, "Sally Lunn," will be presented tonight in the schoolhouse at Colvin Run by the Anacostia Players from Washington, for the benefit of the Ladies Aid of Brown's Chapel. Mrs. John Muller has charge of arrangements. Refreshments will be served.

The pupils and teachers of the Franklin Sherman School at McLean will observe May Day and Patrons' Day today with a pageant in the morning, and an exhibit of school work and teaching in each classroom, to which all the parents are invited. Beginning at 1 o'clock in the afternoon a track meet and field day program will be held. Winners in the track meet will represent the school at the county meet May 24. Miss Jennie Tomko, Alfred Leigh and Mrs. Marjorie Snyder will be in charge of the athletic program.

Helen Downey will be the queen of May, with Margaret Schrivener and Rachael Wyant as maids of honor. An exhibition of pupils' work will be in each classroom.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Young Peoples Missionary Society of Andrew Chapel will be held tonight for a business discussion. A program will be prepared for the regular meeting next week.

The Rachel Walker Circle of the Kings Daughters and Sons will meet today at the home of William Rouse at Mount Vernon.

The pupils of the Clifton School will hold a May Day health day program at the school house today. The morning will be devoted to the patrons of the school with special exhibits of teaching and school work. The May Day program will be presented in the afternoon. Dancing will be in charge of Mrs. Wycliffe Buckley; health exercises, Miss Helen Quigg, and the music, Mrs. Helen Buckley. The high school glee club will sing several selections and the toy orchestra will play. The primary pupils will present "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" with the accompaniment by the toy orchestra. The older pupils will present several health stunts.

The annual meeting of the District H Cooperation Education Association will be held today at Lincoln, Va. Many persons from the school leagues of Fairfax County will attend. Crockett C. Carr, of Fairfax District, is chairman. Each league in District H will present a five-minute talk on subjects related to community league work. The principal speakers will be Dr. Roy K. Flannagan from the State Health Department at Richmond; Herbert Williams, of Fairfax County, and J. H. Montgomery, executive director of the Cooperative Education Association at Richmond. Election of officers for next year will be held.

Annapolis Water Workers Payless

Courts Must Unravel Snarl Brought On by Bitter Political Row.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 1.—As was anticipated, the tie-up of financial affairs of the Annapolis Water Co., due to a political snarl, continued over the month-end and office and plant officials of the company went payless. Court action to have the difficulty properly adjusted, which was foreseen, is expected to follow within a few days, according to an announcement made today by T. Roland Brown, president of the company.

In the meantime two sets of employes, the old group of Democrats and the new set of Republicans, the latter having been named with the change of political control of the board of directors, are holding forth in respective positions. The Democratic force continues to maintain custody over books and vouchers, with the Republicans daily about their jobs. Dr. Frank H. Thompson, Democratic secretary and treasurer, made out the monthly checks as customary, but President Brown declined to sign them.

Another complication arises by virtue of the banks refusing to honor any company checks until the court decrees who is entitled to hold office.

MONTGOMERY CHIEF IS ORDERED TO REST

President of County Board Is Threatened With Breakdown.

SHOW WILL TAKE PLACE

Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the Board of Montgomery County Commissioners, who became ill several days ago, has been ordered away by his physician for a short rest. He left yesterday for Cumberland, Md., where he will remain for two or more weeks.

Dr. Perry has been overworking, according to his docotr. He has been carrying on a full time job as county commissioner in charge of the Bethesda District, and at the same time caring for his extensive medical practice. The doctor became ill Sunday. In his absence, Lacy Shaw, vice president of the board, will act as president at the board meetings.

Dr. Perry is reported to have been greatly disturbed by charges that he had been misgoverning the county's affairs and he has been subjected to a tremendous strain as a result of the political fight which has been started in the county.

Reestablishment of the United States Geodetic Survey Station at Gaithersburg was forecast yesterday by Maj. William Bowie, of the survey, at a meeting of the American Geophysical Union in Washington.

The Gaithersburg station is one of four observatories scattered over the world to study the erratic wanderings of the North Pole. The parallels of latitude stray as much as 50 feet from the positions of the stars by which they are calculated, the major explained, and it is not known whether this is caused by the changing of the earth's position in space from time to time or whether the boreal point itself changes within the earth.

The Gaithersburg Observatory was opened in 1900, but was closed in 1914 when the war interfered with the work of the other stations, which are located at Ukiah, Calif.; Carleforte, an island off the coast of Sardinia, and Mususiwa, Japan.

It is almost exactly across the earth from the Japanese station, and for this reason is believed to be a valuable location. If the changes in latitude are caused by the change of the earth's position in space it would shift the latitude at Gaithersburg a few feet in the opposite direction from the shift at the Japanese station, he explained, and if this does not occur, the reason must be sought within the earth.

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, of Chevy Chase, Md., was indorsed for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Maryland at the September primary by the United Democratic Law Enforcement Clubs of Maryland at a meeting in Baltimore.

Charles Y. Latimer, of Takoma Park, Md., who was appointed clerk of the Montgomery County Police Court last Tuesday by the county commisioners, yesterday took over the office from John Culver.

Mr. Culver recently announced that he intended running for the office of county treasurer against J. Forest Walker, incumbent.

Clarence Mastbrook, 21 years old, of Massachusetts avenue, near Sixth street northeast, was arrested yesterday by Montgomery County Policeman Joseph B. Nolte on charges of transporting liquor. He was released on bond of $500 to appear in County Police Court Saturday.

Officer Nolte went out in answer to a phone call describing the suspicious actions of a motorist on the Colesville pike, near Burnt Mills. He halted Mastbrook and took him to the Silver Spring substation on charges of driving with tags belonging to another car and person, and failing to have a registration card in his possession. At the substation the policeman obtained a search warrant from Justice of the Peace Ward W. Caddington and then searched the car.

He found 336 quarts of alleged liquor and additional charge of transporting intoxicating liquor was placed against Mastbrook, police say.

The new traffic signal light at the intersection of Colesville pike, Georgia avenue and Sixteenth street extended, in Silver Spring, was completed yesterday and tried out.

The light is a traffomatic signal which is actuated by the flow of traffic. A robot in the machine keeps track of the arrival of each machine and gives the right of way in accordance with the arrival of the car.

Some difficulty was encountered in making of turns, many of the motorists making the left turn in accordance with the system used in Washington. The left turn at this intersection is made in the same manner as in other Maryland towns, that is by driving to the left, and making the turn as soon as traffic from the other direction permits.

The lights will be turned on for a 60-day demonstration today. If they prove satisfactory the county will then rent the light from the Electromatic Signal Corporation. If the light is not satisfactory, the company will remove the signal and the county will not have to pay anything for the trial period.

Divorce Suit Charges Restaurant Romance

An alleged restaurant romance was disclosed yesterday in District Supreme Court when Mrs. Mary M. Boiseau, of Emerson street northwest near Seventh, filed a petition for absolute divorce from Richard E. Boiseau, said to be an employe of Child's restaurant at 1423 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. A girl employe of the establishment is named as corespondent.

The Boiseaus were married November 23, 1921, and have three children. The wife charges that shortly after the birth of their first child the husband began a systematic course of cruel treatment. Recently, she alleges, he has been habitually associating with the other woman, squandering his money on her, and accompanying her on automobile rides at night. Attorney J William Tomlinson appears for the wife.

Woman, Ill for Months, Takes Life by Hanging

Mrs. Lillie G. Hunter, 45 years old, colored, of Ninth street near H northeast, took her life by hanging yesterday afternoon in a back room of her home. Ill health since last August was ascribed as a motive by her daughter Lottie, who discovered the body.

Policeman S. F. Cummings, of the Ninth Precinct, removed the body from a noose attached to the head of a bed. Dr. Louis Jimal, of Casualty Hospital, pronounced her dead.

Baltimore Split On Daylight Time

Critics of Mayor Declare Politics Makes Him Decline to Change.

Baltimore, May 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Politics and business clashed in a daylight saving dispute, although voluntary daylight time went into effect last Sunday.

Mayor William F. Broening, undeclared candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, still insists the city clocks can not be placed legally on daylight time. Today he said municipal employes would work on standard time. As the police operate on standard time, there is much confusion for automobile drivers in parking and traffic time regulations.

No other city or county in Maryland has daylight time. Today the mayor told a committee of business men he would cooperate as far as possible to allay time confusion. But his critics complain it is not the law, but politics that makes him obdurate. Meanwhile, some 30 or 40 per cent of the citizens' clocks are held back to standard time.

Proceeding along a road made slippery by rains, the car suddenly lurched sidewise into a fence and into a ditch beyond, tumbling over and sending the seven occupants out through the top as it spun over two more times, catching fire and burning. A passing bus brought them to Washington early last night.

State Demonstration Agent Speaks at Exercises in Leesburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., May 1.—Better Homes Week was observed in Loudoun County today with exercises at the courthouse here under the auspices of the advisory council of home demonstration clubs and the home demonstration agent, Miss Harriet T. Cocke. Mrs. W. T Smith presided. L. B. Dietrick spoke on "The Part Better Gardenc Play in Better Homes."

In the afternoon, Miss Maude E. Wallace, State home demonstration agent, spoke on "Homemakers vs. Housekeepers." She said that the ideal home maker combines efficiency in the home with interests outside the home, and by planning her work and using new methods she finds time to enjoy her home, make the house attractive, take an interest in community affairs, and have some leisure time for reading and the appreciation of music, books and pictures.

"The average homemaker," said Miss Wallace, spends 70 per cent of her time in the kitchen and these should be more convenient and attractive, with running water, attractive walls, pretty curtains, a 'rest corner,' and convenient equipment for preparing and serving food."
